CINDERELLA.

When Chautauqua, with its 7 Joyous Days, begins here July 7th, one of the most eagerly anticipated events of the week is the play "Cinderella," by the Avon Players. This company of ten talented people, excellently costumed, produce the play under the personal direction of Anna Oppenlander, who dramatized the familiar old story for the especial pleasure of the children of Junior Chautauqua. A "Mother Goose Party" is introduced where the familiar characters of "story book days" will be seen, and the familiar rhymes will be sung by capable musicians. "Cinderella" is a dramatic story, and all its possibilities for the stage have been realized in this version. Bring the children with you.

SPRING MILLS.

Samuel Wise. who has been quite ill for several days, is able to be about again.

Merchant H. F. Rossman has just purchased a new Ford auto. It is a very handsome car.

After an absence of a month in Clinton county, Miss Anna Cummings returned home last week.

B. A. Donachy, of Lewisburg, came up on Friday last to be here on Memorial day; and also to make a short visit to his mother, Mrs. Maggie Donachy.

Mrs. J. H. Rishel left for Philadelphia in the early part of the week to be at the hospital where her husband has been for several weeks, and who underwent an operation Tuesday.

All our merchants report having a good business during the past month. Commercial agents stopping off here say that they have no reason to complain of business on the road.

The lightning struck the residence of J. H. Rishel during the thunder storm of Wednesday last, but did no particular damage except to tear off about three feet square of the siding.

The old residence, one of the old land marks of the town, directly opposite to the flouring mill, has been torn down. Mr. Allison intends erecting a larger and more convenient dwelling on the site.

Memorial day was observed here more than usual. All places of business were closed the greater part of the day. Flags and the national colors were displayed everywhere, particularly at the postoffice, which presented a very attractive appearance, decidedly artistic. The ceremony at the cemetery was very interesting and largely attended. The old veterans are growing fewer each year. There are but a few left in our town; they can be counted on the fingers and it does not require both hands. These few old warriors moved along on the Sunday school scholars and scattered flowers upon the graves of their departed comrades, no doubt thinking that their own time would soon come and that the grave was only perfect rest. The address was delivered by Prof. W. R. Jones and was an able and interesting one. Rev. Williams, of the M. E. church, also made a few remarks. The shades of evening were well advanced at the closing of the exercises, when the vast throng wended their way homeward.

The Creative Impulse.

The creative impudse does not itself know the next step it will take, or the next form that will arise, any more than the creative artist determines beforehand all the thoughts and forms his inventive genius will bring forth, writes John Burroughs in the Atlantic. He has the impulse or the inspiration to do a certain thing, to let himself go in a certain direction, but just the precise form his creation will take is unknown to him as to you and me. Some stubbornness or obduracy in his material, or some accident of time or place, may make it quite different from what he had hoped or vaguely planned. He does not know what thought or incident or character he is looking for till he has found it, till he has risen above his mental horizon. So far as he is inspired, so far as he is spontaneous, just so far is the world with which he deals plastic and fluid and indeterminate and ready to take any form his medium of expression—words, colors, tones—affords him. He may surprise himself, excel himself; he has surrendered himself to a power beyond the control of his will or knowledge.

Unexpected Gift.

He was a shy young man, but in his heart there raged a consuming passion for the fair Florence. On his way home from the city he managed to screw his courage up sufficiently to enter a jeweler's shop and purchase a small gift for the lady of his heart.

This, he hoped, would pave the way to the popping of the great question.

That night he called at her house and found her alone. Producing a small, square box from his pocket, he said nervously:

"I have ventured to bring you a small present, Miss Finn, but I am afraid that perhaps it will not fit your finger. Will you try it on?"

"Oh, dear," said the girl, blushing most becomingly, "this is quite unexpected! Why, I never dreamed that you really cared enough—"

Poor fool! Instead of grasping the opportunity in both hands, he opened the box and produced a thimble! Then the thermometer dropped about ten degrees.

New Post-Glacial Lake.

A new post-glacial lake has been discovered at the mouth of the River Tyne, in England. The lake stands about 100 feet above sea level and covers a square mile. Its existence was discovered apparently as the result of excavations during quay building. The series of deposits begin about 85 feet above sea level, and are 25 feet thick in places. A peculiar series of "concretions and stalactite infiltrations" were found in the sands and clays, and many specimens of vegetable remain in situ 20 feet below the surface. Post-glacial lakes, or their remains are more or less abundant all over the area originally covered by the great ice sheet of the glacial epoch, so that the mere discovery of the old beaches of another is not a thing of great geological importance. The location of this "Tyne-mouth" one and its height above sea level give it special interest, however.—New York Evening Post.

Autographs on a Rubbish Heap.

The discovery of some valuable autograph letters is reported from Alghero (Sardinia). A quantity of rubbish had been recently discharged on a heap in a field, when an army lieutenant who chanced to be passing by caught sight of what appeared to be Garibaldi's signature on a letter. He proceeded to examine a number of letters among the rubbish, and found that they were all genuine autograph letters written by Garibaldi, Cavour, Mazzini, King Carlo Alberto, King Victor Emmanuel and others, bearing mainly on the history of the period 1820 to 1860, and subsequent expert examination is reported to have established the fact that the documents are of real historical value apart from their obvious interest as autographs.

It is stated that the letters belonged to the family of Piccinelli, a house quite recently extinct, which played an important part during the wars of Italian independence.
