UNITED BRETHREN CONFERENCE CLOSURE.—The United Brethren conference for the Allegheny district closed its sessions at Greensburg on Sunday with the announcement of the appointments by Bishop W. M. Weekley.

Two important changes were made in the management of the conference. One was the appointment of a finance commission, composed of five ministers and five laymen, with the conference superintendent, to take charge of the finances of the conference. Those who compose the new commission are the following: Conference Supt. the Rev. Dr. J. S. Fulton of Johnstown; the Revs. L. W. Stahl, J. W. Wilson, B. C. Shaw, T. W. Burgess and M. W. Burner; laymen—Dr. A. E. Roose, Albert Keistern, A. E. Cassler, M. H. Myers and Darius Waite, the latter of Bellefonte.

The other new body created to take charge of the affairs of the conference is the council of administration. Each minister in the conference is required to submit a full report each month to this body, which in turn will report to the bishop each three months. The council is composed of the following: The Revs. J. W. Wilson, A. E. Roose and M. H. Meyers.

At Saturday's session the treasurer, the Rev. L. W. Stahl, of Windber, reported that during the year more than $17,000 had been handled, and that the conference budget, including the missionary support and the money needed for the work of the conference, amounted to $10,000. The Rev. B. C. Shaw, missionary treasurer, reported a total of $6,200 for foreign missions and $2,500 for home missions contributed by the conference during the last year.

Among the appointments are the following of interest to WATCHMAN readers: Conference superintendent Altoona district, Rev. J. S. Fulton, of Altoona. Bellefonte—H. A. Ralston. Houserville—S. M. Johnson. Philipsburg—W. H. Spangler. Port Matilda—S. J. Wilson. Runville—E. B. Somers. Zion—F. J. Strayer.

Rev. C. W. Winey, who was pastor of the Bellefonte church the past four years, was transferred to Connelville, notwithstanding efforts on the part of the congregation to have him returned. During the years that Rev. Winey has been in charge of the Bellefonte church he has not only done a good work, built up his congregation and church organizations but has established a friendship among the people of Bellefonte generally which extends to a large radius outside his church. It was therefore with deep regret that his many friends learned of his transfer.

During Rev. Winey's four years ministry in Bellefonte he received 108 new members into the church while the Sunday school was increased about one-third. He had 170 baptisms, 78 marriages and 93 funerals. The mortgage on the church property was lifted and the basement of the church remodeled into a very comfortable and convenient Sunday school room. A triangular piece of ground along the church was purchased and made into a lawn with beautiful flower beds. Other improvements consisted of the installation of a new furnace, electric light and a bath room in the parsonage, concrete cellar and new walks at the parsonage and a flagstone pavement along the church property on Thomas street, all of which put the property into excellent condition. Rev. Winey was president of the Bellefonte Ministerium, president of the Christian Endeavor societies of Centre county and statistical secretary of the Centre county Sunday school association.

The totals are as follows.

Sunday's steady rain was general all over the county and came in good time to put the ground in condition so that farmers can finish their seeding. Since then the nights have been extremely cool and even in mid-day the sun's rays are none too warm.

The jury returned a verdict of $97.44 subject to three questions of law reserved, namely: Whether the case was an emergency one; whether the order of relief was valid, and whether the charges of the plaintiff were reasonable.

Commonwealth vs. Dale Swartz, betrayal. Prosecutrix, Ione Bullock. Defendant pleaded guilty and was given the usual sentence.

Commonwealth vs. Joseph Wade, assault and battery. Prosecutor, W. R. Quick. The jury returned a verdict of guilty but divided the costs between the prosecutor and defendant on the grounds that the assault was provoked.

Commonwealth vs. Jere Sowers, horse stealing. Prosecutor, Henry Kline. Details of this case were published in this paper six weeks ago. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

Commonwealth vs. Theodore Korniasen (alias Mike Kappi) indicted on four counts, larceny, receiving stolen goods, stealing from a person, and robbery. Prosecutor, John Roush. This is the case of highway robbery reported in this paper last week and fuller details of which are given elsewhere in this paper. Mr. Roush was the only witness for the prosecution and the Poland testified in his own behalf. He said he came to the United States about four months ago and admitted that he was with the men that assaulted and robbed Mr. Roush but claimed that he did not have any hand in it, and was compelled to go with the other two at the point of a revolver. The jury returned a verdict of guilty.

The grand jury in their report recommended a number of repairs at the jail and approved a petition for a county bridge in Liberty township.

G. FRED MUSSER GETS LEASE ON PHOENIX MILL PROPERTY.—At the regular meeting of borough council on Monday evening, September 15th, the Lauderbach-Barber company through their attorney stated that they would like to lease that portion of the Phoenix mill property lately occupied by the Yeager Swing company and asked what rental council wanted. The matter was referred to the Water committee.

In the meantime G. Fred Musser made the committee an offer for the property and a special meeting of council was held on Monday evening to dispose of the matter. The Lauderbach-Barber company was represented by W. D. Zerby and Mr. Musser by N. B. Spangler. Mr. Musser's offer was on the basis of a $500 per year rental and the Lauderbach-Barber company made it $600.

There was considerable discussion pro and con and finally Mr. Brockerhoff made a motion that final disposition of the matter be held over until the next regular meeting night. The motion was defeated. A motion to lease the property to G. Fred Musser was then put and carried, there being only two dissenting votes.

The property will be occupied as a wholesale grocery by Dannenhower & Sons, incorporated, with G. Fred Musser as manager. The above firm has its headquarters in Camden N. J., has a number of wholesale stores throughout the east and is one of the largest and most responsible houses in the country. Mr. Musser, who is now in the east completing detailed arrangements, expects to have the plant here open and ready for business by the first of October. Inasmuch as he was manager of the Lauderbach-Barber company store here for years, from the time it was first opened under Platt, Barber & Co., until last spring, he is consequently well known to the trade of Bellefonte and Centre county and will doubtless make a success of the new venture.

Unwise, Says the Presiding Judge, "to Try This Case Piecemeal"—Defense Enters General Denial.

William Sulzer must go to trial in Albany, N. Y., on the merits of the impeachment charges made against him. Later on the court will decide whether it has a right to try him.

Reduced to plain English, that is the meaning of an astounding ruling made by the court. It took the breath from even those who voted for it. The importance of the decision is that had the court ruled in favor of Sulzer on his demurrer to the three "money articles" of the impeachment, certain evidence of alleged misconduct in office could not have been placed before the court.

Now he must face trial. Later on it may be decided that the court had no right to try him for acts committed prior to his taking office. But the damaging evidence will have been placed before the tribunal.

No one had an inkling of what was to come. Austen G. Fox, the last of Sulzer's string of attorneys, had closed a powerful argument against bringing Sulzer to trial for acts precedent to his office holding. He had shown that in the constitutions of twenty-four states impeachment on such charges is specifically barred. He had alleged precedent after precedent in support of his position. It is too much to say his position would have been supported by vote. But the division would have been on more even terms than in preceding votes. It was assumed that a vote would be ordered. Then Judge Cullen gave his opinion, advising that the decision on the indictments in question be deferred until the final issue of the guilt or innocence of the accused official be reached.

When he ordered a vote forty-nine members of the court voted to defer decision on the objections to the three articles of the bill of impeachment until the final vote is taken upon Governor Sulzer's guilt or innocence of the charges made against him. Seven voted against this, in spite of Cullen's powerful statement from the bench and the fact that he was supported by every member of the court of appeals, which sit with the senate. Immediately afterward the respondent's answer was read in which he entered a formal denial of the charges. Then Eugene Lamb Richards, counsel for the managers of the impeachment proceedings, opened the case for the state.

Secretary of State Mitchell May was then called to the stand as the first witness in the impeachment trial. He was called to testify that Governor Sulzer was nominated, elected and sworn into office as governor.

"We will concede," said Louis Marshall for the governor, "that he was duly nominated, elected and inducted into office."

"Do you admit that he has not resigned?" asked Isidore Kresel, for the prosecution. "We do," replied the governor's counsel, "and that he has no intention of resigning."

After testifying that he had administered the oath of office to the governor, Mr. May was excused. George R. VanNamee, clerk of the assembly, the next witness, produced the report of the Frawley investigating committee, presented to the assembly on Aug. 11, and testified that it had been adopted. He produced also the impeachment resolutions adopted by the assembly the same day.

VanNamee was excused to obtain documents he had neglected to bring, and Mr. May was recalled to produce the original statement of Governor Sulzer's campaign contributions. He produced also the campaign statement of the William Sulzer Progressive League. This showed reports of $450 and expenditures of $451.

Patrick McCabe, clerk of the senate and of the court, was then called. He testified to the presentation of the articles of impeachment to the senate and of the service of the articles upon the governor.

Albert Wolf, of New York, testified to having taken Governor Sulzer's oath to his campaign affidavit on Nov. 13.

Jacob H. Schiff, of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., bankers, who on Oct. 16, 1912, gave Sulzer a check for $2500, was called. He said he gave Sulzer the money for expenses and he could use it any way he chose.

Henry Morgenthau, ambassador to Turkey, testified that he gave Sulzer $1000 because he was the nominee of the Democratic party and to help him in his canvass.

Jilted; Uses Dynamite. Charged with dynamiting the home of Miss Anna Melcorian, at Gladden, Pa., because she had jilted him, Benjie Frank was arrested in Pittsburgh. In the explosion the house was wrecked and Ferdinand Melcorian, the girl's father, was badly injured.
