EXPRESS OFFICES CONSOLIDATED .- The American express office in the freight Dr. Krebs. depot at the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania has been abandoned and the business done by that company will hereafter be handled by the Adams Express company from its office in the Bush house block. The consolidation of the two offices took place on Wednesday when all the books and supplies of the American express company were transferred to the Adams company office. Since the parcel post has become the chief carrier for all small packages the express business has naturally decreased, the American was not doing enough business in Bellefonte to the outside world, or at least until another to justify the expense it was at, hence the change. The change will dispense with the present messenger on the train, whose place will be taken by Perry and delivery wagon, as all collections and deliveries will be made by the Adams company wagon.
