CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY.
Service Sunday 10:45 a. m. Wednesday 8 p. m., 95 E. High street.

GOOD FOR COLEVILLE.—It is good gospel advice I continue you to give all the good people in our nearest neighbor town of Coleville. There are many there who can, but do not attend any Bible school, worshipping God in public for an hour on the Lord's day.

Christ's commission is "go" for them, and by persistent, loving effort, compel them to come in to praise the Lord and learn the "Holy Scriptures profitable for instruction in righteousness."

In that pleasant little suburb, there are immortal souls enough, old and young, for two flourishing Bible schools.

Christian co-operation, in the spirit of our Divine Master, can accomplish the desired results. "Let brotherly love continue."

SUMMER.

Oh, the golden days of summer.
When the flowers are in bloom;
And the birds are singing sweetly,
Sweet music on the winds.
But the sad days that are coming:
When the flowers fade and die,
And the golden days of summer
Fade before us as a dream.
By MARY E. GUNSHALL.

WIDOW BEFORE GRAND JURY.

Harry Vallon, Who Rode in "Murder Car" When Gambler Was Killed, Held Without Bail.

Mrs. Herman Rosenthal, widow of the gambler who was shot to death in front of the Hotel Metropole in New York city a few hours before the time he had promised the district attorney that he would bring him evidence of police blackmail, appeared before the grand jury.

Garbed in deep mourning and so weak that she could not walk unassisted, the grief-stricken woman managed, nevertheless, to stay on the witness stand until she had told a full story of the events leading up to her husband's death.

She said that Becker received 20 per cent of the profits of Rosenthal's gambling house, until "Bald Jack" Rose, Becker's collector, became too greedy and insisted on a take-off himself. Then, said Mrs. Rosenthal, her husband was forced to get rid of Becker, although he never believed that Becker would interfere with the business.

And then she told about the raid. She said that Becker, an old friend of her husband's, came to the gambling house, apologetically and with his hat in his hand. He was sorry, he said, clear down to the ground, but Waldo had ordered him to get Rosenthal and the job had to be done. Becker knew it was hard on Herman, the widow went on, but he wanted to do the right thing, and so he told Mrs. Rosenthal that Herman could forget the $1500 and that the mortgage would be canceled.

Mrs. Rosenthal came to the building under the escort of a special officer detailed from the district attorney's office, and was accompanied by her sister.

"Do you think the police would protect me from their own kind?" she asked a representative of the district attorney. "I am afraid of my life."
"Since Herman was murdered," said Mrs. Rosenthal, before leaving her house, "the police made all kinds of efforts to see me. I have had high officials call me up. Why, Deputy Commissioner Dougherty tried to get me. Why should the police want to see me unless they wanted to find out how much I know before I should go before the grand jury?"

The sensation of the day came when Harry Vallon, one of the five notorious gangsters who were in the "murder car" the night Rosenthal was shot, surrendered himself to the police. He was arraigned before the coroner and held without bail.

With the men who actually did the shooting in the toll, the main work of District Attorney Whitman and Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty will commence, that of trying to learn the identity of the conspirators who so greatly desired that Rosenthal be done away with before he could make further revelations of the relations between the police and gamblers.

Commissioner Dougherty remarked significantly to District Attorney Whitman that "I guess we agree as to who is back of this killing." But the public prosecutor does not feel that Commissioner Dougherty can swing the investigation of the killing alone, as he is of the belief that the police department will give no real aid.

The surrender of Vallon may be followed by the voluntary appearance of the other gangsters known to have been in the "murder car" the night of the killing. Besides Vallon there were Harry Horwitz, best known under his gang name of "Gib the Blood," "Dago Frank," an East Side gangster; "Lefty" Louis and "Whitey" Lewis.

Caught By Sweep of Waters While on Outing.

A devastating flood is sweeping over the district about Jeannette, Pa., and it is feared that it will be the worst experienced in years.

More than 2000 persons, including many women and children, are marooned on the hills of Oakford park, where the annual outing of the employees of the Union Supply company, from Westmoreland and Fayette counties, was being held. The park is surrounded by hundreds of acres of water, which has shut off the means of leaving the park. Train and trolley service has been suspended.

Lightning Kills Four.
A bolt of lightning killed four in a family of seven and dangerously shocked the others in a violent electrical storm at Richland, in Pulaski county, Mo.

The bolt struck the home of Joe Paddy. The current tore Paddy's shoes from his feet and threw him into a corner, dead. Three children were killed, their bodies being stripped of clothing.

PICNICS AT HECLA PARK.—In addition to the regular Friday afternoon and evening concerts at Hecla park the following picnics will be held there during July and August:

July 27th, Zion Sunday schools.
July 31st, Reformed reunion.
August 1st, A. M. E. Sunday school of Bellefonte.
August 3rd, Lamar Sunday school.
August 7th, Mackeyville Sunday school.
August 8th, Salona Sunday school.
August 15th, United Brethren Sunday school, Bellefonte.
August 28th, Altoona Erecting shops.

BOOKS, MAGAZINES, ETC.

The August Popular Mechanics Magazine contains in all 295 articles and 267 illustrations. The Shop notes and Amateur Mechanics departments are especially worthy of mention. Every article is concise and clear and many diagrams and pictures elucidate the text.

A second generation in steel buildings is shown in a page view of the new Continental Bank building in Chicago; the opening of Galveston's $2,000,000 causeway is described, with illustrations; Pittsburgh's new concrete arch is shown in a two-page view; and an account of the speed trials of the U. S. A. "Arkansas" is accompanied by a handsome illustration. J. Gordon Ogden contributes another of his entertaining and instructive articles on "The Wonders of Light."

Big Reservoir is Leaking and Threatening Wide Area—Women and Children Refuse to Leave Slope.

Forty miners were caught by a flood at the Superba coal mines at Evans Station, three miles from Uniontown, Pa., by a sudden rush of water down the mountain sides.

Fourteen of the men were drowned and there was little chance for the rescue of the other twenty-six, who had sought safety in the highest points in the mine. Rescuers could not get to them.

The town of Evans itself was in danger of being swept away by the torrent that rushed down the mountain side, entering the mines at several points.

Cool Spring reservoir, the largest in Fayette county, was reported to be leaking badly. It was feared that the entire reservoir might go out. In that event several populous towns would be in dire danger.

The Pennsylvania railroad, the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and the West Pennsylvania trolley tracks have been washed away.

Little hope is entertained for the town of Evans. The wives and children of the miners are in danger of being carried into the mines, as they have refused to leave the mouth of the slope.

Rescue parties were quickly formed at the mines, but were baffled in their efforts to get to the imprisoned and probably drowning men. The first reports said that all the men had perished in the rush of water, but a rescue party sent from Uniontown reported that most of the miners had taken refuge in the upper workings.

Water began flowing into the mine, driving miners at work there into the remote sections of the hole. So swift was the current that the rescue party could not enter the workings through the ordinary entrances and were lowered through ventilators, but were able to do little. The wives and children of the entombed miners congregated at the mouth of the pit, and despite the danger of being swept into the mine, stood in water knee deep and urged the rescuing parties to make haste.

The business section of Dunbar, a few miles from Evans Station, is under four feet of water. A number of business buildings have been destroyed by the rush of water down the mountainside.

The wreckage is piled twenty-five feet high at a bridge of the Pennsylvania railroad, and it is expected to give way at any moment.

Torrential rains continue to fall and a further loss of life and damage is expected.

The Cool Spring reservoir was reported to be leaking badly and there was danger of its going out entirely. If the dam gives way the water will sweep down the mountain upon the towns of Lemont, Youngstown, Mount Braddock and Dunbar. It is estimated that 20,000 persons reside in the four towns, and the loss of life and destruction of property, it is feared, would be great.

Residents of the valley have all been warned of the danger, and they are fleeing with their possessions to the mountain sides.

Man Drowned on Roof.

Robert Kinsella, employed by a carpet company, was drowned on the top of a twelve-story building in New York city.

Kinsella had gone to the roof to release a foot and a half of water, which had collected there when the drain pipe became clogged up with some rubbish. He ran his right arm down into the drain pipe after he had cleared away the rubbish from the mouth of the hole, when the suction of the rushing water caught him. He was drawn into the pipe up to the shoulder. Despite the efforts of three companions to pull him out the suction held him firmly and his head was drawn into the water which still remained on the roof. In plain sight of them, looking up at them through a few inches of water which covered his face, he was drowned.

The bolt struck the home of Joe Paddy. The current tore Paddy's shoes from his feet and threw him into a corner, dead. Three children were killed, their bodies being stripped of clothing.

SPRING MILLS.

L. E. Mauck, of Flemington, made us a flying visit on Tuesday last.

Miss Anna Cummings left on Monday last for Centre Hall, on a ten days sewing engagement.

Commercial agents have been quite numerous of late. A number were on their trips with fall samples; they report business very fair.

Wm. Roseman, clerk at the P. R. R. station of Neshauning Falls, was here a few days last week on a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Roseman.

Landlord M. C. Stover is erecting quite a large concrete beer vault and cellar at the bridge over the big spring, a side arm of the creek close to the hotel. The vault is built partly in the water.

James G. Letzell, of Benton, Wis., formerly of this place, is here visiting relatives and friends, also overlooking the several properties he still owns in our town. He is a guest of William Pealer.

Frank Fisher, of the firm of J. B. Fisher's Sons, is greatly improving his residence by filling up the low places in the front and rear and elevating the ground a foot above the level of the road. He has also put down a four foot cement walk from the front portico to the main road. When all the improvements he contemplates are completed they will add greatly to the appearance of the whole neighborhood.

The school board have appointed the following teachers: Spring Mills High school, U. A. Meyer, grammar; C. E. Royer, intermediate; A. L. Duck, primary; J. E. Zettle, Penn Hill, Lodie Rishel; Green Grove, Mabel Neese; Hoy, Boyd Vonado; Murray, H. B. Snook; Logan, S. G. Walker; Farmers Mills, U. T. Hubler; Pike, Gertrude Musser; Beaver Dam, E. Hartman; Pike Hill, Mabel Long; Decker, W. H. Haney; Mountain, C. C. Beck.

There are many good newspapers published, but none that is quite as good as the DEMOCRATIC WATCHMAN. Try it.
