BOOKS, MAGAZINES, Etc.

THE MAY WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION.—Two very important articles in the May Woman's Home Companion present many interesting facts about the care of children that will both interest and help mothers. One is entitled "The Safeguarding of the Child," by Julia C. Lathrop. The other is entitled, "Good Teeth and Vision for Your Baby," by Dr. S. Josephine Baker. Other entertaining and valuable articles are: "The Freedom of Self-Expression," "Conquering the Kitchen," "The Pleasures We Take Captive," "Better Babies for All America," and "Your Furnace in Spring." The regular Fashion, Cooking, Young People's, and Home Decoration and Handicraft departments are filled with good reading and beautiful illustrations.

POPULAR MECHANICS MAGAZINE FOR MAY.—Contains, all told, 327 articles and 35 illustrations. The most interesting portions of Rudyard Kipling's recent address, in which he prophesied the changes which will be brought about by the development of aerial navigation, are quoted, and a page view shows the new United States naval aeromarine station at Pensacola, Fla. Other aviation articles are: "Flying Boat Has Novel Control," "Faking a Thriller for the Movies," "Transatlantic Flier to Have Silk Wings," "Record-Making Flights by Russian Biplane," "Transferring Articles to Aerial Machines," etc. Many fine page views and groups of views appear in the May magazine. In some of these are shown: The results of the flood in Los Angeles; the restoration of the Garden of Eden by means of irrigation; great floating drydocks in German shipyards; a convertible tool which has many uses; the recent spectacular fire in St. Louis, in which many lives were lost; cutting a ship to pieces by means of the oxyacetylene flame; the tallest building west of the Mississippi; Panama Canal scenes; protecting bottom lands from flood; a trip across the Atlantic in a modern ocean liner, etc.

The May Century, containing in all 178 pages of text and pictures, is a well balanced number which does credit to the "New Spirit of the Century."

—They are all good enough, but the WATCHMAN is always the best.
