Democrats Hold Big Rally.

Court House Crowded on Tuesday Evening to Hear Campaign Issues Intellegently Discussed by Prominent Speakers.

Not in the past twenty years has there been such an outpouring at a political meeting in Bellefonte as there was at the big Democratic rally held in the court house on Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Woodrow Wilson club of Centre county; and the fact that the audience almost to a man remained through three hours of speech making shows that the voters are intensely interested in the vital issues of the present presidential campaign.

A special train over the Bellefonte Central railroad brought a large delegation from Ferguson and College townships, while quite a number came from Pennsylvania in automobiles. Spring and Benner townships were well represented and when the meeting was called to order at 8:00 o'clock by D. Paul Fortney Esq., every seat in the court house was filled and late comers crowded the aisles and the foyer in the rear of the room. Mr. Fortney, who is president of the local Wilson club, accorded the honor of presiding to his father, Col. D. F. Fortney, who made a brief speech only.

Hon. Emmett O'Neal, Governor of Alabama, was introduced as the first speaker and after paying a tribute to the town of Bellefonte and some of its illustrious citizens he launched out on an exposition of the existing tariff laws which was so plain and concise that it could be understood by every man present. Without going into the tiresome detail of figures he explained just how the tariff was unjust to the great masses and how a tariff for revenue only—that is a tariff on the luxuries of life and no duty on the necessities—would improve existing conditions and reduce the high cost of living. He also paid a glowing tribute to Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic candidate for President.

The second speaker was Congressman Heflin, of Alabama, and before he had talked ten minutes the entire audience realized that they were in the presence of a political speaker of more than the ordinary brilliance. Congressman Heflin, like his predecessor, devoted himself entirely to a discussion of the issues of the campaign and not once cast an aspersions on the character of any of the candidates. His speech, however, was so interspersed with brilliant satires, witty and apt stories and bits of sarcasm as to hold the closest attention of his entire audience. In fact, though he talked for an hour and twenty minutes not three men left the room.

The closing address was made by James Gleason Esq., but as the hour was late he spoke but briefly. A number of Republicans were in the audience and they went away deeply impressed with the arguments presented by the speakers of the evening.

—DAN HANNA was influenced by resentment against TAFT and GEORGE W. PERKINS by gratitude to ROOSEVELT to contribute to the Bull Moose primary campaign fund and as HANNA gave twice as much as PERKINS it may be assumed that resentment is a stronger passion than gratitude.

Wilson Way in Lead in Herald's Nation-Wide Vote.

With a Continuation of the Present Sentiment Nothing Can Defeat Woodrow Wilson.

The New York Herald in presenting its third nation-wide poll on presidential candidates in Sunday's issue, says in part: President Taft making gains in several States, but still third!

The Bull Moose nominee holding his own, losing in some sections and gaining in others. Governor Wilson still well in the lead of both his rivals and still going strong. Such is the situation in the great battle for the Presidency, as indicated by the Herald's impartial, nation-wide canvass 22 days before election. Conditions have changed but slightly since the last instalment of Herald's review was published, a week ago. If test ballots and reports of trained political observers are to be accepted as an index for the Presidential election, it is clear that the Bull Moose movement has to all appearances, touched its highest point. Best indications obtainable by the Herald at this time, however, are that the Bull Moose nominee is running second and the President third, with a chance in some States, if the present growth of his movement continues, to overtake his nearest rival.

Test ballots taken in States both east and west of the Mississippi continue for the most part to place Governor Wilson first, with the President third in the race. Democrats are satisfied that nothing can prevent the election of Governor Wilson. The campaign managers declare that they will carry nearly every State in the country. It is, however, too early to predict the story the millions of ballots will tell on November 5. Cross currents are at work all over the country and there seems to be a feeling of unrest among voters in many communities, which may bring about a marked change in conditions between now and election day.

Up to the present time the Herald has taken 154,771 test votes. It has made every possible effort to have them bona fide. It is a fair assumption that some have been deposited by persons with a purpose to serve, but in every case the canvassers have asked the recipients of the ballots to indicate their true attitude toward the national contest.

Of the 154,771 votes cast Governor Wilson has received 65,168, the Bull Moose nominee 46,316, President Taft 33,759 and Debs 9,528. Of 30 States in which test ballots have been taken Governor Wilson has 23 States to his credit. The Bull Moose stood first in five, Illinois, Connecticut, Idaho, Washington and Michigan. The President led in two, Utah and Wyoming. The only change from last week is that the President gained Wyoming, having had but one State, Utah in the last review. In these 30 States the Bull Moose candidate runs second in 17, Governor Wilson in seven and the President in six.

Will Not Dare Answer!
PHILIPSBURG, PA., Oct. 14th, 1912.

Editor Watchman:
If Mr. Roosevelt should be elected for a third term as President it would be beyond his power to enact into laws the many reforms contained in his "covenant" with the American people. No one is even rash enough to venture a prediction that he would have a majority in Congress that would sympathetically respond to his policies. Could stand pat "neutrals" such as William Grist, in the Ninth district, D. F. LaFeaun, in the Twentieth district, J. N. Langham, in the Twenty-seventh district, J. F. Burke, in the Thirtieth district and our own Charles E. Patton, all of whom have received boss-made Washington party endorsements without conventions of the Bull Moose voters, with no opportunity to show their preference, be depended upon to assist the Colonel in the carrying out of his policies? They would probably assist in carrying out his policies on a stretcher.

Mr. Patton will not say that he stands open and above board for Roosevelt and his policies. However, he did say in February of this year that no one took Roosevelt seriously. He made that statement at Tyrone and at Clearfield. After April 13th, however, he took Roosevelt so seriously that on August 28th, 1912, he appeared in Oscar Mitchell's law office at Clearfield and before twenty-nine men stated that if he would be gracious enough to give him the Bull Moose endorsement he would be strictly neutral as between Taft and Teddy. They agreed by a vote of 17 to 12 to give him this endorsement. What a parody on the rule of the people. Yet, on October 9th, 1912, W. I. Swoope, Republican county chairman of Clearfield county, stated while in DuBois that Mr. Patton made no pledge of neutrality and that he was a Republican candidate for Congress and stood for Taft. Mr. Patton did make a pledge of neutrality as between Taft and Teddy and he dare not come out over his signature and deny it. W. T. DeHaas, who was present at this secret meeting and who then and there offered to become a straight-out-from-the-shoulder Roosevelt candidate for Congress if they would give him the nomination, was brutally turned down. No real sincere Roosevelt candidate was wanted. Write to Mr. C. E. Patton, Curwensville, Pa., and ask him where he stands. Ask him if he is for Roosevelt and his policies or if he stands for Taft. Demand a straight forward reply. Keep a copy of your letter and give it to the public with his answer. The voting public is entitled to this information. He solicits your vote to be your servant and you have every right to know where any one seeks to serve you stands. This is no year for evasive straddling, principle-compromising and gum-shoe political artists.

ONE WHO WANTS TO KNOW.

Make Him Answer Before You Vote for Him
MILLHEIM, PA. Oct. 12, 1912.
Editor Watchman:
Does Mr. Patton stand for Roosevelt's plan for the regulation of trusts by governmental commission, which of stern necessity implies their perpetuation, or does he stand with President Taft, who in the words of his distinguished ex-Republican rival, "meaning well but feebly," advocates their dissolution by law? How can he straddle or compromise with these two conflicting propositions? Or is this a monarchical form of government with a Patton heir-apparent to the throne regardless of his attitude upon burning questions of the day?

One proposition means a renewed lease of life for the trusts by regulation, and the other, if the confidence of the people was not so thoroughly shaken in its advocate, means their speedy death. How a candidate can stand for the death of a monopoly and be just as vigorous in championing perpetual life for it, both at one and the same time, renders his position as clear as mud and as plain as the hieroglyphics upon the tomb of an Egyptian mummy.

Will Mr. Patton define his position upon this all important question? If he cannot enlighten the voters from the stump or rostrum, he can do so by letter or in a written article. For a candidate to straddle two diametrically opposed plans proposed for the solution of our country's gravest economic issue, uppermost in the people's minds, is evidence of bad faith, a total surrender, nay, prostitution of principle for selfish political ends and is the satisfaction of a lust for office at any price and without a decent regard for the rights of the people.

PENN TOWNSHIP VOTER.

A Correction.

Editor Watchman:
DEAR SIR:—Will you kindly grant me a little space to correct a mistake I made in last week's WATCHMAN under the heading, "No Disagreement about Scripture Dancing?"

I quoted from The Keystone Gazette, Rev. Dr. Schuyler takes me to task etc. It should have been Rev. S. A. Snyder and not Rev. Dr. Schuyler, of Centre Hall. It seemed to me rather strange that Dr. Schuyler should have so written concerning what I had expressed on the subject of Scripture dancing. Rev. Snyder can hardly fail to see that what he asserts, that "there is a time to murder," all in accord with the teachings of the Sacred volume.

I am sure that Dr. Schuyler will cheerfully forgive me and also accept what I repeat that there is a substantial agreement of opinion on the subject of Scripture dancing.
Believe me yours faithful endeavorer for every righteous cause.
R. CRITTENDEN.
October 14, 1912. Bellefonte, Pa.

CHILD DIES FROM BURNS—Earl Bryan, the eighteen months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bryan, of Curtin, was so badly burned on Tuesday afternoon that he died early Wednesday morning. The mother left the children to play in the kitchen while she went out to do some work in the yard. While playing around the stove a small broiler set fire to the baby's clothes. A young sister at once realized the danger and ran for her mother, but by the time the latter got into the kitchen most all the clothing had been burned from the child's body and it presented a pitiful sight. It lingered in agony until Wednesday morning when death relieved its sufferings. The funeral will be held this (Friday) afternoon, burial to be made in the Curtin cemetery.

CORLI—After a week's illness with the grip Anna Barbara, the three months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Corli, of Pine Hall, died on Sunday. The parents, one brother and a sister survive. The funeral was held at two o'clock on Tuesday afternoon. Rev. J. C. Stover officiated and burial was made in the Pine Hall cemetery.

Quite a number of our nimrods are making lively preparations for the hunting season, though it seems a trifle previous. Several of our town hunters will join the Penn Hall club and expect to leave on the 15th proximo, opening day, no doubt thinking that it is the early bird that catches the lobster.

—Johnny—"Papa, would you be glad if I saved a dollar for you?"
Papa—"Certainly, my son."
Johnny—"Well, I saved it for you, all right. You said if I brought a first-class report from my teacher this week you would give me a dollar, and I didn't bring it."
