

Huerta Hastens to Raise Troops

It is Reported in Mexico City Dictator Has Let United States Know of His Intention.

While Provisional President Huerta, of Mexico, has not yet given any sign of weakening in his attitude of defiance toward the United States, it is believed in government circles in Mexico City that when the congress meets and the report of the committee on credentials is read the provisional president's resignation will be offered. There is nobody to whom Huerta can resign excepting to congress.

Many persons express the belief that Huerta, if he intends to resign, has allowed the United States government to know of his intention to resign to the new congress after it has ratified all of his movements since the dissolution of the previous congress.

This is taken in some quarters as an explanation of the failure of the United States to take prompt and drastic action following the organization of the new congress.

It is rumored persistently that Foreign Minister Moheno will resign from Huerta's cabinet this week. It is also asserted that Senor Urrutia will again head the department of the interior. Some officials declare that the post has already been offered to him, but has not been accepted.

It is regarded as possible that congress may name some one else for provisional president for a period ensuing until the election and inauguration of a permanent chief executive, but it would undoubtedly be a big surprise to most Mexicans if Huerta should not be instructed to continue at the head of affairs.

Asked about the relations with the United States, Huerta said:

"In so far as I know there is no change in relations between the two countries. What follows depends on the United States. We are waiting. Any action which will alter the relations between the United States and Mexico must originate in Washington, not here."

It is reported that Huerta will take the field against the rebels, who are sweeping all northern Mexico, capturing many towns and opening the way for an advance upon the capital. He intends to lead into battle the greatest Mexican army that has ever gathered. This explanation was given of his action in calling upon the governors of the various states of Mexico to put in to the field all their available men, as he desired to raise an army of 150,000 soldiers.

Huerta has little hope of stopping the campaign of the Constitutionalists in the north, but with this great army he expects to deal a crushing blow to Carranza when the revolutionary leader brings his forces within striking distance.

All trains for Vera Cruz are crowded with foreign refugees, the majority being Americans, whose flight was quickened by the report that the rebels are investing Orizaba, a town midway between the capital and the coast. Repeated rumors that General Blanquet is plotting to overthrow Huerta have served to increase the danger, according to the opinion of the foreigners in Mexico City. They believe that the upheaval would be accompanied by frightful excesses.

Got on High Horse and Demanded That Envoy Present Credentials

Considering that their negotiations at Nogales, state of Sonora, Mexico with William Bayard Hale are at an end, General Venustiano Carranza, leader of the Mexican Constitutionalists, and his cabinet ordered a special train to take them to Hermosillo. They will establish headquarters at that place.

Senor Escudero, Carranza's foreign minister, announced that the Constitutionalists would not confer further with Hale until he had presented credentials from Washington.

Blames Shock to System on Work of Scranton Doctor.

Declaring that he has been physically ruined through the carelessness of a dentist in fixing a cap to a tooth, Alfred Marsden, of Jersey City, appeared in the United States court in Scranton, Pa., to press his claim for $10,000 damages against Dr. Robert F. Taylor, of Scranton.

Marsden maintains that his spine, nervous system, sight and general health have been affected in consequence of the dentist's treatment.

Marsden was passing through Scranton two years ago, and was seized with toothache enroute. He says he got off the train and went to Dr. Taylor's office, a half block from the station. He alleges that the doctor inserted a pin to keep the cap in place and that the pin worked downward into the jaw. Ulceration developed, which affected the patient's nervous system. The nervous strain has injured his spine and his sight has become defective.

Man, 25, Killed Girl, 12, and Himself.

Maddened by the unrequited love of a twelve-year-old girl, Michael Martin, twenty-five years old, shot and killed Anna Reckles, a pretty little schoolgirl, and then shot himself in Scranton, Pa.

Martin had been boarding at the Reckles home for the last year. His attentions to the girl aroused the suspicions of the parents, and they ordered him to leave.

Making his plans of murder with deliberation and coolness, Martin carried them into effect in every detail. Enticing the girl into his room on the second floor of the home, while a girl, friend was in the hall, and her mother, sisters and brothers were on the ground floor, the enraged and disapproving lover clutched her in one arm and, drawing a revolver from his pocket with the other, fired at her point blank.

The girl put up one hand to protect herself, and the first bullet pierced the palm. Another struggle ensued and Martin finally placed the revolver to her temple and fired. The little victim sank down on the bed, unconscious. Martin then turned the gun on himself.

Members of the family, hearing the shots, rushed to the room. Martin has already breathed his last and the girl was unconscious. She died one hour later at the State hospital.

Miller Defends Whipping Post

Delaware Executive Replies to Protests Against Relic of Barbarism and Warns Evil-Doers It Will Stay.

Despite the nation-wide protest made against the continuance of the whipping post in the state of Delaware, Governor Charles R. Miller gave out a statement in Wilmington, in which he declared that his state would continue to do as it pleased, without respect to the opinion of the nation in general.

Governor Miller's deft was issued, following a storm of protest against the public whipping of two negroes. The punishment of the two men followed closely on an agitation started in congress to force Delaware to abolish its relic of barbarism—probably the last whipping post in the civilized world.

Governor Miller's statement reads: "The courts and other legal authorities of the state of Delaware will administer the internal affairs of the commonwealth regardless of any attempted interference by a member of congress or of individuals residing in other states, who are ignorant of conditions and permit themselves to be misled by extravagant and highly colored newspaper articles.

"The persons who have written me numerous letters, some of them abusive and insulting to the citizenship of the state, should pause to consider that state government in America is based upon a statutory law by men elected by the people.

"I shall uphold the state's courts in the administration of the law and warn all evil-doers to give Delaware a wide berth if they wish to escape the whipping post."

He said the whipping post was the fundamental punishment for crime to evil-doers in Delaware since 1656 and will continue to be so far as he is personally concerned until the people by their own free will decree otherwise.

Governor Miller personally favors the whipping post. He considers it one of the most effective barriers to vicious criminals, and points to the minimum record of crime in Delaware as largely due to the fear of the whipping post. With this mode of punishment abandoned, he is of the belief that Wilmington would become a stopping off place for the biggest criminals in the country from the large cities with which Wilmington is in line, namely, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington.

Defends Whipping Post in Congress.

The bareback whipping of convicts in Delaware was defended in the house by Representative Brockson, of that state, in a speech that bristled with Biblical quotations and legal citations in favor of the rod and thou shalt deliver his soul from hell.

Mr. Brockson declared as false the charge that Delaware had administered "cruel and unusual punishment," and said "the practice of making martyrs of criminals was a curse to modern society.

"The state of Delaware," Mr. Brockson declared, "being satisfied of the justice of her laws, is willing to stand alone for that which is right rather than to stand with the multitude for that which is wrong.

"All through the Bible," cried he, "we are taught that corporal punishment does us a good effect. 'Withhold not correction from the child, for if thou beatest him with the rod he shall not die,' he quoted. 'Thou shalt beat him with the rod and thou shalt deliver his soul from hell.'"

Mr. Brockson quoted Theodore Roosevelt as saying, when president, that certain offenders needed a special type of punishment and that "probably some form of corporal punishment would be the most adequate way of meeting this kind of crime" (wife beating).

A resolution by Representative Evans, of Montana, to direct the president and attorney general to bring injunction proceedings against the Delaware authorities to prevent the whipping of prisoners at New Castle, Del., was left by the house without action.

Pottsville Offers Armor Plate Site.

A naval armor plant free of cost to the government is offered formally by Pottsville, Pa., through Congressman Robert E. Lee, of that town.

The site offered by Mr. Lee is located on the main lines of the Philadelphia and Reading and the Pennsylvania railroads, in the heart of the anthracite coal regions.

There will be no charge to the navy department if it decided to take the ground offered by the Pottsville congressman.

Mr. Lee made his offer through this letter to Secretary Daniels:

"In view of the fact that the government is considering the erection of its own armor plant, I am authorized by the citizens of Schuylkill county, Pennsylvania, the district that I have the honor to represent, to tender to the government, free of charge, a suitable plot of ground for the erection of said plant. The ground is located on the main lines of the Philadelphia and Reading and the Pennsylvania railroads, in the heart of the anthracite coal region.

BOOKS, MAGAZINES, ETC.

OLD FAVORITE AMONG THE EXCELLENT FEATURES OF THE GAZETTE TIMES.—Buster Brown smiles at us again in the colored comic section of the Pittsburgh Gazette Times, and we laugh right back at him and with him. Buster is the brightest and most amusing American boy who ever played harmless pranks in the pages of a newspaper. We have missed him for a long time. His return to us is one of the happiest events of recent journalistic history. Now we will have a good laugh every Sunday when our Gazette Times arrives.

R. F. Outcault, the creator of Buster and Tige and Mary Jane, thought he could retire from the "comic game" but he could not. Not only that, he comes back to it better than ever. Buster Brown never before was so funny. He is our old friend but more mirth-provoking than when we last saw him.

Buster rounds out the lot of good things regularly to be found in the Sunday Gazette Times. There are Elsie Jane's illustrated articles telling how to do the new dances, a page of real home and home hints by Anna Rittenhouse, a delightful series of drawings by James Montgomery Flagg, "A Girl You Know," the "glad story," the illustrated Sunday Magazine, complete in itself, a big sporting section and all the news. So the Gazette Times will satisfy all members of the family.

THE NOVEMBER CENTURY.—The case for the feminists is stated sympathetically and sanely by Edna Kenton in "The Militant Women—and Women," in the November Century. The little Kenton, who is the British militant disturbance to be but a small part of the great feminist movement. This issue of the Century might be called a round-the-world number, so much ground is covered by the various articles, stories, poems and illustrations. The scenes of the anonymous novel, "Home," the second quarter of which appears in this number, are for the most part in South America. An imaginative story by Stephen French Whitman, "The Woman from Yonder," is told of a scientist who meets a marvelous woman in the Alps. Frances Hodgson Burnett, L. Frank Tooker, G. K. Chesterton and Jacob A. Riis are among the contributors. "The Economic Consequences of Immigration" is the title of a paper by Prof. Edward A. Ross, of the University of Wisconsin, on perhaps the greatest problem still unsolved by the United States.

The illustrations in this number—some of them reproduced in full color—are unusually profuse, and include the work of F. Luis Mora, Reginald Birch, N. C. Wyeth and Charles Livingston Bull, and sketches by Everett L. Warner. The department, "In Lighter Vein," continues to be a brilliant little comic magazine in itself.

GOOD SHORT STORIES.—Readers of short stories, and there are many of them, should be interested to know that the Pittsburgh Dispatch is printing daily the best short stories that are being written in these modern times. In response to a great and growing demand for the best fiction in this form, the Dispatch has taken a great deal of pains to round up the best short story writers. Among the authors secured who are well known to magazine readers are Charles Bateell Loomis, William Wallace Whitehead, Everett B. Stickle, Morely Roberts, Miss Wilcox Patnam, William LeClerc, Tom Gallon, Beatrice Harraden, W. Hodgson, A. W. Marchmont, Frank Harris, Leonard Merrick, Edmund Vance Cooke, Agnes and Egerton Castle, Sewell Ford, Grace MacGowan Cooke, Baroness von Hutten, Baroness Orczy, Melville D. Post, Frank Condon, Crede Haskins Calhoun, Hugh Pendexter, Hansburg Liebe, Don Marquis, Erle Salvage and others.
