Kills Three and Himself

Man Is Slain at Churn in Barn and Women While at Work Sewing in the House.

John Caskey, sixty years old, who has been living as a recluse for some years near New Market, York county, Pa., killed Frank Hendrix, forty-five years old; his two sisters, Emma and Hester Hendrix, each more than fifty years old, and then turned the revolver upon himself, sending a bullet through his head, which caused his death shortly afterward.

Caskey had been living on the Hendrix property, and it is believed that he murdered the Hendrix family to pay off an old score. A note found near the murderer's body said that he had ended his life because of ill health.

Caskey's body was found on the rear porch of a brother's house at New Market. A jury of inquest was summoned, and while it was investigating the death word came that the bodies of the Hendrix family were discovered.

Frank Hendrix was shot while he was at work at a churn in the barn, and his sisters were killed while they sat quietly sewing at home. When found each woman had a thimble on her finger. Death in each instance had been caused by a bullet that penetrated the forehead. The shot that killed Caskey had entered at a similar point.

The jury decided that the Hendrix trio had been murdered and that the evidence indicated that Caskey was the murderer. In one of Caskey's pockets three cartridges of 38-caliber of the Hendrix family, were discovered. The inquest was conducted by Justice of the Peace Grant McCullough, of Baltimore county, Md.

Two Army Airmen Killed.

Lieutenant Lewis C. Rockwell, of the Tenth Infantry, and Corporal Frank S. Scott, of the army aviation school at College Park, near Baltimore, Md., are dead as the result of an aeroplane accident.

Corporal Scott was instantly killed, but Lieutenant Rockwell died on the operating table at the Walter Reed General hospital in Baltimore, where he was taken after the accident in the automobile of Captain Charles De Forest Chandler, commanding officer of the school.

The accident was due to the failure of the motor to stop running when Aviator Rockwell reached up to cut it off. The machine, which was but thirty feet from the ground and about to make a landing, plunged nose-downward, into the earth.

Scott was hurled several feet from the machine, while Rockwell lay a few feet away from him. Brother officers, who were acting as officials of the test flight, carefully picked up the two men. Scott was found to be lifeless, his skull being crushed, his clothing torn from him and his bones broken.

Rockwell, with his head buried partly in the earth, still showed signs of life, but was unconscious. The army surgeon stationed at the field, after a hasty examination, ordered him rushed to the hospital in a final attempt to save his life. He never regained consciousness.

Newark Robbed of $11,500.

It leaked out that $11,500 in gold was stolen about noon on Sept. 18 from the National Newark Banking company, in the heart of the financial district of Newark, Del.

The gold was in three small bags, which were on a ledge behind the grating that separates the tellers from the corridor. Most of the tellers were out to luncheon at the time. Those who were working were at the front of the bank, when some one passed toward the rear of the corridor, where there is a big pillar that supports a part of the building and divides the tellers' screen.

An iron bar was used to pry the screen open about four inches, and then, it is believed, a hook at least four feet long was used to reach the bags containing the gold.

When the clerks returned from their luncheon the break in the screen was discovered and the Burns detective agency was at once notified. The local police say they have not been informed about the robbery.

The iron bar employed to pry open the screen was found in the corridor.

Having been choked into submission by his father, a young man in his drunken fury dashed his fist through a window light, cutting himself in a fearful manner. Had not a physician been summoned at once he would have bled to death in a short time.

Politics are very quiet here just now, simply because about everybody is in favor of Wilson for President. That appears to be unknown and the Bull Moose is referred to only in derision. That monumental fraud has few, if any, followers in this valley. No doubt as election day approaches politics will loom up, and become active, just to prevent a dry rot.

Last week a dozen or more reckless Algerians from what is called the Spruce, a short distance below town, reached here and were bent on mischief. They stopped a buggy between the post office and mill, and one of them jumped in and made a savage attack upon the driver. The racket caused quite a commotion. Two young men hastened to assist the driver and were severely hurt in the melee, although the two young men could have handled any four of them, but the whole craven gang engaged in the fight, and of course the two young men were overpowered. Warrants are out for the miscreants.

Visiting cards vary but slightly in shape or size from season to season.
