—One of the TAFT spell-binders says that lying is a gift, not a habit, with ROOSEVELT. After all, however, it's about as broad as it is long.

—Pittsburgh papers are making strenuous efforts to let the world know that the small-pox scare is dying out there. It may be true, but it will be some months before prospective visitors to the Smoky city will take chances on dying-out there.

—Rev. B. FRANK WHITE has resigned the pastorate of the First United Presbyterian church at Connelville because he says the pulpit is no place for an honest man. If he hasn't gone "daffy" he knows he was lying when he made that statement.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE—Lovers of fast comedy will have an opportunity of enjoying themselves when the "Girl From Rectors" comes to Garman's Friday, September 27th (tonight), for one big night. This was the attraction that scored one of the biggest comedy hits in years at Weber and Fields music hall, New York. The clever dialogue and interesting situations which have made it one laughter the entire evening. The company is an excellent one and the production is staged with special scenery and properties. Prices 25, 50, 75 cents and $1.00.

On Friday night of next week the attraction will be "Graustark," a dramatization of George Barr McCutcheon's famous novel. The opening scene is in Denver, Col., but the most of the setting for the story and play is in the fabled town of Edelweiss, Graustark. "Graustark" was played in Bellefonte two seasons ago and gave general satisfaction, all the parts being well taken. Prices 25, 50, 75 cents and $1.00.

It occasionally happens that a theatrical company organized and equipped to play only long engagements in the larger cities like New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, and Chicago, are forced to fill in a few nights in the smaller cities at what are known as the one night stands, en route between the larger cities. Such an attraction is A. G. Delamater's big scenic production of Gene Stratton-Porter's "Freckles," the story that has been and now is running in the WATCHMAN, and which will be seen here at an early date.

The evenings have grown considerably longer, but they will not seem half so long if you spend an hour each evening at the Scenic. The interesting program of moving pictures makes the time pass all too quickly and you forget any little cares or troubles that may have worried you during the day. It is a good cure for the blues and either amusing or instructive at the same time. Give it a trial.

How the Tariff Affects Us.

HOWARD, PA., Sept. 24th, 1912.

EDITOR WATCHMAN: Dear Sir:—If there is a thought provoking problem engaging public attention today, it is the high cost of living. There was a time when we took our money to market in our pockets and brought home the provisions it purchased in our baskets. If prices continue to soar, it will soon be necessary to take our money to market in baskets and bring home the provisions in our pockets. One of the principal causes contributing to the high cost of living is the failure of the Republican party to revise tariff taxes downward—a program to which it was solemnly pledged in its national platform of 1908. There has been a revision, and this revision was downward, not, however, in the schedules, but downward into the pocketbooks of the consumer. When the last Congress was in session there was a general and persistent demand upon the part of the consumer for the passage of a bill that would place sugar on the free list. The amount of sugar annually consumed in this country is seven billion, six hundred and thirty-three million pounds. The tax on sugar is one and one-half cent per pound and the tax in dollars, therefore, is one hundred and fifteen million dollars annually. If sugar were placed upon the free list, the resulting saving to a family of five persons would be six dollars and sixty cents annually, for when we purchase a dollar's worth of sugar, we get seventy cents in sugar and thirty cents tariff. Yet, when the last Congress, in order to reduce the high cost of living, made an earnest effort to place sugar on the free list, Mr. Patton, who then represented or better, misrepresented this district in Congress, lined up as usual with the standpatters and voted against this bill. To show that he was in earnest, he not only voted against free sugar once but twice. Was he representing you when with his vote he protected the right of the Sugar trust to rob you daily through the sugar bowl upon your table? He cannot defend upon the ground that he was protecting the American farmer or laborer. The American farmer, forsooth, only receives four dollars and fifty cents per ton for beets while his competitor, the German farmer is paid six dollars and twenty-eight cents per ton, while the Louisiana planter today pays lower wages than the foreign planter—in fact the Louisiana laborer is little better than a slave. Now, if the tariff on sugar does not protect the American farmer or laborer, whom does it protect? The consumer? No, indeed, it protects the trust—the Sugar trust—with its water—infated capital and this trust with the assistance of Mr. Patton's vote will continue to beat, rob and plunder us until the next Congress convenes.

Yours for A REDUCED TARIFF. A Greatly Improved Road.

SPRING MILLS, PA., Sept. 24, 1912.

Editor Watchman.

Last week the picnic pleasure seekers appreciated the good road work done by the State Highway Dept. from Woodward to Old Fort. There were upward of 170 automobiles and 750 other conveyances used the highway during picnic week. This week the road will be used by many going to Union Co. fair, the following week it will be used by those going to Milton fair.

The old turnpike through Pennsylvan is a distance of about 24 miles, all this road work has been done in a few month's time. Many hundred tons of limestone have been crushed and used for repairs to fill up mud holes and low places. Many places crushed limestone has been used in sections of 200 to 1000 ft. Nearly 500 breakers from Old Fort to Woodward have been cut down and graded. It has been stated by the writer that the Pennsylvan turnpike has never been in such fine condition, washouts, mud holes and breakers out of sight. Last spring some parts of this road were covered with clay washed from the hillside that caused mud to the depth of 6 to 8 inches, these parts have been dragged and the mud scraped off the road in great quantities.

The Pennsylvan, seven mile narrows have been covered with shale from the Union Co. line to Woodward, the entire south side of this mountain road has been ditched for miles, with many underdrains, same has been graded with shale and then dragged in order to keep the centre of the road high. Many places the road is three tracks wide. All trees, brush and limbs have been trimmed so that the sun and air will have a chance to dry the road in 24 hours after a rain. With the centre of the road graded and good drainage this will make a good road as soon as the shale can be crushed and packed.

In grading and sloping a mountain road of this kind there were many hundreds of large stone removed weighing from 400 to 1600 lbs. each, some rocks were as long as 6 ft., these stone were used to build drains under the road. It is estimated that there were thousands of tons of shale, stone and clay moved and handled for improvements on mountain road. The weather conditions have been unsatisfactory for road building in the 7 miles of narrows. On account of the heavy rains in these mountains much additional work had to be done. The road through Pennsylvan has been and is being used more extensively on account of the road building now in progress in the Lewis-town Narrows as nearly all eastern and western traffic passes through Pennsylvan, making much additional dragging and work.

—Aaron Woodring underwent an operation in McGirk's sanatorium at Philipsburg, last Saturday, for the removal of a growth on his breast. The operation was not a serious one and he was taken to his home at Port Matilda, this week, in an automobile.

FOOD PRICES TAKE BIG RISE.

The most marked upward trend of the cost of living is disclosed in the federal bureau of labor's report of an investigation of prices for the last ten years, conducted in the important industrial centers of thirty-two states. Fifteen most important articles of food, as well as coal, comprising two-thirds of a workingman's needs, were investigated. In several cities the investigators gathered statements of merchants on the cost of living, and specimens of these are published in the report.

On June 15, 1912, the report shows, fourteen of the fifteen articles of food were higher than a year before, and ten had advanced in the last ten years more than fifty per cent over the average retail prices for the ten year period—1890-1899.

During the last decade prices of potatoes changed most and sugar the least. Their advance were 11.9 and 8.5 per cent respectively. During the last year, bacon, which decreased just one-tenth of 1 per cent, was the only one of the fifteen principal articles of food that showed a decline in price, while nine of the fifteen advanced more than 10 per cent, varying from 2.4 per cent for milk, to 18.6 for round steak. Of the fifteen, only eggs, butter, milk and sugar were lower, but the price of three of these four is normally lower during summers than during winters.

In the last year bacon was the only food to show a decrease in price, which was one-tenth of one per cent. The following table shows the percentage of increase in prices for the last ten years and the last year:

Table showing percentage of increase in prices for the last ten years and the last year for various food items like Fresh milk, Smoked ham, Hens, etc.

Coal also advanced considerably in some cities. The price on April 15, as compared with a year before, was higher for Pennsylvania anthracite, stove size, in twenty-five out of twenty-nine cities from which reports were secured.

In the North Atlantic states Pennsylvania white ash coal, stove size, was 11.3 per cent higher on April 15, 1912, than a year before; Pennsylvania anthracite, white ash, chestnut size, 11.9 higher, and bituminous, 11 per cent higher.

Eleven Couples Leave Theater When They Hear Husband's Threat.

An excited man rushed up to a motion picture theater in Wilmington, Del., and informed the young woman at the window that his wife was in the theater with another man and that he was going to shoot them as they came out.

A crowd collected, and the young woman hurried back to notify the manager. The latter, wishing to avoid bloodshed, mounted the stage and announced to the spectators that a man outside was waiting to kill his wife and the man with her. He suggested that the pair leave the theater by the rear exit.

Within ten minutes eleven pairs had hurried from the theater by the back door.
