

The President the Honor Guest in Altoona.

The President Answers Toast in Logan House, Where Executives Met to Aid the Union.

After two days' continuous rain, the clouds withheld their contents and the first great parade in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Loyal War Governors' Conference in Altoona, Pa., in 1862 was successfully carried out.

President Taft, accompanied by his military staff, arrived early. After being escorted about the city he was in his place on the reviewing stand when the parade started. On the stand also were descendants of the following Loyal War Governors: Curtin, of Pennsylvania; Pierpont, of West Virginia, and Burton, of Delaware, together with United States Senator Penrose and other distinguished guests.

The parade was composed of the Civil War Veterans, National Guardsmen and school children. The United States was represented by a troop of coast artillery and band, and the Marine band, of Washington. Ten thousand school children took part. President Taft was kind enough to say it was the prettiest and most instructive parade he had ever seen and a lesson in geography and mathematics.

Afterward at luncheon at the Logan house, in the same room where the governors conferred fifty years ago, the president responded to a toast proposed by Dr. Edwin E. Sparks, president of State college. Dr. Sparks delivered the oration at the formal exercises in the tented auditorium. President Taft made a felicitous address, after which he was escorted to his private car, leaving on his return trip to Beverly, Mass.

Because of the drizzle the automobile parade, on which thousands of dollars were spent in decorations, was postponed. This left the only other scheduled events, the gymnastic exhibition and war time tableaux, by the Turngemeinde, in the tented auditorium.

Captain Alfred Hicks, a Pittsburgh millionaire and a former Blair counsellor, sent a $600 check to the general committee. C. K. Cameron, commander of Post 258, Westfield, Tioga county, was the first to register.

Mrs. Rhoda Burton Roudaboush, the daughter-in-law of War Governor Roudaboush, of Delaware, and Mrs. Ann Pierpont Switzer, Miss Frances Switzer and F. W. and S. R. Pierpont, grandchildren of Governor Francis H. Pierpont, the first governor of West Virginia, also arrived.

Nearly all of Governor Curtin's descendants and relatives were present to participate in the event.

A detachment of the Thirteenth Coast Artillery from Fort Dupont, Delaware, arrived. Captain Alfred M. Mason had two lieutenants, eighty men and the band of twenty-five pieces.

The industrial pageant of the conference will show the Pennsylvania Railroad company's reproduction of the early modes of transportation.

DROWNS IN MINE FLOOD

Heavy Rains Force Water Into Colliery, Catching Workmen.

The heavy rains caused an old mine working at the Phoenix Park colliery of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron company, near Pottsville, Pa., to break through into the gangway, resulting in the drowning of a workman.

The men had ample warning to permit them to escape, and the one death was caused by the victim attempting to return to get his dinner can just as the water broke through in full volume. One mule was also drowned. About a score of workmen were in the mine at the time.

GIRL SEIZED AND POISONED

Held Up Near Her Home and Is Expected to Die.

Miss Lettie Ward, aged fifteen, who lives at the home of Samuel Farmer, of Wheeling Junction, W. Va., was seized by unidentified men near her home and held while poison was administered. She is expected to die.

Farmer recently received anonymous letters threatening his life if he did not leave the county. No reason for the attack has been disclosed.

Resigns Vice Presidency of Reading.

William R. Taylor, vice president of the Reading company, and secretary of the Philadelphia & Reading railway, presented his resignation to the board of directors in Philadelphia. The resignation will take effect on Oct. 1. The reason given by Mr. Taylor was that he desired to retire from active business and obtain a much needed rest.

Rob Mexican Bank of $19,000.

The police report that the Guadalupe branch of the National Bank of Mexico was robbed of $19,000. The money was stolen from the cashier's desk by a sneak thief.

First 1912 Football Fatality.

The first football fatality of the season occurred in Gouverneur, near Watertown, N. Y., when Ceylon Starrin, fifteen years old, of Gouverneur, while playing the game was kicked in the stomach, dying later.

Elephant Attacks a Coach.

A wild elephant's attack on a coach in Ceylon, India, was reported in dispatches from Colombo. The brute demolished the coach and killed the driver, but the passengers hid in a culvert and escaped.

Leaps From Window; Shot.

William McAneny, a prisoner, after having his finger prints taken at police headquarters in New York, leaped from a window at that place.

In the thirty-foot plunge he knocked down a small boy as he landed and broke the boy's leg. Three policemen shot at McAneny as he fled, bringing him down with bullets in the body.

The prisoner was taken to the Gouverneur hospital, with three bullets in his body and is not expected to live. It was the most daring attempt to escape, with one exception, ever made from the new headquarters building.

McAneny was arrested in Harlem and taken to police headquarters. He was taken to the Bertillon room and his finger prints were recorded. He made no objection. As he passed a window he sprang to the sill and flung himself out to the street.

He landed in Grand street. Detective Edward Sheely leaped after him from the window, followed by Gus and Joseph Riley. They landed unhurt, and as they rose to their feet began to shoot at the fugitive.

One of the bullets hit another detective on his way to enter the building, but did not seriously hurt him. Three bullets hit the fleeing prisoner and he went down. The detectives pounced on him and brought him back to the headquarters building barely conscious.

Kaiser and Crown Prince Apart.

The Vienna Zeit publishes the following message from its Berlin correspondent:

The disagreement between the kaiser and the crown prince has reached practically a complete breach. Verbal communications have almost ceased, and when the prince wants to communicate with his father he does so in writing through his house marshal.

The crown prince's last communication to the kaiser was a bitter reproach because the latter sent a general to review his regiment instead of coming himself. It is stated that the kaiser absolutely disregarded the festivities in connection with the birthday of the crown prince last Friday. There was a gala banquet and reception, but the kaiser attended neither.

He remained only a half hour in Berlin on his way from the naval maneuvers at Wilhelmshaven to his autumn shooting ground, Rominten. The kaiser joined the kaiserin and Princess Victoria at the station and left again immediately.

Babies Mixed in Hospitals.

That scores of Pittsburgh, Pa., parents are unwittingly nursing the children of other men and women is the intimation of members of the Associated Women's clubs, who have started an investigation of the maternity wards of several city hospitals.

Briefly the accusation is that all the babies born in the hospitals are laid in a row on one bed. When the mother or any other relative asks to see the child the nurse picks up the first one that comes handy and presents it as said, mistakes have been made.

It was the suspicion of one young husband that brought the matter to the attention of the Women's club. The man's name is withheld, as he does not wish his wife to share in his uncertainty.

Pow-Wowing Didn't Cure.

Coroner Moore is investigating reports made to him that a child of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Bender, of Lincoln, near Tremont, Pa., died while under the care of a "witch" doctor, who tried "pow wowing" on the little patient to cure an attack of dysentery.

No other physician was employed. It is alleged, although the authorities are of the opinion that the child might have been cured with proper medical attention.

Coroner Moore has fixed Thursday for an inquest, and declares that if any of the numerous "pow wow" doctors who are said to be plying their business secretly in the neighborhood, are responsible for the death they will be held to answer to the law.

May Give Maryland Road.

"If the people of Delaware don't want the boulevard, I will probably give it to Maryland."

A statement to this effect was made in Wilmington, Del., by Coleman Dupont, after an inquiry had been made from him as to what effect the appeal of the boulevard suit to the supreme court of the United States would have on his work.

Mr. Dupont made it clear in discussing the road question that if the people of Delaware gave evidence that they do not want him to build the road he will not do so, but he added that he might build one in Maryland instead.

Molten Metal Kills Two.

John Shute and Louis Slovack are dead, five other men are seriously injured and twenty others hurt as a result of an explosion in the open hearth department of the Cambria Steel company at Franklin, near Johnstown, Pa.

Twenty tons of hot metal, released by a leak in furnace No. 8, made its way along the ground until it reached a pool of water, when it exploded, throwing showers of metal in every direction.

Watchman Dead in Ruins.

The body of Antonio Rehrer, a watchman, was found in the ruins of the building of the Belleville Co-operative Creamery company, at Belleville, near Lewistown, Pa., after the place had been destroyed by fire. The police say that the man probably shot himself and then set fire to the building. There were two bullet wounds in his head.

Dies Abroad After Sick Bed Wedding.

Six weeks ago Miss Anna Mary Landis, of Millersville, near Lancaster, Pa., daughter of John H. Landis, superintendent of the Philadelphia mint, sailed for London, having been summoned there by an accident to her fiancé, Cornelius Logan. He was hurt in an automobile accident and his condition was said to be serious.

When Miss Landis arrived in London it was found that Mr. Logan was in a critical condition, and it was decided that the wedding should be performed at once, as it was feared that death might ensue.

The couple were married Sept. 3 in London at Mr. Logan's bedside and the bride then undertook to nurse her husband back to health. Her efforts were of no avail and he succumbed to his injuries.

Mrs. Logan is well known in elocutionist and dramatic circles in Philadelphia and New York, where she has frequently appeared.

Mrs. Logan has cabled her father that she will return early in October.

Miners Ignore Leader's Order.

Additional recruits were added to the 9000 strikers in the Panther Creek valley, near Tamaqua, Pa., when the employes at the Greenwood washery also quit work, leaving the Hauto washery the only coal producing establishment in operation throughout the district.

All operations on the Panther Creek Valley railroad have ceased, with the exception of an engine or two used to haul fuel to the boiler houses.

It was learned that on Saturday Manger Ludlow, of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company, and National President John P. White, of the United Mine Workers, exchanged telegrams, which finally resulted in President White's sending the district officers messages telling them to get the matter adjusted as quickly as possible and order the men back to work. Up to this time no action has been taken. It is known that many of the workmen are opposed to resumption.

Bethlehem Steel Raises Wages.

Good news to the hundreds of laborers at Charles M. Schwab's Bethlehem Steel works, at South Bethlehem, Pa., was the announcement of an increase in wages of one cent an hour. The old rate was 13½ cents an hour. About 3000 men are affected.

Ends His Life in Cell.

Half an hour after being placed in the lock-up at Stratton, Pa., Steve Hasenitz committed suicide by hanging himself to the top bars of his cell. He had been accused of attempting to shoot his sister-in-law.
