Very few voters in this neighborhood take any stock in the Bull Moose party. That gang seems dead, almost before it is really born.

Our farmers have about all their hay housed, and it proved a good crop. The recent rains made the corn pop up three inches in twenty-four hours. The potatoes, too, look very healthy, likewise the wheat. All give large promises.

The creek road was never in as good condition as at present. All the low places have been filled up with stone and gravel, and in one or two places heavy oak troughs have been put under the bed of the road to drain off the water, so there can be no more huge mud puddles to wade through. Our supervisors evidently understand their business.

Well, as everybody expected, Bryan is playing the fool already. As he was unable to boss the Baltimore convention and do as he pleased, he must quarrel with some one to give vent to his spleen. His recent senseless attacks on Clark Stanchfield and others is like the lightning, it has no force or effect. We all know that Bryan is simply a bird of ill-omen.

GUTHRIE ELECTED STATE CHAIRMAN.

Adopts Resolution Putting Fusion in the Hands of the Executive Committee.

After having been divided for a year, the members of the Democratic state committee met in a harmonious session in Harrisburg, Pa.

All factions were represented, and the two men who have claimed the chairmanship, former Mayor Guthrie, of Pittsburgh, of the "reorganization" faction, and Walter E. Ritter, of Williamsport, of the "regular" faction, sat beside each other on the platform. Practically every member was present, together with many of the leaders.

Just before adjournment the committee adopted a resolution putting fusion in the hands of the executive committee. The resolution called for fusion "in districts with other parties in sympathy with Democratic aims and principles."

Mr. Guthrie called the meeting to order and said immediately after the reading of the call, that to avoid all questions as to irregularities, Mr. Ritter had also issued a call. "This action ends all schism and assures a united Democracy," said he.

Following a lively row over the committee membership from Allegheny county, in which the "old guard" element, headed by W. J. Brennan, were bowled out by a vote of 65 to 1, Mr. Guthrie was re-elected as chairman, and in a speech urged party harmony.

Mr. Ritter followed this by resigning all claim to the remaining six months of the term to which he claimed he had been elected.

The resignation was accepted and Mr. Ritter's move for harmony was commended by a resolution adopted amid cheers. A telegram from Governor Wilson, the party's presidential nominee, giving his congratulations, also caused a big demonstration.

Allegheny county's contending factions claimed the attention of the committee when the roll was called. The names of Joseph F. Guffey, a reorganizer, and four of his friends appeared on the roll, and W. J. Brennan, leader of the faction which had opposed reorganization, said another set of names had been certified, moving that a change be made. S. J. Graham of Pittsburgh, appeared in behalf of the men on the roll. Brennan contended that J. J. McKelvey, J. A. Clark, S. J. Tool, C. P. Mayer and himself had been legally elected by 270 of 310 members and the names had been certified to Mr. Ritter.

Nearly an hour was devoted to argument, which at times grew decidedly personal and bitter, ending in the Brennan crowd remaining definitely off the roll.

The Democratic leaders seemed, prior to the meeting, to be more concerned about effecting fusion with the Keystone party on congressional, senatorial and legislative nominees than on state offices, and tentatively decided, instead of putting before the committee a cut and dried program, to let the committeemen speak their minds and then give the power to effect fusion to a committee of five or seven, which can treat with the Keystone state committee.

Friends of Robert E. Cresswell, of Johnstown, nominee for auditor general, were outspoken in their opposition to having him retire in favor of Cornelius Scully, the Keystone nominee. They said that William H. Berry was the candidate of both parties for state treasurer and sufficiently represented fusion on the state offices.

Joseph Howley, George R. McLean and George B. Shaw, three of the nominees for congress-at-large, it was said, would not think of retiring, and no one seemed willing even to suggest the step to E. E. Greenwalt, of Lancaster, the labor representative.

Declares He Had Nothing to Do With Getting Son $10,000 Pob.

Secretary Wilson before a house committee categorically denied Representative Atkin's charges that his son, Jasper Wilson, was drawing $10,000 a year from a western irrigation project because of the secretary's influence.

Secretary Wilson said he had done nothing to get the position for his son and the government had not given a cent to the company. Representative Rucker, Democrat, corroborated the secretary.

Woman Leaps Seven Stories to Death.
Wearied by her struggle to provide food for her family of eight, Mrs. Mary Ernst, forty-eight years old, left the breakfast table and went to the roof of the tenement at 814 Tenth avenue, in New York, from which she jumped to the cement pavement of the araway, seven stories below. Death was instantaneous.

Neighbors say that Mrs. Ernst had been brooding over her misfortunes for the past two weeks and had threatened to kill herself.

The mother's death leaves Lena, the seventeen-year-old daughter, the only breadwinner in the family, for the father, Charles Ernst, has not worked for more than a year.
