Germans Mass for New Attack.

It Is Said the Kaiser Lost 30,000 Men in Battle on Yser, Among Them 10,000 Dead.

A Belgian Socialist senator, who returned to London from an official visit to King Albert, said that the allies were now within ten miles of Ostend.

The senator estimates that the Germans have 500,000 men in the vicinity mentioned, but he said that it was the general impression of the allied staffs that the German effort would be a failure because their troops not only were very weary, but to a great extent were made up of youthful and aged recruits.

It is the opinion of military observers in London also that a renewed German struggle to break through the allied line will center at Ypres.

From the coast to Lille, a comparatively short battle line, the Germans have eleven army corps. The English papers point out that it should not be assumed that the Germans yet have been decisively beaten in Belgium.

The allies have been throwing fresh forces into Belgium. This of course refers to attacks along the Yser which have now come to an end, with the result against the invaders. But looking ahead the same condition will apply generally to the operations south of Ypres.

"The sound of cannon has been distinctly heard at Ghent," telegraphs the Amsterdam correspondent of the Central News, "and there is every indication that the Germans are retiring on the whole front from Bruges to Thielt, fifteen miles southeast of Bruges."

The official bulletins are as follows: GERMAN. "Our attacks on Ypres, to the north of Arras and to the east of Soissons are progressing slowly, but successfully."

"South of Verdun and in the Vosges French attacks have been repulsed. "In the eastern arena of the war there have been no material changes."

FRENCH. "There is no important change in the situation in the north. We have made a slight advance toward Messines. At several points of the front there has been violent cannonading without appreciable result, particularly west of Lens, between the Somme and the Ancre, in the Argonne and in the Apremont forest."

"On our left wing to the north, the situation shows no change as compared to Monday. The enemy has drawn back on the right bank of the Yser. We have recaptured Lombaertzyde. The Germans occupy on the left bank of the Yser nothing more than the head of a bridge, half way between Dixmude and Neuport. They have abandoned, in addition to prisoners and wounded men, a considerable quantity of war material, including pieces of artillery which were held unmovable by the mud."

"Between Dixmude and the Lys the fighting has continued with alternate advances and withdrawals, but with the general result that the allied forces have made perceptible progress."

"Between the Lys and the region of Arras there has been cannonading and minor engagements. "Between the region of Arras and the Oise we have made an advance to the east of Lequesnoy-en-Santerre as far as the heights of Parvillers."

"On the center, the German attack which developed on the right bank of the Aisne in the region of Vailly, and which resulted in our losing the first slopes to the north of Vailly and to the south of Craonne, was not continued on Tuesday. A counter attack by our forces brought again into our possession a portion of the lost ground. "A violent cannonading and spirited German attacks were repulsed on the heights of the Highway Des Dames and in the vicinity of Rheims. There has been no happening of importance between Rheims and the Meuse nor in the Woerwe districts."

BRITISH FLEET DEFEATED

Two Cruisers Sunk By Germans Off Coast of Chile.

The officers of the German cruiser Scharnhorst now at Valparaiso, Chile, expressed the belief that nearly 2000 British officers and sailors had been lost in the naval engagement off Coronel on Sunday night, when the German vessels met the English ships sent to capture them.

Villa to March on Mexico City.

Believing General Carranza has no intention of giving up his position as first chief of the Constitutionalists and acting as provisional president, General Villa has begun moving his army to Mexico City.

At three mobilization points, Guadalupe, Torreon and Zacatecas, Villa had all the available rolling stock in northern Mexico concentrated, and troops were entrained for a movement which he admits means war for the possession of the national capital.

All troops of known loyalty to Carranza have been gathered at the larger towns along the route Villa's army must take to the capital. Villa has received assurances from Emiliano Zapata, whose forces are menacing the suburbs of Mexico City, that he will act with the northern leader.

Rockefeller Millions For War Victims. The Rockefeller Foundation made known in New York city, through its president, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., its determination to do everything in its power for the relief of non-combatants in the European war.

To this end, Mr. Rockefeller says in a statement issued over his name, no exertion will be spared and millions of dollars, if necessary, will be spent. Already a steamer, the Massapequa, has been chartered to sail with all speed with foodstuffs for the use of the starving Belgians. It is mentioned that the supplies now being stowed away in the hold of this big steamer mark an initial expenditure of $275,000. The Massapequa will sail from New York on Tuesday. Other steamers laden with food and other supplies are to follow quickly.

The Foundation has announced its decision to succor the starving and helpless non-combatants only after a careful survey of the situation and the discovery that never in recent history has a condition of such misery and hardship presented itself to any philanthropic institution.

SPRING MILLS. Clair Allison, who has employment in Renovo, is here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Allison. Charles Leeland Lynn Passo, of Lock Haven, are here visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Lee. Election day and just as quiet here as it is on Sunday. Possibly the shouting and racket will take place later.

Miss Anna M. Cummings left on Saturday last for Mill Hall and Lock Haven, on a three weeks sewing engagement. Dr. H. S. Braucht and family, and Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Rossman made an auto trip to Philipsburg on Sunday last. The measles scare here is about over. Our schools were closed for several weeks, but are now again in session. Charles Hagan has just opened a tonsorial salon in the upper room of our new post office building, a good location for the business.

The Spring Mills sun club will evidently be a lively party. There is not a notice among them, all are old experienced hunters, and no doubt will give a good account of themselves. Mrs. Maggie Donachy, who was summoned to Lewisburg two weeks ago owing to her son Benjamin having received a paralytic stroke, is still there. Her son has improved very little if any.

Wants to Know What Is Wrong? Spring Mills, Pa., Oct. 4th, 1914. Editor Watchman.—My DEAR SIR. The official returns for this township show that just one hundred voters who had registered as Democrats failed to get out to the polls on Tuesday last. An examination of the voting list and a canvass of those who failed, or refused to do their duty as Democrats, shows that of these one hundred stay-at-homes, every single one of them, was a progressive or a re-organizer. Surely there must be something wrong with these men or with the Bellefonte bosses who seem to have assumed command of the Democracy of the county. Every "old guard" Democrat was at the polls and did his duty, but what we want to know is why these other ones failed to do theirs? Can you tell us? GREGG TOWNSHIP DEMOCRAT.
