

Quake Rocks Big Territory.

In Ottawa People Ran From Homes
Panic-Stricken, While Buildings
Rocked and Furniture Overturned.

Points as far north as Montreal and as far south as Philadelphia felt distinct earthquake shocks of varying intensity on Tuesday afternoon.

Indications were that the entire northeastern section of the United States was in the zone of tremors. At no point included in the first reports was serious damage done.

In New York state the tremors were recorded in New York city, Albany, Elmira, Rome, Syracuse and other points. In Canada shocks were felt at Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Prescott, Brockville and other places.

One life was lost as a result of the earthquake at Binghamton, N. Y. The tremors caused a cave-in of a trench four feet deep in the basement of the Walley building, and Rocco Parso, a laborer, was killed.

The shocks seemed severest in Canada. A man was hurt in Montreal by being thrown from a wagon when his horse was frightened by bricks and boards falling from the top of a building.

In Verdun, a suburb of Montreal, hundreds of persons rushed from their homes in panic. The mayor of Verdun said that it sounded as if "a five-ton truck was being pulled through the streets at high speed."

In the parliament building at Ottawa pictures were shaken from the walls, tables and desks were overturned, and buildings rocked upon their foundations. Members of parliament ran bareheaded into the streets. Telephone poles were shaken down on the outskirts of the city and telephone communication with some districts was interrupted. Residents of the outskirts were panic-stricken and fled from their homes into the open fields.

Several buildings in Brooklyn, including borough hall and the court house, were shaken. Tenants in New York's highest buildings—the Woolworth and Singer—said that they felt no tremors whatever.

Syracuse was thrown into a panic when there was a distinct trembling of the earth lasting about fifteen seconds. Desks in downtown offices shook.

The tremors seemed to go east and west. In the residential districts the shock was quite severe, and in some places plants and dishes were tumbled down.

In Ogdensburg buildings shook perceptibly, and some chimneys fell. Telephone girls fled from their switchboards. In some homes furniture was overturned and dishes thrown from the tables. The tremors lasted thirty seconds.

A severe shock was felt in Rome and throughout that section of Oneida county. Dishes shook on their shelves and type in the newspaper offices moved on the galleys.

Couple Slain in Motor Car.

In a lonely section of country between Latrobe and Ligonier, Pa., the bodies of Anna Lutz, sixteen years of age, and John McFadden, twenty years old, both of Greensburg, were found in an automobile.

The girl had been shot twice in the left temple and McFadden was shot in the right temple. The motor of the car was still running when the bodies were found.

Mystery shrouded the tragedy until a letter from McFadden to another girl was found, showing that he was infatuated with both and had evidently promised to marry one of them. So he cut love's gordian knot by killing one of his sweethearts and himself.

"I'm in Latrobe and going over the mountains. You'll never see me again," was the message which McFadden telephoned to his employer, Elmer Turner, manager of the Standard Garage. He hung up the receiver. Turner sent out other employes to find the chauffeur.

They overlooked the machine standing on top of a knoll, to the right of the road, with the engine still going. Both Miss Lutz and McFadden were sitting upright in the front seat of the machine.

Miss Lutz had been shot twice in the left temple and had evidently died instantly. There had apparently been no struggle, and it is thought that McFadden shot the girl without her suspecting what he was going to do. He then fired a bullet into his own right temple. The revolver was found lying between the young couple, with three empty chambers.

Brother of Louis Sherry Nearly Caused Lad's Death in Park.

Frank Sherry, a brother of Louis Sherry, the New York restaurant owner, was sentenced to serve ten days in the Tombs for having pushed Jack Dayton, nine years old, into a lake in Central park.

The Dayton child, accompanied by his nurse, brushed against Sherry, and the latter pushed the boy into the water. A policeman saved the boy from drowning.

Find Entombed Miners Dead.

The bodies of Michael Deffis and his laborer, entombed in a breast at the No. 4 colliery of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company, in Pottsville, Pa., were found lying side by side by the big force of rescuers that had worked in relays since Tuesday afternoon in the hope that they might be round alive.

The Unhappy Girl, in Desperate Straits, Takes Poison and Confesses Dramatic Shooting.

With the mother and sister of his slain wife staring at him, ready to challenge any false statement that he might make, Charles J. Manning was subjected to a constant fire of questions for two hours by the Newark, N. J., police, seeking to determine to just what extent, if any, he is responsible for the slaying of his wife.

Detectives are following clues obtained from a letter which was written by Hazel Herdman before she swallowed bichloride of mercury. The letter was found in the girl's clothing in the hospital after she died.

"I killed her because she wouldn't give him up. I loved him, and with her out of the way we could have married and given our child an honorable name."

Efforts to persuade the woman to divorce the man and make the way clear for the new union had proved unavailing, the young woman averred, and there was no way for her but to resort to the pistol.

Miss Hazel Herdman cleared away the mysterious murder of Mrs. Harriet Manning in her home in Newark on Friday night.

The young woman exonerated Manning from any part in the murder. She said that he was horrified and shocked when she told him what she had done.

The killing of Mrs. Manning was like a chapter out of a "best seller." Mrs. Manning was in the kitchen, washing. Mrs. Cobb, her mother, was returning from the yard with an armful of wood, and Mrs. Riley, a sister, was preparing supper.

The doorbell rang and Mrs. Cobb answered. A tall woman, dressed all in black, with a gray raincoat thrown loosely over her shoulders, stood in the doorway. A heavy crape veil, which hid her face, was draped over a black hat. In one hand the woman held a black silk umbrella. Her other hand she kept in a pocket of her raincoat.

"Is Mrs. Manning in?" the visitor asked in a low voice, which did not enable Mrs. Cobb to determine whether the caller was a man dressed in woman's clothes or a woman, as her dress seemed to indicate.

"Yes, she is in," replied Mrs. Cobb. "Who shall I say is calling on her?"

"Just say that an old friend from Philadelphia would like to talk with her for a few minutes," the visitor replied.

Mrs. Cobb ushered the veiled stranger into the parlor. She then called Mrs. Manning.

Mrs. Manning came in from the kitchen and entered the room. The parlor was dark, and Mrs. Manning as she started to light the gas, was overheard to remark: "Who is it that wants to see me?"

The visitor was heard to whisper something in reply, and immediately thereafter a pistol shot followed. Before Mrs. Cobb and Mrs. Riley could rush into the room there came a second shot. They saw the stranger in a corner of the room, with the pistol still in her hand. She fired one more shot at them, but it missed, and she fled from the house.

Husband Noticed Her Absence and Entered Burning Building.

David C. Whyte, seventy-five years old, lost his life in an attempt to rescue his wife, seventy-eight years old, when the Colonial mansion on the estate of Cadwell C. Tyler, near Charlestown, W. Va., was destroyed by fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Whyte had been spending the winter with Dr. N. P. Tyler, Mrs. Whyte's brother. Dr. Tyler discovered the fire and he and Mrs. Whyte escaped.

Noting his wife's absence, Mr. Whyte re-entered the burning building. A few charred bones found the story of the aged husband's fruitless attempt.

The Tyler mansion and its contents were a total loss, the damage being estimated at $25,000.

Jealous Girl Ends Life.

Miss Grace Quaide, twenty-three years old, of Cleveland, Ohio, who shot her sweetheart, J. G. Alder, and then herself, because Alder told her he was going to marry another girl, died. Her last words before she lapsed into unconsciousness were:

"I'm glad I did it. I had nothing to live for. I pleaded with him to marry me in spite of his parents' objection. Then he told me he was in love with another girl. I then shot him, and then myself."

Alder will live, physicians say.

Female Artist Commits Suicide.

While he was digging a fence post hole on his father's farm, near Brownville, Md., Claude Wastler found the bones of a man that had been buried under two feet of earth. The skeleton was intact and it is believed that it was that of a Union soldier who was killed by a Confederate sharpshooter a few days before the battle of Antietam.

NOTICE.—In Re Satisfaction of Mortgage.—In the Court of Common Pleas of Centre County, Pa., in the matter of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Centre County, Bellefonte, Pa., vs. J. D. Shugert, Trustee. No. 5, February Term, 1914.

To Charles F. Cook, Succeeding Trustee, and to any and all parties interested in said mortgage or in the bonds secured thereby:— Take notice that on January 13, 1914, the State-Centre Electric Company presented its petition to the above named Court, averring in substance, as follows: That it is the owner of the mortgaged premises described in the mortgage hereinafter mentioned, as follows, to wit: "All that certain message, tenement and lot of ground situated on Lamb street, in the borough of Bellefonte, County of Centre and State of Pennsylvania, bounded by lot of John Caldwell on the west, lot of W. F. C. Humes, and on the north by said Lamb street, fronting on said Lamb street seventy-four feet from the lot of John Caldwell to the lot of E. C. Humes, and extending back south about one hundred and twenty feet to lot of W. F. Reynolds," having erected thereon the buildings containing the machinery, &c., of the Central Station of said Company, together with all and singular the buildings, improvements and appurtenances; that the said mortgage is a certain mortgage given and executed by the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Bellefonte, to J. D. Shugert, Trustee, dated June 1st, 1893, and recorded in the office for the recording of deeds, &c., in and for the said county of Centre, in Mortgage Book "V," page 514, &c., being a mortgage given to secure an issue of thirty coupon bonds of Five Hundred Dollars ($500) each, aggregating a total indebtedness of Fifteen Thousand Dollars ($15,000), payable ten years after the date of said mortgage, with interest thereon at the rate of five per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually, and being a mortgage upon the above mentioned mortgaged premises; that the principal and interest on the bonds secured by said mortgage were fully paid in the year 1907, but, owing to the death of J. D. Shugert, the Trustee named in said mortgage, on October 28th, 1907, the record of said mortgage has not been satisfied; that on the petition of said petitioner the said Court, on December 5, 1913, by decree of said Court bearing that date, appointed Charles F. Cook, Succeeding Trustee in the place and stead of J. D. Shugert, deceased, as Succeeding Trustee under the above mentioned mortgage, with all the powers and authority vested originally in the said J. D. Shugert under and by virtue of the said mortgage.

That the said petition, therefore, prayed for the satisfaction of said mortgage. That thereupon the said Court ordered and decreed that the Sheriff of the said County of Centre serve notice, stating the facts set forth in the petition, on Charles F. Cook, the Succeeding Trustee under the said mortgage, and that the said Sheriff also give public notice in two newspapers within the said County of Centre once a week for four weeks successively, prior to the next term of the said Court, beginning the fourth Monday of February, A. D. 1914, requiring the said Succeeding Trustee and any and all parties interested to appear at said succeeding term and answer the said petition and show cause, if any, why satisfaction should not be entered on the record of the said mortgage by the Recorder of Deeds for the said County of Centre, or why the said mortgage should not otherwise be satisfied of record.
