

DISEASE OF HONEY BEES.—The United States Department of Agriculture calls attention to the fact that American foul brood and European foul brood has been found to exist in Centre county. The Department has no means of knowing how long the disease has existed in the region, but desires to notify bee keepers of the trouble and to suggest that, very frequently colonies of bees are destroyed by disease and the loss is attributed by the bee keeper to some other cause. Farmers' bulletin No. 442, "The Treatment of Bee Diseases," gives a description of the brood diseases and methods of treatment. It will be sent free on request to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Attention is also called to the fact that the brood diseases do not at all injure honey for human consumption, so that there need be no fear on the part of purchasers of honey.

SPRING MILLS.
Charles Haslet, of Milliford, made a business trip here on Monday last.
Roy Bartley has quit peddling groceries and accepted a position on the P. R. R. and will sell his horse, harness, wagon and sleigh cheap, as he has no use for them.

The backbone of the recent Arctic weather is said to be broken. Everybody sincerely hopes and prays that it is thoroughly broken and beyond repair, for this winter at least.
No peaches this year in Pennsylvania, so says State Zoologist Surface. But how about Delaware? The groans heretofore of no peaches in that State were generally followed by a big crop.

Mr. Detwiler since he opened his livery here has been doing quite a lively business, particularly during the recent sleighing season. The livery is in charge of Edward Winters, a very able and skillful horseman.
Edward T. Jamison made a trip to Philipsburg last week and while there sold his fine team of mules for $500. By the way, the storm Thursday last demolished the big doors on his barn, and made kindling wood out of them.

The blizzard we had in this valley on Thursday was a holy terror. Fences were knocked better skelter, trap doors blown in the fields, out houses upset, chimneys torn to pieces and the deuce knows what else. It was the worst storm we have had for many a year.

It is reported that some of our young folks contemplate having a masquerade party in Grange hall the forepart of March. A masquerade would be a great mistake, there is no end to the license in parties of that character, and for the good of all should be frowned down and avoided.

Few Bell telephones are left in Spring Mills, and less in Pennsylvally. The few remaining if not removed soon, will be torn down by the disgruntled subscribers and thrown into the wood house. Our people don't mind a little imposition occasionally, but they will not submit to a senseless extortion, nor allow themselves to be boldly swindled.

The K. G. E. had their annual banquet in their handsome and commodious hall on Wednesday evening last, and as usual on these occasions, it was very largely attended. The banquet hall was beautifully decorated and presented a charming scene. The tables were skillfully set and furnished with a profusion of dainties and substantial of a most inviting and toothsome character, to which all did ample justice. Several interesting addresses were delivered by able speakers, followed by well executed marches and drills by the Sir Knights. Music and enjoyment continued until quite a late hour when all retired to their respective homes.

Lodge No. 597, I. O. O. F. of Spring Mills, had their annual dinner in Grange hall on Thursday last, and notwithstanding the then prevailing blizzard was largely attended. The dinner was sumptuous and most inviting. The tables, three in number, extending the entire length of the hall, were artistically set and lavishly furnished with dainties of a rare and choice character. The substantial consisted of chicken and waffles, meats and side dishes of a dozen or more varieties—in brief it was a feast "fit for the gods." The I. O. O. F. orchestra enlivened the occasion with some choice selections of music. Several addresses were also delivered and the entire afternoon was one continual round of pleasure and enjoyment. In the evening the Rebekahs had their annual banquet. It was also largely attended, but of course the remarkable severity of the weather interfered very materially with the attendance. The supper was very elegantly gotten up, and the tables beautifully arranged and decorated. The menu was discussed with a gusto that left little doubt of its appreciation. Singing, music and several addresses consumed the evening until quite a late hour, when all retired to their respective homes, for the grand dual entertainment was at an end.

The thunder storm last Wednesday night was the heaviest that has passed over this section for many years, so early in the year.
Lloyd Houtz, who has been on the sick list the last few weeks, is much better again, but now his little child is ill with pneumonia.
A band of thieves broke into the house in which Abraham Evey had his pork in brine and carried away six pieces of the meat, then a few nights later they stole a lot of Phillip Bradford's chickens. It looks as if nothing was safe in these parts.

Since Hester Christ has sold about seventeen lots up near Centre Furnace mill the purchases have gotten together and selected the name of Mill Brook for the town. The reason given for the choice is the Slab Cabin creek runs down east of it and Centre Furnace stream west and the old Centre Furnace mill is near. Boom your town up, boys.

—See that the harness is properly adjusted in every particular. As the horse shrinks in flesh, adjust the harness to fit the collar. Should the harness be too loose on top, the collar will move back and forth and thus make a sore neck, and if too tight it will pinch and cause the same trouble. If the harness is too long it will bring the draft too low down, and make the points of the shoulders sore.

On Monday morning when Blair Ritter went to the barn he found his most valuable horse with its leg broken and the animal had to be killed. Blair is making sale of his stock in good shape.
The Martha and George Washington party given by the ladies of the Presbyterian church, at the Dr. Woods home, on the evening of the 22nd, was a great success. It was in the style of a colonial tea party and a delightful event.

Wm. Glenn, tenant on the Major Ross farm came near having a big blaze on Monday when his smoke house caught fire. In a short time the building and the meat of ten porkers would have gone up in smoke had it not been for the good work of the bucket brigade.

One of the swiftest gales that ever swept over this valley, was that of last Wednesday night, when the wind blew seventy miles an hour, unroofing buildings and laying waste small buildings. Lightning flashed and thunder pealed. The oldest citizens cannot recall a similar occurrence at this time of the year.
The Robert Rossman sale last Thursday was a ringer, notwithstanding the stormy weather. Bidding was brisk and auctioneer Mayes hammered stuff down quick. Horses sold as high as $220, cows $45, shoats and brood sows sold lower than last year, though shoats brought $5.50 and brood sows some over $30. Mr. Rossman moved to Hollidaysburg Monday where he and his brother will engage in the livery business.

Wilson Gets Half Oklahoma Delegates.
Contest for control of the Oklahoma delegates to the Democratic national convention, waged between Champ Clark and Woodrow Wilson campaigners, resulted in a compromise agreement whereby a split delegation will be sent to Baltimore.

The compromise was reached after an all-night contest. State politics, at times, obstructed the way to a decision. The turning point came when an amendment authorizing indorsement of Champ Clark for president was offered to a resolution which provided for a divided delegation, ten delegates for Clark and ten delegates for Wilson.

The amendment was lost by a vote of 314 1/2 to 289. This vote showed plainly to the Clark adherents that nothing remained but compromise. Thereupon the resolution for a divided delegation was adopted.
Missing Man In Jail.
John D. S. Ackenbuhl, thirty-three years old, of Pittsburg, a salesman for the Monolithic Paint company, of Cincinnati, who had been missing since Dec. 7, was found in the county jail in Camden, N. J., by Detective Schreger.

He is serving twenty days for being drunk. A reward of $2500 was offered by his brother, Alfred Ackenbuhl, a civil engineer of Palmyra, N. Y.
John registered at the Bellevue-Stratford in Philadelphia on Dec. 7 and wired his house that he would go to New York on Dec. 8, and to send his mail to the Waldorf. He came to Camden instead and got drunk. He was arrested and fined and then released. If his brother comes to claim him the police will have him released.

Woman is Killed and Mae Dying.

Jealous Boarder Shoots Landlady to Death and Fatally Wounds Himself.

Jealous of the attentions that Mrs. Catherine Bowker is alleged to have shown toward a man who had formerly boarded in the Bowker home at Cape May Court House, N. J., Joseph Pettit, who lived in the same house, shot the woman and then attempted to kill himself.
Pettit seized Mrs. Bowker and, as he clasped one hand around her throat, fired a bullet from his revolver into her head. Then he sent several bullets into his own brain. Mrs. Bowker staggered into the hallway and fell upon the floor.
Pettit dropped in the bedroom, and when neighbors reached the house he was unconscious. He was removed to a hospital. The physicians said that he would probably die. The tragedy was witnessed by a boy and a girl, who also live in the house.

Isaiah Bowker, husband of the murdered woman, is employed in the factory of the Cape May Glass company as a batch maker.
Pettit went to the Bowker house to live ten years ago and had boarded there since. According to the county authorities, he became attentive to Mrs. Bowker, but friends of the woman said that he misconstrued her friendship.

A few weeks ago another man, known as "Bert," was taken into the house by Bowker as a boarder. Pettit became jealous of him the first time he saw him speak with Mrs. Bowker. He is alleged to have told her that she had no right to become interested in any one but himself.

Bert seemed to like Mrs. Bowker, and quarrels resulted between him and Pettit. Mrs. Bowker told them not to be silly, that she was not interested in either, and that if her husband learned of the quarrels he would order both from the house.

Bert disappeared a few days ago. No one can be found who knows where he went, but he told a friend that he was going away for the sake of peace in the Bowker home. Mrs. Bowker became angry when she heard this and remonstrated with Pettit and told him that he had no right to offend Bert to such an extent.

Pettit is said to have retorted that if Mrs. Bowker would not have him he would see to it that she did not get Bert. She laughed, and that, it is believed, aroused the jealousy of Pettit.
Mrs. Bowker went into her bedroom and closed the door. Pettit followed her and apparently forced entrance to the room, where another quarrel is said to have occurred.

A boy named Parsons, who lives in the house as an adopted son, heard Mrs. Bowker scream murder. He ran up the stairs, and through the doorway saw Pettit seize Mrs. Bowker. He told the authorities that he saw him draw a revolver from his pocket and point it at the woman.

A sister of Parsons became frightened at the commotion and clung to the boy. They both looked into the room and saw, they say, Pettit shoot Mrs. Bowker. Pettit fired again and again, and two bullets missed the head of the woman and embedded themselves in a window sash.

Mrs. Bowker managed to break from his grasp. She staggered into the hall, and then Pettit fired two bullets into his head. Mrs. Bowker fell against the wall, cutting her head. The next instant she fell to the floor dead. The boy and his sister ran from the house shouting for help.

William Souders was going by the house, and he summoned Constable Hurrell. They went into the house and found the body of Mrs. Bowker. Pettit was leaning against the bed and was breathing.

Dr. Dix and Dr. Douglas were summoned. They said that Pettit was mortally wounded and that he should be removed to a hospital.
House Committee Favors Program Despite Democratic Caucus.

The committee will ask for a free hand to determine the matter for itself.
Man at 68 Has Only 16 Birthdays.
Although he was born sixty-eight years ago, Samuel B. Burger, of Allentown Pa., a former deputy internal revenue collector and the oldest Republican worker in Lehigh county, today celebrated his sixteenth birthday anniversary. The reason "Uncle Sam," as everybody in Allentown calls him, is so youthful in birthdays is that he was born on Feb. 29, having first seen the light of day in 1844.

Currant Bread

How To Make Currant Bread

Housewives who have heard about the wholesomeness of Currant Bread and know that it is as nourishing as it is "good to eat" will appreciate these two new recipes:

No. 1.—Sift 2 1/2 cups milk. When cool add three tablespoonful sugar, a little salt, and butter the size of an egg. Dissolve 1/2 compressed yeast cake in half cup warm water and add to milk. Stir in flour enough to make a batter and add one pound of currants washed and dried. Add flour. When raised knead again and place in pans for baking. Be sure to allow enough time for bread to raise in the pans.

No. 2.—Sift (do not boil) 1 1/2 cups sweet milk and one cup water. When tepid add 1/2 cake compressed yeast, two tablespoonful of sugar and a teaspoonful of salt. Stir in enough whole-wheat flour to make a stiff batter. Allow to rise. When light add one egg, one tablespoonful of melted butter, 1/2 cup of cleaned and dried currants. Beat well, then until light, and bake thoroughly.

There is nothing so good as Currant Bread for growing children. It makes ideal school lunches. That no butter is needed is also worth considering. —57-7-4t*
