United States War Vessels and Marines Capture Vera Cruz

Beginning With an Assault on Tuesday and Continuing Through Most of Wednesday the Fight on the Mexican Sea Port Waxed Hot Until Mexicans Evacuated. All Quiet Yesterday and Outlook in Doubt.

At 2.30 o'clock yesterday Admiral Badger, commanding the naval forces off Vera Cruz, reported everything quiet there with no semblance of an attack by the Mexicans to recapture Vera Cruz.

He also reported the total casualties to the United States of the two days fighting as 12 killed and 55 wounded.

At Washington there is a feeling of great unanimity in support of President Wilson's position, and conferences are being held to devise the best ways and means of raising money to defray the expense of the present trouble in Mexico, providing it is prolonged to any extent. Following is a more detailed report of the trouble:

Washington, April 23, 4.20 p. m.-All diplomatic relations between Mexico and United States severed when Bryan was requested to issue passports for Charge de Affairs Algara home. Wilson ignores Carranza's statement. Sending of troops across Texas border imminent.

Those killed were: George Poinsett, seaman, battleship Florida, Philadelphia; John F. Schumacher, coxswain, battleship Florida, Brcoklyn; Daniel A. Haggerty, marine private, Cambridge, Mass.; Samuel Martin, marine private, Chicago.

The wounded include C. L. Leahy, U. Schwartz, C. D. Cameron, J. F. Plese, seamen of the Florida; Electrician Geisburn, of the Florida, and D. D. McMillan, private, Second Marine regiment, from the transport Prairie. Desultory firing was in progress for several hours, according to a dispatch from Rear Admiral Fletcher. At first the garrison had appeared to be withdrawing. American Consul Canada reported this to the state department. but when the American forces reached the custom house the Mexicans opened with rifle and artillery fire.

The transport Prairie immediately began sheliing the Mexican positions. slowly driving them out. The Mexicans fought from the housetops and along the streets.

The American forces have taken possession of the cable office and hold the American consulate and the section of the city in the vicinity of the wharves.

The first news of the fighting at Vera Cruz and the seizure of the city comes in this report from Admiral Fletcher, received at the navy department:

"Tuesday, in face of approaching norther, landed marines and sailors from Utah, Florida and Prairie and seized custom house. Mexican forces did not oppose landing, but opened fire streets. Hold custom house and sections of city in vicinity of wharves and consulate. Casualties four dead and twenty wounded." It was followed in about an hour by another dispatch from Admiral Fletch-"Holding the vicinity of the railroad station and the yards, and desultory firing continues. Also holding the vicinity of custom house and cable office. Light norther is blowing." Later Admiral Fletcher sent this dispatch: "Our men are firing only when fired at. We prepared a flag of truce, with message to General Maas to cease firing or our big guns would be used. No wabout 1000 marines and sailors ashore. All business here suspended." A hurried conference was called at the White House, President Wilson sumoning Secretaries Bryan, Garrison and Daniels. They were in conference for over an hour, and emerged serious faced. "First blood has been spilled," said he began the practice of medicine in that one of the officials at the White More than 200 Mexicans were killed in the battle with the marines, according to an unofficial report. Secretary Bryan left the White House for the German embassy, where he discussed with the German ambassador the consignment of arms for Huerta aboard a Germant merchant vessel due to be landed in Vera Cruz. The capture of the custom house at Vera Cruz was ordered by President Wilson to prevent the shipment of several million rounds of ammunition and 200 machine guns from getting into Huerta's hands. The Mexicans, under General Bustavo Maas, the commandant of Vera AUBURN .- William Powers, parole officer Cruz, put up a stubborn resistance. General Maas challenged the advance to Bellefonte Monday evening armed of the Americans almost from the first with the necessary requisition papers and made it clear that the Mexicans and on Tuesday took Edward Bell, the do not propose to permit a peaceful occupation. The guns of the Prairie assisted the landing party. Towards evening the can flag and skirmished with the Mex. fighting continued, but it was more of a house-top character than a determined organized resistance.

Finally the Mexican soldiers who had not been captured, killed or wounded retreated westward.

The following cable was sent to the White House by Consul Canada:

"At two p. m. Wednesday the city was entirely quiet and thoroughly policed by American forces. The request that the San Sebastian hospital be placed at the disposal of our chief sanitary officer, together with native doctors and nurses to care for the Mexican wounded, was immediately granted. It is reported that all Americans who stayed at the Diligencias hotel during the fighting are safe and are now going on board the Esperanza."

The chief point from which the Mexicans fired was in the central part of the city. From the two houses forming the Diligencia hotel the Mexican sharpshooters directed a troublesome fire.

Marines are searching all houses from which shots were fired, and all Mexicans with arms in their hands have been made prisoners and sent to the United States mine ship San Francisco. Some of the Mexicans were thoroughly frightened, apparently expecting that the Americans would shoot their prisoners.

Hundreds of Mexicans have been arrested and placed under a guard of marines at the railroad station.

A proclamation was issued in the name of Rear Admiral Badger, in command of the fleet in Mexican waters. setting forth rules for the guidance of the inhabitants. It urges them to cooperate with United States Consul Canada to resume their customary occupations. It is expected that business houses will reopen at once.

The cargo of war munitions for the Federal government aboard the Ypiringa was captured by the force of occupation. It consists of 250 machine guns, 20,000 rifles and 15,000,000 rounds of ammunition. While congress was debating the Mexican situation, President Wilson ordered Rear Admiral Fletcher to seize the Vera Cruz custom house and prevent Huerta from getting several million rounds of ammunition and 200 field guns on a German steamship bound for that port. As there is no blockade, the American forces could not interfere with the German vessel. The orders were to seize the guns and shells after they had been 'anded or to seize the custom house to prevent their landing, and thus keep them from going to Meixco City.
