ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

TUESDAY'S PRIMARIES.—Tuesday's primaries were the most quiet and uneventful of any ever held in Centre county.

Owing to the nice weather a large majority of the farmers remained at home to work on the farm, consequently the vote polled was a very light one, not over thirty-three per cent. of the total in the county.

Palmer and McCormick carried the county by good majorities while David W. Miller was nominated for the Legislature over John Williams.

Cronister, for State Senator, had almost three votes to Patterson's one while Benson, for Congress, had a small majority over Tobias.

The biggest surprise of all, perhaps, was the nomination of Harry B. Scott, Republican, for the Legislature over C. L. Gramley, the present member.

While Scott's majority is small, it is a source of gratification to his friends that he was able to pull through.

Both Penrose and Brumbaugh carried the county by large majorities.

The Washington party ticket made a poor showing compared with two years ago, while the Prohibition and Socialist tickets cut a small figure in the primaries.

After attending the public schools at Kennett Square she went to State College and took a two years course. It was there she met Edward R. Chambers and they were married on April 9th, 1885. Their entire married life was spent in Bellefonte but after the death of her husband in March, 1912, she went to Kennett Square to make her home.

When a young girl she became a member of the Methodist church but some five or six years ago united with the Christian Scientists. She was a woman of pleasing disposition and had many friends who sincerely mourn her death. Unofficial Vote of Tuesday's Primaries on Democratic and Non-Partisan Tickets.

Table with columns for U.S. Senator, Gov., Lieut. Gov., Secretary of Internal Affairs, Representatives at Large in Congress, Congress, State Senator, Legislator, Judge of Supreme Court, and Judge of Superior Court. Rows list various candidates and their vote counts across different townships.

It is Palmer and McCormick by 19,000 Majority.

Penrose and Brumbaugh Win the Republican Nominations While Pinchot and Lewis will be the Washington Party Nominees for United States Senator and Governor Respectively.

The beautiful weather of Tuesday made the farmers of Pennsylvania think more of getting their corn and oats into the ground than taking a hand in the primary fights of the several parties.

While the official returns have not been compiled sufficient is known to announce that Palmer and McCormick have carried the State over Budd and Ryan for Senator and Governor by at least 19,000 majority.

In going over the returns many strange things have happened. For instance, while Mr. Palmer has proven a handsome winner himself, his candidate for Congress in his own district was overwhelmingly defeated.

Here in Centre county Scott, Republican, defeated Gramley, for the nomination for Legislature and in the Districts Patterson, Democrat, defeated Cronister for the Senate and Tobias, Democrat, defeated Benson for Congress.

United States Senator Boies Penrose received the Republican nomination for the position he now holds in the state primary on Tuesday, overwhemling J. Benjamin Dimmick, former mayor of Scranton.

In Philadelphia the Penrose vote exceeded that given to his opponent by seven to one.

Vance C. McCormick, of Harrisburg, is a winner over City Solicitor Michael J. Ryan, of Philadelphia, for the Democratic nomination for governor by a majority of 20,000.

Gifford Pinchot, without opposition, was chosen the Washington party nominee for United States senator, while Dean Draper Lewis, of the University of Pennsylvania law school, won the gubernatorial nomination of that party.

Frank B. McClain, of Lancaster, had a runaway over E. D. Powell for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor, and William T. Creasy won the Democratic nomination for this office over John E. Jenkins, the candidate on the Ryan-Budd ticket.

For secretary of internal affairs Henry Houck, the incumbent, won the Republican nomination without opposition; William N. McNair won the Democratic nomination, and Fred E. Lewis is the Washington party candidate.

In the non-partisan balloting for nomination for judge of the superior court, Robert S. Frazer, of Pittsburgh, received the machine Republican vote, while the Democrats generally threw their strength behind Gustav A. Endlich, of Berks county.

That the entire Washington party vote in the state will not exceed 60,000, although Nevlin Dietrick, chairman of the Washington party state committee, estimated 75,000 votes in the state.

County Commissioner Frank Gorman estimated that the Keystone vote in Philadelphia was between 3000 and 4000. It was asserted that the Republican party vote in other sections of the state would hardly reach 1000.

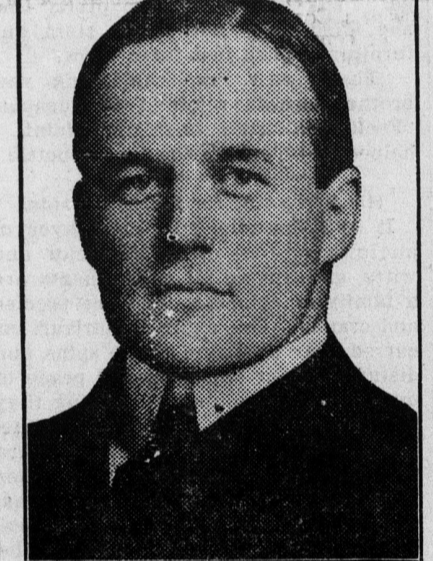

The following are the successful nominees: Republican. United States senator—Boies Penrose, Philadelphia.

Governor—Dr. Martin G. Brumbaugh, Philadelphia. Lieutenant governor—Frank B. McClain, Lancaster.

Secretary of internal affairs—Henry H. Houck, Lebanon. Congressmen-at-large—Thomas S. Crago, Greene; Daniel F. Lafaen, York; Mahlon M. Garland, Allegheny; John R. K. Scott, Philadelphia.

Democratic. United States senator—A. Mitchell Palmer, Monroe. Governor—Vance C. McCormick, of Harrisburg.

Lieutenant governor—William T. Creasy, Columbia. Secretary of internal affairs—William T. Mechling, Butler.

VANCE McCORMICK. Nominated for Governor by Democrats

Congressmen-at-large—Robert S. Bright, Philadelphia; Martin Jennings Caton, Allegheny; Luther B. Seibert, Potter; John Smith Shirley, Clarion.

Washington Party. United States senator—Gifford Pinchot, Pike.

Governor—William Draper Lewis, Philadelphia.

Lieutenant governor—Percy F. Smith, Allegheny.

Secretary of internal affairs—Fredrick E. Lewis, Lehigh.

Congressmen-at-large—Lex N. Mitchell, Jefferson; Arthur R. Ripley, Cumberland; Anderson H. Walters, Cambria; Harry Watson, Mercer.

Prohibition Party. United States senator—Madison F. Larkin, Lackawanna.

Governor—Matthew H. Stevenson, Allegheny.

Lieutenant governor—H. J. Whalen, Lawrence.

Secretary of internal affairs—C. W. R. Smith, Delaware.

Congressmen-at-large—George Hart, Lackawanna; James J. Patton, Philadelphia; B. R. Pike, Erie; S. Harper Smith, Allegheny.

Ryan made his best showing in Philadelphia and in the anthracite coal regions, where he ran ahead of McCormick. Some of the counties Ryan carried, besides Philadelphia, are Luzerne, Northampton, Lackawanna, Berks, Clinton, Erie, Schuylkill, Blair, Wayne, Westmoreland and Carbon.

Dimmick's best effort was put forth in his home county of Lackawanna, which he carried easily, and in some of the surrounding counties.

Brumm carried Schuylkill, his home county. Apparently the only counties in which Budd's vote exceeded that of Palmer were Carbon and Blair.

ganizers had the benefit of the support, moral and actual, of the national administration.

While much public interest was focused on the senatorial contests, it was largely because of its being the first opportunity for an expression of popular preference for the office, and there was little doubt at any time of the outcome.

The only real lively battle was that between McCormick and Ryan for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Brumbaugh featured in Huntingdon, his home county, practically cleaning the county. Palmer and McCormick won, and Dimmick seems in the lead over Penrose. Indiana county went strongly for Penrose, Palmer and McCormick.

Palmer and McCormick won handsomely in Jefferson county, which probably will show a majority for Dimmick over Penrose. The mining district went for Penrose, but the rural districts wiped this out.

The vote in the primary throughout the rural districts was not as large as generally expected in view of the bitter fight for several of the nominations. This was caused by two things, the failure of many farmers to go to the polls because of their being behind in their spring work and the failure of many others to become enrolled.

Boy Killed by Pitched Ball. Nelson A. King, seventeen years old, of Morristown, N. J., was killed near Greenwood Lake by a blow on the head from a pitched base ball.

Young King was at the bat in a game played by members of a Sunday school class of the First Presbyterian church of Morristown.

He staggered about after being hit, then went to a waterway close by and bathed his head. The pain grew worse and a physician was summoned from Warwick, N. Y., the nearest place, but the boy was dead when the doctor reached the scene.

Aviators Drop Bombs. General Obrogov's military aviators became effective again in the battle that has been raging for many days at Mazatlan, Mexico.

An aeroplane that was circling about the Federal entrenchments dropped bombs with considerable accuracy into the fortifications. They exploded directly within the Federal lines, but the extent of the casualties was not reported in the city.
