

Austria Declares War on Serbia.

Russia's Action May Precipitate Conflict. British fleet is Ready.

EUROPEAN CRISIS IN BRIEF

CAUSES.

Servians' dream of a port on the Adriatic. Austria-Hungary's part in shattering this dream when it seemed near realization in the late Balkan war. The Servians' ancient hate for Austria. The assassination of Archduke Ferdinand, heir to the Austro-Hungarian throne, by a Servian. Austria's desire of centuries—control of the Balkan peninsula.

POSSIBILITIES.

If Russia aids Serbia, Germany and Italy would join forces with Austria, as parties to the Triple Alliance.

Then as other members of the Triple Entente, France and England would have to aid Russia.

Thus, a war with the six great powers of Europe arrayed against each other, might be witnessed.

Bulgaria, Turkey and Greece might be expected to support Serbia.

Austria-Hungary has declared war on Serbia.

Official notification of the declaration of hostilities was sent to the Servian government by the Vienna government.

It is reported that the invasion of Serbia has already begun.

Belgrade, the Servian capital on the Danube, was bombarded by the Austrians and the bridge across the river Save was partly blown up.

Russia is reported to have ordered the mobilization of more than 1,200,000 troops.

As the result of the reported Russian mobilization an important official council was held in Berlin. No orders for a German mobilization, apparently, have yet been issued.

Thus the peace of all Europe now lies in the hands of the Kaiser and the czar.

The report of the Belgrade bombardment was received in St. Petersburg with the semblance of an ultimatum. The Austro-Servian war is on in full force.

Paris at the same time received a report that Russia was assured by Austria that she did not intend to occupy Belgrade.

London heard a rumor that Russia had informed Austria in a manner having the semblance of an ultimatum that the czar would take Serbia's part, but the rumor was without confirmation.

The reports that the Russian war office had ordered partial mobilization in the southern and southwestern districts came to London from St. Petersburg.

This is fraught with mighty significance, for it had been declared in Berlin that orders even for partial mobilization in Russia would be followed by German mobilization and immediate war. Then the Triple Alliance and the Triple Entente would be irrevocably embroiled and the dreaded general conflict would be on.

While all Europe looked to Berlin and St. Petersburg to see what was in store, the Kaiser and the czar exchanged personal messages. These notes dealing with the crisis crossed one another between the capitals. It is believed both were aimed at the preservation of peace.

Though hostilities are on between Austria-Hungary and Serbia and there are unconfirmed rumors of fighting, the actual state of the military movements is cloaked by the most rigid censorship Europe ever has known. It is known, however, that Austria has massed 300,000 men on the Servian border.

It is rumored that the actual invasion of Serbia has begun at several points and that there has been fighting on the river Drina, the boundary between Serbia and Herzegovina.

A report was circulated that the German minister to Serbia had been assassinated, but it also was reported that he had left Belgrade for Nish, the temporary capital.

The British first fleet sailed from Portland under secret orders, probably for the North sea. Italy also is concentrating her warships.

Revolutionists in Warsaw, Russian Poland, were reported to have blown up many magazines of forts there and to have hurled bombs, killing or injuring many. The citadel was reported destroyed.

Belgium ordered mobilization of three classes of reservists.

All Servians in Austria-Hungary liable for military service are being held as prisoners of war.

Premier Asquith in the British house of commons admitted the crisis was of the "most extreme gravity."

Great Britain, while abstaining from anything which would be provocative of alarm on the part of Austria and her friends, is quietly making preparations for any contingency that may bring her within the scope of the Continental troubles.

The feeling in Paris was extremely pessimistic and the "big war" was predicted within ten days. Berlin was little less gloomy. In both cities anti war demonstrations occurred.

Gunboats Bombard Belgrade.

The Austrians bombarded Belgrade from three gunboats, which are at the junction of the Danube and the Save. The fire was directed mainly at the barracks in the capital, but other public and private buildings were hit by the shots. These included the Franco-Servian and the Andrevitch banks. A banker who was in the latter building was wounded. The officials of both banks made protests to the German legation.

The Servians did not reply to the fire. Part of the bridge across the Save from Belgrade to Semlin was destroyed and is now in such a condition that it cannot be used. Artillery fighting is going on at Vechitza, near Belgrade.

Soldiers Fire on Dublin Mob.

Three men and one woman are dead and more than sixty persons are in the hospital in Dublin, Ireland, wounded, as the result of a battalion of the King's Own Scottish Borderers firing into a mob in the streets of Dublin.

Seven of the persons wounded are expected to die. Among them are three women and a boy of ten.

The affray was the result of a gun-running exploit of the Nationalist Volunteers, who were being aided by a mob composed largely of women and youths. A consignment of rifles, said to number 10,000, was landed at Howth, nine miles from Dublin, from a private yacht. The Nationalist Volunteers cut the telegraph wires and stopped travel on the Dublin roads and, according to reports, sent away most of the rifles, to gather with 70,000 rounds of ammunition, in motor cars.

Wilson Withdraws Jones' Name.

President Wilson withdrew the nomination of Thomas P. Jones, of Chicago, to be governor of the federal reserve board.

The president found that it was impossible to have Mr. Jones confirmed by the senate, although the greatest possible pressure had been exerted by the administration.

In withdrawing Mr. Jones' name the president made public correspondence with Mr. Jones showing that on Monday Mr. Jones himself asked that his name be withdrawn.

Tries to Kill His Family.

Thomas H. Dalton, clerk of the East Boston district court, shot and killed his five-week-old daughter Priscilla, seriously wounded his wife and his son Joseph, five years old, and then killed himself.

Dalton had been at his home for the past two months, suffering from a nervous breakdown. The boy is in a critical condition, but it is expected that Mrs. Dalton will recover. Dalton shot the children as they slept.

Drowns Tied to Stake.

Before drowning himself in Raccoon creek, near Rancocas, N. J., Christian Stemmer, seventy-two years old, took elaborate precautions to make certain that his body should be found.

Going to the shore of the creek, which flows past his home, the aged man drove a stake, fastening to it one end of a thirty-foot rope and knotting the other end about an ankle and waded into the creek beyond his depth.

After a search of two hours relatives found the body bobbing on the end of the line, where the tide had carried it near the shore. Stemmer was suffering from cancer and had threatened repeatedly to commit suicide.

Sewer Blows Up; 12 Hurt.

Twelve men were injured, four of them seriously, when a new sewer being constructed in Twenty-third street, Pittsburgh, Pa., blew up, ripping the thoroughfare from Penn avenue to the Allegheny river, with a loss estimated at more than $150,000.

The sewer was being built to replace one that exploded last fall, injuring several persons and causing a loss of more than $250,000.

In the explosion the sewer blew up in three different places, one of them beneath the Carnegie Steel works. Six employees there were injured. Others injured were laborers.

Child Pets Snakes on Porch.

Mrs. John Kobac, of Northwood, a suburb of Tyrone, Pa., gave her son, George, eighteen months of age, a bowl of bread and milk and then set him on the porch while she went about her housework. She heard him using pet names and upon investigation found two copperhead snakes across his lap feeding upon the bread and milk, while the child petted them with his hands. Mrs. Kobac grabbed the child and the snakes escaped.

Gagged Girl; Clipped Hair.

A posse with bloodhounds is searching for a white man who assaulted Dorothy Iser, fifteen years old, with a razor, at Keyser, W. Va.

The man cut off the girl's hair close to the head, forced an apple between her teeth, tied a ribbon over her mouth and bound her feet and hands with cords. The assailant fled when he heard the brother of the girl approaching.

Barber Loses Sight; Kills Self.

Despondent because he had lost his job as nose barber when he was suddenly stricken blind, after having the position for over twenty years, Clarence Crain, fifty years old, himself at his home in Atlantic City. He died almost instantly. Crain went blind while shaving a customer two months ago.

Forty-Day Fast Fatal.

James Fitzpatrick died in Chambersburg, Pa., Monday, after a forty-day fast. He was employed on the county farm for years. On June 16 he began the fatal fast, drinking nothing but small quantities of water and coffee. He ended the fast on July 29, greatly weakened. He was unmarried. Although given nourishment consistently, he grew weaker until his death came.
