THINGS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY.

—Prof. Clarence Brey will play several violin solos at the morning service in St. John's Reformed church on Sunday.

—The ladies of the Reformed church will hold a sale on Tuesday and Wednesday of Thanksgiving week. Keep the dates in mind.

—The prices for the "Cow Boy Preacher," at Garman's opera house, on Monday evening, will be 25, 35 and 50c—Children 15 cents.

—Don't forget the welcome reception and dance for the Academy students which will be given by James R. Hughes, in the Arcade hall this (Friday) evening.

—Orville J. Stover, of Blanchard, last week bought the hotel at Beech Creek from John P. DeHans, taking possession on Friday. He will run it as a temperance hotel.

—Announcement has been made by Mrs. Elizabeth J. Kessler, of the marriage of her daughter Katherine Burga Kessler to Mr. M. Quay Corbett, on Tuesday, September tenth, at Allentown.

—Catching fire from a spark from the thrasher engine a stack of four loads of wheat and twenty-four loads of rye, was destroyed for Harry Ellis, in Boggs township, last Thursday morning.

—Sim the Clothier had a formal opening of his new store at State College on Tuesday evening. The store is well located, with all modern equipments, and will be in charge of Maurice Baum.

—Miss Carrie Miller has resigned her position in The Index and Miss Edith Houser went there from the John Mese store, while Miss Helen Eberhart has accepted the position made vacant by Miss Houser.

—The attention of our readers is called to two articles published on the fourth page of today's paper. They were contributed by the publicity committee of the Woman's club and are worth reading and considering.

—Miss Mary M. Graham, of Lewis town, is placing a mural brass tablet in St. John's Episcopal church in memory of her father and mother, the late Edward and Mary Graham, during their life well known residents of Bellefonte.

—The Pennsylvania State College opened very auspiciously on Wednesday and the registrar estimates a Freshman class of seven hundred and a total enrollment of 2,400 students. How to handle them all is the greatest agitation.

—R. M. Fleming's garage at Lewis town was totally destroyed by fire last Thursday night, believed to be of incendiary origin, and twelve thousand dollars' worth of automobiles went up in smoke. Among the number was Amos Cole's machine.

—Beginning this evening at six o'clock the Jewish day of atonement, Yom Kippur, will be faithfully observed by members of that faith all over the world, and all places of business conducted by them will be closed until six o'clock tomorrow evening.

—Major A. A. Stayer, who will be chief marshal of the military and schools parade at Altoona next Wednesday, has appointed Col. H. S. Taylor, of this place, his chief of staff. The colonel will go to Altoona next Tuesday afternoon to assist in completing the final details for the parade.

—The new switchboard and modern exchange equipment for the Bell Telephone company of Pennsylvania has arrived and will be installed as fast as possible. But that it will take some time to do so can be gleaned from the fact that there is almost one carload of material to put in place, and to do this will take some time.

—Just after dinner on Tuesday Henry Lowery, driving his automobile, had a head-on collision with Ben Peters' automobile at the corner of the Bush house near the Adams Express office. Nobody was hurt but the right rear wheel on Mr. Lowery's machine was badly broken while a broken axle and spring was the damage to Peter's automobile.

—On Sunday evening, while playing on the boardwalk in front of his home, Edward Leopold, the small son of Mr. and Mrs. John Leopold, was bitten on the leg by a mongrel dog that for some time past has been staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murphy, a nearby neighbor. While the bite was not deep there were two quite long abrasions of the skin and as a matter of precaution the wounds were cauterized. So far there have been no serious results.

—That old saw, "There is nothing new under the sun," does not hold good when the Scenic moving picture show is taken into consideration. The program there is new every night and the pictures the best out on this circuit. They represent most every phase of life and scenic and travel pictures in various lands. Manager T. Clayton Brown not only gives careful attention to the kind of pictures he exhibits but looks after the comfort and welfare of his patrons at all times. You can't go wrong at the Scenic.

GRANGE FAIR AND ENCAMPMENT A BIG SUCCESS.—The thirty-ninth annual Grange fair and encampment at Centre Hall this week has been a big success, and especially the encampment end of it. That part of the big park allotted to camping purposes is so densely covered with tents that its labyrinth of streets resemble a miniature city. To be exact over two hundred tents are on the field and all occupied, the majority of them by farmers and their families there for the week's outing and recreation. Unfortunately the wet weather of the beginning of the week was somewhat against the attendance but at that the crowd has been if anything larger than that of the past few years.

Regarding the fair part of the big gathering, the stock exhibit was limited to a herd of five ponies. In the poultry house were nineteen pens of fancy chickens, three pens of rabbits and two of ducks. The main exhibition building is well filled. The Pennsylvania State College has a large display of ferns, the State Forestry Commission an instructive exhibit on forestry while the display of farm produce, vegetables, fancy work, products of the housewife's culinary skill, etc., is quite large, and of a very excellent quality. For every article exhibited the Grange association pays five cents and an idea may be gained of the size of some of the exhibits, when it is known that the exhibitor received in a number of cases from $2.50 to $5.00 for his or her exhibit. Prof. W. A. Krise is the man in charge in that department and he informed the writer that Mrs. Sarah Eilers, of Lemont, was paid close to ten dollars for her exhibit. All told there were in the neighborhood of one hundred exhibitors among the largest being the following:

William Brooks, of Gregg township; Mrs. Martha Geiss, Bellefonte; Cornelius Musser, Lemont; Mrs. Belle Lytle, State College; Mrs. Sarah Eilers, Lemont; Mrs. S. E. Sharer, Zions; Mrs. Thomas Delaney, Mrs. Thomas Grove, Miles Bressler, Charles Derwiler, Warren Homan, Jacob Sharer, (who had ninety separate articles) Guber Grove, Miss Elsie Moore, Mrs. Mary White, W. G. Rossman and Ralph Luse, all of Potter township; Miss Annie Durst, of Gregg township; Mrs. Jeremiah Smith, Mrs. W. E. Tate and Archey Moyer, of Centre Hall, while from the same town good exhibits were produced by William Arney and Martin Keller, two young boys; Miss Dorothy Snyder, daughter of Rev. S. A. Snyder, and Elizabeth Sweetwood. Others were Jacob Yarnell, of Curtis; S. I. Poorman, Bellefonte; R. D. Emanuel Eungart, Gregg; Edwin Grove, a son of county commissioner D. A. Grove, and Elmer McClellan, of Potter township.

The implement exhibit is also larger than in past years and includes farm machinery of all kinds, gasoline engines, concrete mixers, buggies and wagons, the following firms and agencies being represented: International Harvester company, Standard Scale & Supply Co., Isaac Underwood, Milliford Buggy Co., Johnston Harvester Co., the Weber Bros., of Centre Hall, and J. C. Condo, of Penn Hall. Quite a number of the Centre Hall stores and wholesale and retail firms from a distance have departments in the various other buildings, and W. Gross Mingle is on the job showing the farmers and their wives how to mix concrete and build silos.

The Midway this year is composed entirely of eating, ice cream and pop-corn stands. Quite a number of fakirs of the mid variety were there and opened up for business on Monday but on Tuesday the authorities closed every one of them and they all left the place.

While the encampment opened on Saturday the first thing on the program was the Harvest Home services on Sunday morning, when the address was made by State Secretary of Agriculture N. B. Critchfield. Monday was devoted entirely to the placing of exhibits. Tuesday the Centre county Veteran club held their annual reunion. In the absence of Gen. Beaver Capt. W. H. Fry presided at the meeting and all the old officers were re-elected, with the exception of second vice president, William A. Ishler being elected to succeed the late Col. Austin Curtin. Addresses were made by James Gleason, Democratic candidate for Congress; Col. H. S. Taylor and Col. Robert A. Cassidy. About twenty-five hundred people were present on Wednesday, despite the rain of that morning. Hon. W. T. Creasy was the principal speaker that day. Yesterday was of course the big day and it is estimated that six thousand people were on the grounds. Among the speakers were James Gleason Esq., and Robert S. Conklin, Commissioner of Forestry. The encampment will close today. Following is a full list of the tent-holders:

Williams. DuBois.—J. R. Brady. Milliford.—Chas. Bogar.

George H. Musser, of Boggs township, won premiums to the amount of $55.90 at the Centre county fair. It wasn't much trouble he was put to in making his various exhibits and he had a lot of pleasure out of the week besides. We wonder if any other farmer in Centre county has picked up that amount of money lately as easily as Mr. Musser did. Moral! Exhibit at the fair next year and get your share.

ANOTHER COLLEGE TOWNSHIP FISHING SCRAPE.—Squire W. H. Musser's office was the scene of an interesting case on Monday morning as the result of illegal fishing on Spring creek, near Houserville. Jacob P. Sizer, a fish warden of Huntingdon, was the prosecutor in the case. From the evidence in the case it appears that on the evening of Saturday, August 24th, Oscar Lonebarger with his two boys went to Houserville and asked H. I. Ailman, who runs the mill at that place to draw off the race in order to afford them a better opportunity to catch some fish. Ailman accommodated them and while they were thus engaged John Mechtley walked down to the race to watch them.

In the meantime Elmer Jackson came along and, according to the evidence of Ailman and Pierce Lonebarger, represented himself as a fish warden and took all their names. On August 29th Jackson approached Ailman and intimated that he had better settle the case as the fine if he should be arrested would be quite heavy. He also went to the Lonebargers and told the two boys that they would have to go along with him for fishing illegally. It was admitted, however, that he did not attempt to take the boys by force.

Several days later the Department of Fisheries at Harrisburg received a letter from Lemont signed by Jackson's name, giving information of the illegal fishing. The Department referred the matter to fish warden J. P. Sizer, of Huntingdon. When he went to Lemont Mr. Jackson denied writing the letter to the Department and maintained that what he said and did on August 24th and 29th was only in fun. "Squire Musser, however, thought otherwise and he was held under $300 bail for trial at court for impersonating a State officer and attempted blackmail.

Ailman and Lonebarger were sentenced to pay a fine of twenty dollars (ten dollars each) and the costs in the case, or a total of $15.80 each, which was a pretty stiff price for one little sucker, all the fish they got.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE.—The much lauded new addition to the field of western drama, "The Cowboy Preacher," is heralded as one of the best of frontier plays. It ran for three months at the Tremont theatre, New York city, last season. There is a picturesque ladies frontier band carried as an added attraction, and their music between the acts, and for the specialties distributed throughout the show, adds a great advantage to the play. They give a street parade at noon, and render an open air concert in front of the theatre in the evening. The play comes well recommended and will, no doubt, prove an attraction of merit. "The Preacher," which is a character new to the stage, is spoken of as having made a decided impression on theatre goers. The date of the offering here is September 23rd, at Garman's.

THE GIRL FROM RECTORS.—There have been a big comedy successes launched from dear old Broadway in the past decade and none created the sensational hit made by "The Girl From Rectors" during the engagement of this comedy at Weber and Fields music hall, New York. This never ceasing hit is one of the most cleverly constructed comedies produced in years. "The Girl" will play an engagement at Garman's September 27th. Manager Garman has arranged with the company to make prices for best reserved seats one dollar, no higher. Reserved five days in advance.

The marriage of Mr. Robert William Pierpoint and Miss Mary Gertrude Cook, both of Philadelphia, will be celebrated in St. Matthias church, in that city on Friday evening, October 8th. They will reside in Uniontown, Pa., after December 1st. The groom-elect is well known in Bellefonte.

G. B. M. William's pacing horse, "Long John," which won the free-for-all at the Centre county fair two weeks ago today, broke its leg in a race at the Punxsutawney fair last week and had to be shot. The horse had already won the first and second heats when the accident occurred.
