—An engagement announcement which will be of interest to many in Bellefonte, is that of Miss Helen Lyman, a niece of C. J. Phelps, late Ambassador to England, and Sherwood E. Hall, of New York city. Mr. Hall for two years was connected with the Bellefonte Academy as a teacher of Latin and history, at the same time having charge of the organ in the Presbyterian church, but left here three years ago, to begin his studies for a corporation lawyer in New York city.

—Mrs. Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale, one of the most beautiful women and one of the leading actresses of the day, will come to Bellefonte Saturday, May 23rd, in the interest of Suffrage in Pennsylvania. Mrs. Hale is considered the foremost talker on this subject among the women of America, and the opportunity of hearing her is one Bellefonte people should not ignore. The lecture, which will be given in the court house, will be free, though an offering will be taken.

—Harry H. Schreyer and H. U. Morton, of Chicago, have been in Bellefonte this week, spending their time among Mr. Schreyer's old-time friends in Bellefonte and at the Country Club. Mr. Schreyer, by the way, has furnished the club three English pheasants, which will be housed in a wire netting enclosure among the locust trees east of the club house. He expects to add to the flock just as soon as he can obtain the birds with the idea of eventually turning them loose to propagate on the mountains of Centre county.

DROWNED NEAR BLANCHARD.—Zelma Eaton, the five year old daughter of Mrs. George Eaton, of Blanchard, was drowned in Bald Eagle creek near that place on Sunday afternoon and it was only through the heroic efforts of her fourteen year old son William that the woman, herself, was saved from a watery grave.

Shortly after one o'clock Sunday afternoon Mrs. Eaton with her son and daughter and a nephew, Chester Waltz, went for a boat ride on Bald Eagle creek. Instead of paddles William Eaton was using a pole to propel and guide the boat. They had not proceeded far when the boat struck a sunken limb. The occupants at once became alarmed and in the excitement the boat was overturned, precipitating the four into deep water. Mrs. Eaton called to her son William to save the Waltz boy and she would take care of her little girl. Young Eaton managed to get the boy to safety and when he looked for his mother and sister he was horrified to see that the latter had disappeared and his mother was apparently unconscious. Hurriedly securing another boat he rowed out into the stream and, notwithstanding the fact that his mother is a woman weighing two hundred pounds, he managed to get her unconscious form into the boat and rowed ashore, where the woman was finally resuscitated.

It appears that when Mrs. Eaton attempted to save her little girl she got a short distance toward the shore when she was caught by a strong current and swept off her feet. Being unable to swim she finally lost consciousness and it was then she lost her hold on her little daughter who sank from view and was drowned. The child's body was recovered later in the afternoon.

A GOOD MULE STORY.—Did you ever see a mule die a natural death? Of course you didn't, 'cause mules don't die; they are simply dickered back and forth until they dry up and are blown away. At least Hon. A. G. Morris might easily be convinced that such is the case and all because of the following:

Between fifteen and sixteen years ago he bought an old gray mule for $15. He used the mule around the limestone quarries for twelve years then gave it to Henry Casper, the drayman. Casper drove the old mule three years and about three months ago sold it to a Nittany valley farmer for $25. Last week Mr. Morris was informed that the American Lime and Stone company, of which he is the head, was in need of a mule at its plant near Tyrone. Mr. Morris delegated ex-sheriff D. W. Woodring, of this place, to hunt a mule, and Mr. Woodring was right on the job, as he said he knew where he could get a splendid mule. A few days ago he told Mr. Morris that he had bought a mule, and got it for the cheap price of $110, but when the mule was delivered what was Mr. Morris' astonishment and chagrin to find that the mule that Woodring had bought was the old gray mule he had given away over three years ago, and which is now probably over thirty years old.

We'll leave it to the reader to imagine what Mr. Morris said when he made the discovery.

FREAKS OF TUESDAY EVENING'S STORM.—One of the worst storms we have had this spring, and there have been a number of them, was that shortly after six o'clock on Tuesday evening. It came up with the rapidity of a western cyclone and the clouds were so black and dense that it was almost like night time. During the storm there was a very severe flash of lightning and coincident therewith a ball of fire about the size of a hickory nut appeared on the metal ceiling of the Scenic theatre, hanged there for an instant then dropped to the floor and disappeared. An examination showed that a small hole had been burned in the metal ceiling, but no fire originated. Some time during Tuesday afternoon Frank Bartley took a traveling man down to Hublersburg in his automobile. They left Hublersburg about six o'clock and were nearing Bellefonte when the storm came up. Just beyond Beaver's farm the traveling man remarked that it looked as if a cyclone were coming and advised Bartley to turn on the power and go through it. Bartley turned on the power and just as he topped the hill at the turn beyond Beaver's farm the full force of the storm struck them and lifted the machine bodily and set it over to the side of the road, a distance of ten feet or more. Fortunately the machine was not overturned, no damage was done and nobody was hurt.

SUMMER SESSION AT STATE COLLEGE.—Advance registration indicates an attendance of fully 1000 teachers at the summer session of The Pennsylvania State College, beginning the last of June. Last year 600 teachers attended during the six weeks. The are fifty-two college instructors offering courses in nearly every line of study from Greek and literature to cooking, poultry raising and wood working. A special course in milling is offered to those engaged in that industry, as well as courses in Biblical study for Sunday school workers. Many prominent educators will speak at the daily assemblies. Homer Rodeheaver, who has charge of the music in "Billy" Sunday's campaigns, will lead at the Sunday evening campus services.

The board of road and bridge viewers held a meeting on Monday to hear testimony and pass upon the boundary line between Patton, College and Ferguson townships.

NOTICE.—Now is your time to get a Rain Coat, as I have concluded to discontinue the handling of rain coats. I will close out the balance of my stock at cost. D. I. WILLARD.

—During the past week Jesse Leathers and family have moved from Howard to the property just north of Bellefonte, purchased a year ago by the Leathers Bros. from Dr. R. G. H. Hayes. Mr. Leathers will farm some of the land and look after the place generally.

—For the Washington excursion that left Bellefonte last Saturday night 71 whole and two half tickets were sold at the Bellefonte station; 125 were sold at Lemont, quite a number of college students taking the trip, and the total number off of the branch exceeded five hundred. The excursionists returned to Bellefonte at two o'clock Monday morning.

—Rev. R. Crittenden, so well and favorably known to a very large proportion of the WATCHMAN'S readers, and whose home is 19 Cedar Ave., Bethlehem, Pa., writes us that "I want my good friends to know that I am still on the firing line at the front." A fact that we know there are scores and scores of good people in this section of the State will be rejoiced to learn.

—The funeral of the late Isaac Thomas was held from his home on Thomas street at 2.30 o'clock on Monday afternoon and was attended by Gregg Post No. 95, G. A. R. The services at the house were in charge of Rev. E. H. Yocum, of the Methodist church, and Rev. George E. Hawes, of the Presbyterian church. Burial in the Union cemetery was in accordance with the G. A. R. ritual.

—The regular May term of quarter sessions court will open next Monday, and the sessions next week will be of more than the usual interest, owing to two homicide cases and one or two other serious criminal cases. On account of the criminal list being larger than usual only two civil cases were put on the docket for trial next week, but a large list is scheduled for trial the second week of court.

—Mrs. Thomas R. Hayes made a deal this week whereby she purchased the handsome home of Dr. Emory Marvel, at Atlantic City, part of the consideration being the transfer to Dr. Marvel of her home on north Allegheny street, this place. Dr. Marvel expects to make Bellefonte the summer residence for his family, but having already made arrangements for the coming summer will not come here until next year.

—Last Sunday two dogs were engaged in chasing a deer on the mountains near Lamar. They were caught in the act by Harry Holmes, and one of the dogs caught while the other was chased from the trail. The dog caught had a tag bearing the name Harry Zimmerman, of Hecla. The game warden at Tyrone was notified and he went to Hecla and acquainted Mr. Zimmerman with what had happened, after which the dogs were killed.

—Manager T. Clayton Brown is not giving away premiums to induce attendance at the Scenic, but he is giving the best line of pictures he can secure and this is the reason so many patronize that popular place of amusement. Popular prices always prevail for regular circuit films and only a raise in price when something unusual and costly is secured. Remember, the Scenic is comfortable, even in hot weather, made so by a big exhaust fan.

—Commenting upon the very wet and unsettled weather we have had this spring James Schofield, the Spring street saddler, says that as long as you see the clouds shifting in different directions, showing two or more air currents you can be assured that the weather will be unsettled. But if the clouds all move directly from the west to the east showing only one air current, that denotes dry weather. From the amount of rain we have had this spring there must have been a dozen different currents in the air.

—The strong Indiana Normal base ball team will be the Bellefonte Academy's opponents on new Hughes field this (Friday) afternoon. In all kinds of Athletics the Indiana Normal has always been one of the Academy's strongest rivals, so that any kind of a contest between representative teams of the two institutions means a hard fought struggle. And for this reason today's game will probably be one of the best to be seen here this season, and for that reason a good crowd should attend. Game will be called at 2.30 o'clock. Admission, 25 cents.

—Vincent Nicholas Taylor, second son of Col. H. S. Taylor, received word last Saturday that he had successfully passed the examination for admission to the Naval Academy at Annapolis, for which he had been appointed an alternate some time ago by Congressman Charles E. Patton. Unfortunately, however, the principal also passed and got the appointment. But on Tuesday morning Vincent received a letter from Congressman Patton stating that he had appointed him a cadet to West Point and he was ordered to report immediately to the Washington barracks, Baltimore, for a mental and physical examination, and he left for that place the same evening.

SENATOR PENROSE VISITS BELLEFONTE.—United States Senator Boies Penrose made his much-talked-of visit to Bellefonte yesterday in the interest of his own candidacy for re-election, but there was no general out-pouring of the faithful to greet him.

The Senator accompanied by Secretary of the Commonwealth Robert McAfee and M. B. Nesbitt, of the Philadelphia Inquirer, the man who sends out all the Penrose dope to the few newspapers in the State willing to publish it, arrived in Bellefonte shortly after one o'clock in the Senator's big Winton Six automobile. They left Harrisburg at 8.30 o'clock in the morning, so that the trip was made in less than five hours. The reception committee of a half a dozen stalwart Republicans was at the train to meet them when the Senator's car came down High street. They were forthwith steered to the Brockerhoff house for lunch.

The Senator's party escorted by a delegation of local Republicans left for State College at two o'clock. There they attended a shoot by the State College gun club and also held a reception from 4 to 5.30 o'clock, returning to Bellefonte in time for supper.

A mass meeting was held in the court house last evening at 8 o'clock. The court room was not crowded by any means, and many of those present went there more out of curiosity than as supporters of Penrose. Burgess Edmund Blanchard presided over the meeting and introduced the speakers. Senator Penrose talked on "Good Roads," and the "Effect of the New Tariff on Agriculture." Brief talks were also made by Thomas H. Harter and others.

A public reception was tendered Penrose at the Elks home from 9 to 11 o'clock. Today the Senator will visit Snow Shoe and Philipsburg.

BIG REAL ESTATE DEAL AT STATE COLLEGE.—The Leathers Bros., the well known real estate dealers, of Howard, have just taken over the Andrew Lytle farm adjoining the borough of State College and will lay the same out in town lots and dispose of same at public auction in a few weeks.

The Leathers Bros. are the people who conducted a public auction of lots at the College in 1908, when between 150 and 200 lots were sold, and purchasers at that time have realized from twice to three times the money on their investment. It was a big day at State College, and most of the lots sold at that time now have buildings erected upon them. An incident of that sale was the giving away of one lot free, and the lucky person was Miss Irene McKinley, of Julian, at that time employed in the Bellefonte shirt factory.

The Lytle farm lies just south of State College borough, and is a most desirable locality for the building of homes or business places. In fact it is the only natural direction for the growth and extension of the borough. The Leathers Bros. are planning a two days public auction of these lots to be held in a few weeks when anybody desiring to do so will have a chance to invest.

Watch the newspapers and also posters for details of the sale, as well as the attractive offer the Leathers Bros. will make to the general public.

The price paid was $16,400 for forty-one acres, or $400 per acre.

NURSES TO GRADUATE.—Graduating exercises of the Bellefonte hospital training school for nurses will be held at the High school building on Friday evening, May 22nd, at 8 o'clock. Seibert will present the diplomas. The four graduate nurses are as follows:

Emma J. Klepper Boonesville, Pa. L. Idona Brunk, Salona, Pa. Mary O. Bragg, St. Thomas, Pa. Belle A. Simmons, Dennison, Ohio.

In addition to the above all the nurses who have graduated in past years and did not receive a diploma, eight in number, will attend the above exercises and be given their diploma.

On Thursday evening, May 21st, the Ladies Auxiliary of the hospital will entertain the four graduates, the eight nurses who will be here to receive their diplomas, and Miss Beltz and Mrs. Leggett at a supper at Cedar's. Covers will be laid for fourteen.

THE ACADEMY MINSTRELS.—Watch for the Bellefonte Academy minstrels on Thursday and Friday evenings, May 28th and 29th. Bigger and better than ever this year. Don't arrange any parties for those nights so as to interfere with your attendance. The minstrels this year will be under direction of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Blair.

—Samuel R. Gettig has sent in his resignation as postmaster at Madisonburg with the request that it take effect at once. On Thursday of last week a post-office inspector was at Madisonburg and canvassed the town to get some person to accept the appointment, but everybody interviewed declined. If no person can be found to take the place the office will be abandoned and the people of that section served by a rural carrier.
