There has been a long break in the rains and last evening I was told that they can be dispensed with. unless rain came very soon the second lot of crops in this section would be ruined so you see how gladly this morning we are submitting to the rain; although we have lots and lots yet I do hope we will have plenty more for somehow this India's sun seems to need plenty for in a very short time after it begins to shine the grass is all brown, the roads dusty and the heat very bad indeed. Then, too. I am told that if we have more rain the cool weather will carry us far into the winter, so that we will not have much more heat.

I look out each day, hoping to see a new flower or something of the wild-flower kind; it seems so strange in these perfect conditions nothing that is really of value grows wild, either fruit or flower. The vegetables that grow here naturally, remind me more of what stewed watermelon would taste like than anything I know of-nearly all water and what little solid there is, very tasteless. The English have brought in all their vegetables so there are plenty, strange to this land, but really they don't taste righteven the meat has a queer flavor and I shall be glad to taste American meat, although it is expensive.

After reading of the trusts I must tell you that we can buy Clark's white cotton thread (400 yards) at five cents (21 annas.) also nearly every other article at the same value that you get it at home. It seems strange that Colgate's can sell talcum powder, Pears their soap, Park, Davis & Co. their tooth paste, and Clark's Davis & Co. their tooth paste, and Clark's their thread at the same price in Central India as in America, and let me tell you freight charges are not low, as we dis-covered last week when the boxes came. They charge wharfage. "coolie" hire and Coolie and the amount on even a small

Both men and women aspire to records of "centuries." It is always doubtful whether so protracted a run as a century run is not too great a strain upon the body. But even ordinary runs may be an injury rather than a benefit if the physical condition is weak. Exercise

On the night of the shooting Reed called at the office of Dr. Franks and told him he had come to settle matters. Reed told him he had two revolvers, and suggested to the physician that he might have his choice of the weapons

Dr. Franks thought the man merely intoxicated, and told him to go away and come back some other time, and the two went out in the street together. There they shook hands and bade each other good night. Reed immediately drew a revolver and began firing. Reed was arrested.
