Charles Chandler, whose left arm was badly crushed in an automobile accident about a month ago, is now out and around, though of course, carrying his arm in a sling. Several weeks ago it was necessary to perform an operation and insert a steel plate to hold the splintered bone in position so that it might knit solidly. An X-ray picture of the fracture was taken last Friday and it showed the bone mending splendidly, and there is now hardly any doubt but that when entirely healed the arm will be as good as ever.

DIES FROM EATING WILD PARSNIPS.—Russell Loraine Price, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Price, of north Thomas street, died at the Bellefonte hospital between five and six o'clock last Saturday evening from being poisoned by eating wild parsnips and his older brother Carson and younger sister Helen narrowly escaped the same fate.

About two o'clock last Saturday afternoon John Price, aged about fourteen years: Carson, aged twelve; Russell, aged nine, and Helen, aged six, went from their home on north Thomas street down to Spring creek to fish. They came across a bunch of new green tops that looked not unlike the artichokes they doubtless had seen growing in the garden at home. Pulling several of the stalks out of the ground they discovered a bulb or root similar to an artichoke and children like they proceeded to wash and eat the poisonous weed. John did not eat any, as he doesn't like them very well, and Helen ate sparingly.

They then meandered down the creek to the old trestle crossing to the Pike plant of the American Lime and Stone company where they decided to cross the creek. This was probably an hour after they had eaten the poisonous parsnips and by this time they had been joined by one or more other boys. When almost over the trestle Russell Price was seized with convulsions and fell into the creek. He was rescued and dragged out on the bank by his companions, and almost at the same time Carson and Helen went into convulsions. Attracted by the cries of the children Charles Morris, who was at the lime kilns went down the bank to see what was wrong. He discovered the three Price children working in convulsions and in great agony. Inquiry of their elder brother elicited the fact that they had eaten something and he once realized that they had been poisoned.

A hurry call brought Dr. Dale to the scene and emetics were administered and Helen, vomiting freely, soon showed signs of recovery. The two boys, however, did not respond to the treatment and they were rushed to the hospital. There Russell died between five and six o'clock and Carson lingered in convulsions until some time Saturday night when the medicine began to take effect, and although he has been a pretty sick boy ever since, he will recover.

Russell Loraine Price, the boy who died, was born in Bellefonte on March 23rd, 1904, so that he was 9 years and 19 days old. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Price, and the following brothers and sisters: Mildred, Madeline, John, Carson and Helen. Rev. C. W. Winey, of the United Brethren church, had charge of the funeral services which were held at the Price home on north Thomas street, at 10.30 o'clock on Tuesday morning, following which burial was made in the Union cemetery.

TROUT FISHING SEASON.—Though the streams were high and the waters murky; the weather cold, damp and threatening, they had no deterring effect upon the true disciples of Izak Walton and scores of anglers lined the various trout streams of Centre county on Tuesday morning to usher in the opening of the trout fishing season. Some were out with the first gray streaks of dawn and many others followed later on. Notwithstanding the rather unfavorable conditions the catch compared very favorably with that on the opening day in former years and disproved the belief that has prevailed pretty generally hereabouts that the trout were very scarce. Of course, they are not any more plentiful than they have been in past years, but there are still enough trout in the streams to make fishing an object to the enthusiastic sportsman.

Spring creek yielded up a very good crop of speckled beauties for the opening day, the men who fished its waters faring probably better than those who sought the mountain streams. One fisherman, Searle Moerschbacher, caught the limit of 40 trout, all of them caught within the borough limits. Others who made catches were Joe Thal 22, Sinnickson Walker 16, T. Clayton Brown 11, nine of which averaged over a foot in length; S. Kline Woodring 5, Hugh Crider 6, George A. Beezer 5, Hard P. Harris 2, Logan Long 2, measuring 16 and 18 inches respectively; while quite a number caught from one to five. Robert F. Hunter and Dr. J. J. Kilpatrick went up Spring creek and got four each, but claimed they would have gotten more only the trout up there were all so big that they'd give one jump which would straighten out their hooks and away they'd go. Next time they go up stream they will take a harpoon along.

George R. Meek, sheriff A. B. Lee and N. B. Spangler went over into the Seven mountains above Tusseyville and got 22, 11 and 5 trout respectively. On Marsh Creek T. H. Harter got 36, Charles Mensch 11 and John Porter Lyon 4.

It takes all kinds of people to make a world and no two are alike in their judgment on motion pictures. Some like one kind and some another, and practically all kinds can be seen at the Scenic. Comedy, tragedy and travel scenes, with a weekly of current events make up the week's program, and if you don't like the pictures one night you'll probably be delighted with others the next. And what you don't like, others may think very good. And they are there for you to see every evening, remember that.

The Study Class of the Woman's Club will meet on Monday evening, April 21st, at 8 o'clock, in the High school building. Dr. Whitling will tell of the "History of the Tariff," "Tariff for Revenue," and "Free Trade;" Mr. Curtin, of "Protective Tariff, its History and Relation to Trade." It is hoped that many, by attendance and by discussion, will add to the interest and the profit of the evening.

AUTOMOBILE COMPANY HUNTING NEW LOCATION.—J. E. Leish, of Harrisburg, was in Bellefonte on Tuesday looking up available sites for an automobile factory. Mr. Leish is a stockholder and eastern representative of a well known automobile company now located at Detroit, Mich., although he did not divulge the name. He did say, however, that the plant was thoroughly established and on a sound financial basis.

Recently the ground on which their plant is located was purchased by the Burroughs Adding Machine company, and the automobile concern is compelled to seek a new location. Another reason they want to get out of Detroit is because of the labor situation. Owing to the large number of automobile factories in that city it is impossible to keep a full force of mechanics and skilled workmen all the time. The men are constantly shifting from one plant to another, which causes great inconvenience.

Mr. Leish did not ask any concessions in the way of a cash bonus, sale of stock or free site, but stated that what the company desired was land enough to allow for expansion and a community where they could be assured of securing a sufficient force of workmen—not less than one hundred and fifty men—and where it is healthy and pleasant so that the workmen would be contented. They will start with two buildings, one 300x100 feet and one 600x100 feet in size, but the site must be large enough to permit of reasonable growth and expansion.

A committee of the Bellefonte Board of Trade took Mr. Leish around and showed him three sites. Where the Nittany furnace now stands, which was at one time discarded as unavailable, Hughes field and the fair grounds. The latter two places would be suitable in every way and afford all the space and facilities needed.

Mr. Leish was pleased with Bellefonte but stated that he was probably a little more favorably impressed with Elizabethtown, Lancaster county. From here he went to Lock Haven and Milton to look up available sites there. After he has made the rounds of the various places in which sites can be obtained he will make his recommendation to the company in Detroit and a committee will then visit the places and make the final selection. While everything is as yet quite indefinite this is an opportunity to land a good industry that should not be allowed to go by.

ESCAPED PRISONER CAPTURED.—William Hogan, the "trusty" who discharged himself from the new penitentiary in Bennertownship on Wednesday of last week, as told exclusively in last week's WATCHMAN, was captured in Tyrone shortly after noon on Thursday and is now back in a cell of the old western penitentiary at Allegheny.

Being unable to get his pension check cashed Hogan had no money to get out of Tyrone and practically made no attempt to keep under cover. The officers of that place were notified on Thursday morning to keep a lookout for the man and about one o'clock the same day he was spotted in a bar room by chief of police Wanda. He was easily identified by his clothes. Hogan was taken into custody and the deputy warden at the new penitentiary notified, who in turn notified the officials at the western penitentiary and an officer was sent to Tyrone who took Hogan to that institution on Friday. The crime he was serving sentence for was aggravated assault and battery, and as stated last week he had only about ninety days more to serve. But his attempt at escape will doubtless result in lengthening his term and the balance of it will be served at hard labor in the old penitentiary instead of as a "trusty" up in Bennertownship.
