

FARM NOTES.

—Good care and judgment must be exercised when feeding new oats or other grain.

—As a general thing not more than 8 cantaloupes mature upon a single vine, but a farmer friend living in South Jersey, has a vine this year on which 16 good-sized melons matured.

—Bare land unstocked and unworked is unproductive. Farmers should remember this fact, and they will be less likely to destroy their chances of profit by unwise economy in farm labor.

—Gather melons in the early morning, while the dew is still on; put them in the cool spring or well, or in cellar floor.

—If sheep are wounded on wire fence or other objects, watch the wounds carefully, and if maggots appear wash the wounds with a weak solution of carbolic acid and water.

—Oats that are to be used for hay are usually seeded and grown in the same way as oats that are to be cut for the grain; that is to say, they are seeded very early in the spring upon well-prepared land.

—Most horse owners feed too much hay. Never give a horse any more than he will eat up clean.

—Manure stains on white or gray horses are very unsightly and at times mighty hard to remove.

—Pliny said that thunder is rarely heard in winter, and that the great fertility of the soil is due to the frequency of thunder rain in spring.

—It pays to top-dress meadows directly after mowing, even with fresh barnyard manure, for though there will be some loss from evaporation, this is more than offset by the protection provided against sun and drought.

—The heifer intended for the future milk cow should not be allowed to become too fat.

—To a hard-working horse feed is almost as much a necessity as food. Unless a horse lies down regularly his rest is never complete and his joints and sinews stiffen.

—An authority says one of the relics of barbarism that anti-cruelty societies and owners should take notice of is the habit still in vogue of burning a horse's shoe on to his hoof.

—According to one of the experiment stations, it takes 25 per cent. more feed to put a pound of grain on a 350-pound hog than it does on the 130-pound hog, and 85 per cent. more feed for the pound of grain in the case of the older hog than on the 40-pound pig.

—Keep the cows free from mange. If the coat is filled with the filth common to this and other skin troubles, wash the animal frequently with warm water and laundry soap, rubbing the lather well to the roots of the hair with a stiff brush.

—Every spring strong shoots are thrown up from the gooseberry bush and these bear fruit the following season.

—The average 100 pounds of sheep will consume about four pounds of fodder corn or millet daily.

—Millet is best cut for hay when the heads first appear.

FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN.

DAILY THOUGHT.

Dare to be what you are, and to learn to resign with a good grace all that you are not and to believe in your own individuality.—Amiel.

A five-year-old girl had been working in the shrimp canneries of Florida all day when Mr. Owen Lovejoy, militant in behalf of the Child Labor Commission, came upon her and invited her to be photographed.

Schools of motherhood exist in the normal schools of France. Babies are brought to the classes and the students are taught to bathe, feed, and care for them, along with making a scientific study of the psychology of childhood.

France, like us, is stirred over the equal-pay question for teachers. A great meeting was recently held in the hall of the Societes Savantes in Paris to advocate equal pay for equal work.

A camp perched on the Palisades above the Hudson river is the hermitage of a New York business woman who found her health breaking under the stress of office work.

Half a million dollars and four years of time have been expended by the United States in preparing a report on the condition of woman and child wage-earners in our country.

With surgeons, nurses, attendants, and spectators all women operations of the most serious import are being performed under conditions which would have been counted impossible a few years ago.

Miss Anne Royall, who published a newspaper in Washington in 1825, has been honored after sixty years of oblivion by the erection of a tombstone and the placing of wreaths by various organizations.

A log cabin furnished with dry-goods boxes was the beginning of Aunt Dinah Pace's home for waifs.

For twenty-five years she has kept open house for all the little black waifs who strayed her way, and there have been over two hundred of them.

A kitchen of six feet in width, furnishing to dozens of persons as great a variety as a large city hotel might offer, is worthy the contemplation of the housewife.
