OPENING OF THE DEER HUNTING SEAson.—The deer hunting season for 1911 will open on Wednesday of next week and from present indications as many hunters from Bellefonte and Centre county as have gone on the trail in past seasons will go out this year. The Eckenroth-Gentzel party will go out in the neighborhood of the Green woods, where they have camped for a number of years past. The Panther hunting club will go out in the same section they were last year, where they killed two fine bucks. They will leave tomorrow (Saturday) morning over the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania so as to get into camp by tomorrow night. While the season does not open until Wednesday they will look over the ground on Monday and Tuesday and devote part of the time to hunting small game. In the party this year will be John L. Knisely, A. Linn McGinley, W. C. Cassidy, Harry Gerberich, Edmund Blanchard, John McGinley, George Weaver, of Bellefonte; Al Shawley, of Curtin township, and Thomas Moore and Alpine Lucas, of Philadelphia

Of course, the Centre Hall, State College, Boalsburg and Potters Mills hunting parties will all go into the Seven mountains and their chances for getting deer there are just as good as on the Allegheny mountains. The Roosevelt hunting club of Gatesburg and Pennsylvania Furnace will go onto their old camping ground near the Six Mile run. All told over two hundred Centre county hunters will go into the woods within the next four days.

As to the outlook: If all reports are correct deer are as plentiful this season as they were last. But whether or not hunters will have the same luck remains to be seen. Last year it snowed on the fourteenth day of November, so that hunters had a fresh-tracking snow for the opening of the season, and easily threefourths of the deer killed were shot on the first day. From present indications and the prediction of the United States weather bureau for continued weather of a normal temperature, such conditions will not prevail this year. Of course, there may be a snow fall before the season expires, but by that time the deer may have been chased enough to make them wary and it will be more difficult to get a good shot than it will earlier in the season. However, deer hunting is all a matter of pot luck anyway and every hunter will have to take his chance.
