THINGS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY.

The Bellefonte Academy and State College reopened on Tuesday after the week's Thanksgiving vacation.

A little son was born to Mr. and Mrs. James C. Furst on Saturday morning. The boy has been named James Austin Furst.

Beginning next Monday Bellefonte will have two weeks of court then the teachers' institute, which will run right up to Christmas eve.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Haag are rejoicing over the arrival of their first born, a nice big baby boy, which arrived the latter part of last week.

The Penn State football team was not able to close the season with a victory against Pitt, as the latter won the Thanksgiving day game by the score of 13 to 3.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. will be held in the Y. M. C. A. building on Monday evening, December 7th, at 7:30 o'clock.

Christ Decker this week invested in a Studebaker automobile, and once he learns to operate it he will have no trouble making trips from his farm to Bellefonte and home again.

A little daughter, who has been named Martha Louise, was born Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Saxe, of Scranton. Mrs. Saxe will be remembered as Miss Jennie Harper.

The basement under Claster's store in Crider's exchange is now being dug out and the room will be concreted and fitted up so as to give Claster & Co. that much additional room.

A handsome and up-to-date new soda fountain was installed in Zeller's drug store last week to take the place of the old style fountain that has been in use there a good many years.

The Loganton hotel, lately conducted by landlady Milner, deceased, is now being offered for sale in order to settle up Mr. Milner's estate. See advertisement in another column.

Mrs. Annie Rothrock Long has been seriously ill at her home in the Garman house on High street, her condition becoming so critical within the past week that no hope whatever is felt for her recovery.

John Glenn, son of Rev. and Mrs. George M. Glenn, of Phillipsburg, won a cash prize of $45 for being the best prepared Freshman out of a class of one hundred and fifty to enter Wesleyan University, at Middletown, Conn.

Our old time friend John A. White, man, of Boggs township, was unfortunately on Sunday in having a fire at his home which burned a hole in the roof about eight by ten feet in size. Fortunately nothing else was damaged.

Up at Tyrone the water in the reservoir was so low last week that water users were drawing lizards, small snakes, fish and eels from ordinary spigots, it is alleged. This is the lowest that town's water supply has ever been.

The lime business hereabouts is not very brisk at present, but this is the usual condition this time of the year. The stone shipments from Whitecock, however, are keeping up pretty good, making that the busiest plant in the county.

Only three weeks more and Christmas will be with us. Have you arranged to do your shopping early and avoid the rush of the eleventh hour crowd? Packages can be sent by parcel post now and marked "Not to be opened until Christmas."

The members of the W. C. T. U. will hold a social at Dr. Schad's apartments in Petrikin hall next Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock. Reports will be made upon the work of the Atlanta and State conventions. Members are urged to be present.

East Lamb street is now in the best condition it has been in years. After being filled up and rounded off with cinder it was rolled and is now almost as smooth and solid as a state road. Several crossings are still badly needed to make the job a complete one.

The Bellefonte High school football team closed the season on Thanksgiving afternoon by defeating the Bucknell Freshmen by a score of 9 to 0, before the largest crowd ever seen on old Hughes field. The High school team had a very successful season, losing only one game on their schedule, Clearfield High school at Clearfield.

One of the unique holiday displays is that in the big show window of the State-Centre Electric company. First there is a Christmas tree covered with tinsel and various toys which at night are really so many electric bulbs representing birds, animals, etc. In the window is a miniature railroad with a motor and three cars, a circling wave, ferris wheel, various toy machines, all operated by electricity. While the exhibition is nominally a holiday attraction it tends to show the varied uses for electricity and suggests what can be done by utilizing it as a light and a power.

HON. AND MRS. A. G. MORRIS CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING.—On November 29, 1864, Alexander G. Morris, a well known young man of Freeport, Pa., and Miss Elizabeth Swartz, of Pittsburgh, were united in marriage by the Rev. Dr. Paxton, a celebrated Pittsburgh minister. Their golden wedding anniversary coming on Sunday their daughter, Miss Lida Morris, planned a delightful surprise for them in the way of an informal reception from three o'clock Saturday afternoon until ten in the evening. And so well had she arranged everything that neither Mr. Morris nor Mrs. Morris knew aught of the affair until the guests began to arrive.

During the afternoon and evening between one hundred and fifty and two hundred guests called to pay their respects and congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Morris on the auspicious occasion. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Morris, of Pittsburgh, cousins of Mr. Morris; Miss Ella C. King, of New York, a step-sister of Mrs. Morris; John D. Meyer, of Altoona; Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Shelley Kloss and the Misses Kloss; John G. Anderson, Mrs. J. K. Cass, Harvey Gray, George C. Wilson, Frank K. Lukens and Bernard Vogt, of Tyrone; Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Grier and Miss N. J. Davis, of Birmingham, and J. T. McLanahan, of Hollidaysburg.

During the reception refreshments were served by Ceasers, with choice candies from Candyland. Mr. and Mrs. Morris also received a number of beautiful and valuable presents while the floral remembrances were unusually elaborate and profuse. The real date of their wedding anniversary falling on Sunday they celebrated it with a family dinner. Covers were laid for eighteen and all the children and grandchildren were present except their grandson, Elliott Morris, who did not come home from college for Thanksgiving.

Mr. Morris has had a busy and eventful life, an example of what an industrious and energetic young man can do. He was not born with a silver spoon in his mouth, but was compelled to work for a living as hundreds of other young men do. His youth and early manhood were spent in the oil regions of western Pennsylvania, and he was working in the oil fields when he was married in 1864. He took his bride to a home in Freeport, and during the ensuing six years they lived at Appollo, Leechburg, and one or two other places in the western part of the State as well as in Virginia.

In 1870 they moved to Birmingham, Blair county, and it was there Mr. Morris opened up his first limestone quarries, erected kilns and burned lime for marketable purposes. Three years later he moved his family to Tyrone where they lived for many years, or until they came to Bellefonte, with the exception of several years spent in Philadelphia and at Columbia, South Carolina. His success in the lime business was phenomenal and he was probably the largest individual operator in the State at the time of the organization of the American Lime & Stone company, which took over his interests and of which he became president, a position he still holds. Mr. Morris is also president of the Blair County Banking company, of Tyrone, president of the board of managers of the Huntingdon reformatory, president of the Fairbrook Country club, and has various large business interests throughout the State, all of which receive his own personal attention. In fact he is the youngest man for his years in Bellefonte. Notwithstanding the fact that he is in his eighty-first year he thinks nothing of walking from six to eight miles a day, visiting the various lime plants in the vicinity of Bellefonte.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris were blessed with seven children, a boy and a girl dying when quite young. Those living are Charles Morris, Miss Lida, Robert and Alexander G. Jr., of Bellefonte, and Thomas K. Morris, of Pittsburgh. They also have four grandchildren. Having spent such a long and happy life together Mr. and Mrs. Morris' many friends hope they may be spared to celebrate many more wedding anniversaries.

SQUIRREL AND PHEASANT SEASON OVER.—The season for squirrel, pheasant and quail came to an end on Monday, with the last day of November, and it was a very fair season for the sportsman who had the time, patience and stick-to-itiveness. Squirrel were more plentiful this year than they have been for some years and quite a number were bagged throughout Centre county. Pheasants were at least as plentiful, if not more so, than in former years, but the prolonged dry weather rendered it very difficult to get within gun-shot of the birds. At that, quite a large number of birds were bagged in Centre county.

The only game on which the season is still open are rabbits, raccoon and bear. The former are quite plentiful and with a tracking snow would afford lots of sport. As to bear, they can be found in the mountains if anyone has the bear fever bad enough to go after them.

Miss Ella Jones is soliciting orders for holly wreaths and garlands for use during the Christmas season, and all orders placed with her will be given prompt attention and assured satisfaction. Her phone number being 241-J, Bell, it would be well for those anticipating buying greens, to communicate with Miss Jones as early as possible.

—Robert S. Conklin, forestry commissioner, has compiled a statement of the forest fire devastation in the State since July first and according to his figures in Centre county forest fires burned over 311 acres of state land and 13,382 acres of private lands, entailing a loss of $19,024.

—The walls of the new bank building at Snow Shoe are nearing completion but last week it was discovered that the one side had sagged, the top being out of plumb at least five inches. Whether the foundation had given away or just what the cause is, had not been determined at last reports. The bank received its charter on Saturday.

—Mrs. Tanner had her regular Thanksgiving dinner on Tuesday evening when she regaled her regular forty-eight boarders and eight other guests with some extra choice Centre county turkey with everything else that goes into the makeup of an appetizing meal—such as Mrs. Tanner knows so well how to serve. The high school orchestra furnished delightful music while the guests feasted.

—Mr. Hugh R. Bell recently received a letter from his brother, who has enlisted and is a lieutenant in the British army. His eldest son has also enlisted as a private. Lieut. Bell, who is stationed at one of the training camps in England, states that England has now two million soldiers in France and drilling her third million. His letter is very matter of fact but states that England will fight until Germany is conquered.

—T. B. Buddinger, of Show Shoe, moved into his new store building this week and is now as comfortably located as any merchant in Central Pennsylvania. The new building was erected upon the site of the one destroyed by fire less than a year ago. It is of brick, large and commodious, and up to date in all its equipments and furnishings. Mr. Buddinger now has a store which would be a credit to a town ten times the size of Snow Shoe.

—From the Indiana Gazette of last Friday we glean the fact that Charles T. Noll, one of the original black faced artists in amateur minstrelsy in Bellefonte, has broken out afresh in Indiana and last Thursday evening the Lyric minstrels which he helped to organize and coach gave an entertainment for the benefit of the Belgian sufferers. Mr. Noll also took a leading part in the Olio, and he was loudly encored for his clever jokes and timely songs.

—The State College hunting crowd greatly surprised their friends upon their return from the Seven mountains on Wednesday evening of last week, for instead of having one deer as reported they had four nice big ones. The deer weighed 190, 178, 171 and 145 pounds respectively, aggregating just 684 pounds of venison, enough to supply the hunters families and most of their friends. The crowd also wounded another buck, saw three or four others which they didn't get a shot at, and had quite a number of does cross their path.

—Charles M. Heisler recently sold his comfortable home in Bush's Addition to Michael Grove, who will move to Bellefonte next spring and take things easy the balance of his life. Mr. and Mrs. Heisler had intended going to Philadelphia, where Mr. Heisler has a property, but on account of the importunities of Mrs. Heisler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Bartley, who are both past eighty years of age, they have decided to remain in Bellefonte and Mr. Heisler will likely build a new home on a vacant lot he has in Bush's Addition.

—The Neapolitan orchestra and singers will be the attraction at the opera house next Wednesday evening, December 9th, as the second number in the Y. M. C. A. Star course. The orchestra is composed of eight pieces under the direction of Signor Vito Lacerenza, of the Royal Academy of Music, Naples, Italy. The vocal soloists are Signor Monetti, a gifted tenor, and Madame Bellini, soprano. They appear in the attractive Neapolitan costumes and must be heard to be appreciated. Admission, fifty cents to those not holding course tickets.

—Mail agent Thomas Rosser, whose trick is on the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania from Mill Hall to Bellefonte, had a wet chase after his Thanksgiving turkey on Wednesday of last week. He secured the turkey from a Nittany valley farmer on the morning run to Bellefonte, and during the lay-over here he decided to kill the bird and have it ready to pluck when he returned to Mill Hall. Securing a piece of cord he tied the turkey's legs and hanging it upon a bush along the creek, just below the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania station, proceeded in a scientific manner to sever its head with his penknife. The turkey kicked against losing its head and also flopped with the result that the cord broke and the bird fell into the creek. Even though its head was gone the turkey was not dead by any means and it flopped vigorously right out into the middle of the creek. There was nothing for Mr. Rosser to do but go after it and he plunged into the icy water and waded out almost knee deep and finally succeeded in bringing the decapitated turkey ashore. The next turkey he undertakes to kill will not be tied along a creek of running water.

SUICIDE OF WILLIAM R. HAYNES.—William R. Haynes, well known resident of Clarence, committed suicide on Wednesday evening by shooting himself through the heart with a double-barreled shot gun. He had been in a congenial mood all day and after supper asked his wife to go along to the moving picture show. She told him that she did not care to go as she was tired. Mr. Haynes then remarked in an off-hand way, "well, if you won't go along I guess I'll shoot myself." Mrs. Haynes, however, thought nothing of the remark and went out to shut up her chickens. A son had been sent out to mail a letter which left Mr. Haynes alone in the house.

He secured his double-barreled shot gun and placing the muzzle against his left breast and propping the butt of the gun against the floor and wall, pushed the trigger with the cleaning rod. Mrs. Haynes heard the shot and ran into the house only to find her husband lying on the floor dead, the load of No. 6 shot having gone right through the heart. Dr. Edward Harris was summoned but his services were of no avail as the man's death was instantaneous.

Mr. Haynes was a son of "Squire Robert Haynes, deceased, of Snow Shoe, where he was born about fifty-eight years ago. For a number of years he conducted a wholesale liquor store at Clarence and later worked several years in Williamsport. He was a great hunter and fisherman in his day. Surviving him are his wife, who prior to her marriage was Miss Ellen Gussallus, and four children, Frank and Robert at home; Bessie, who is married and lives in Washington, D. C., and Ida, of Indiana, Pa. He also leaves his aged mother, Mrs. Robert Haynes, of Williamsport. His only brother, James Haynes, died some years ago. No arrangements for the funeral have been made at this writing.

DEATH HOUSE TAKEN OVER BY STATE.—The new death house at the western penitentiary in Benner township was officially inspected and taken over by the State on Wednesday, thus relieving the Thompson-Starrett company of any further responsibility for the building. Representing the Thompson-Starrett company were H. L. Marsh, of New York, a vice president of the company; C. P. Grange, head of the Pittsburgh branch, and Henry Keep, superintendent in charge of the work, while the State was represented by warden John Francis, T. B. Foley, secretary of the prison board, and architect H. T. Windrim, of Philadelphia.

The building was thoroughly inspected from the basement up and pronounced by all a splendid piece of work. It was then formally taken over by the State and the contractors relieved of their bond for its erection according to plans and specifications.

FALL MOVINGS.—Mr. and Mrs. William S. Brouse on Tuesday moved into the Cooke house on Willowbank street.

H. C. Quigley Esq., and family on Wednesday and yesterday moved from their old residence on the corner of Linn and Ridge streets to the house on Linn and Ridge streets recently purchased from Edward Richard. The house vacated by the Quigleys will shortly be occupied by W. Harrison Walker and family.

J. P. Harbold has decided to quit house-keeping and on January first will store his household furniture and with his son and brother, Frank Harbold, will take rooms and board with Mrs. Tanner.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Mayes this week moved their household goods from the M. Snyder home on Bishop street to one side of the new house about completed by Lewis Hill on east Bishop street. The house is not yet ready for occupancy so that the Mayes family will not take up their residence there until after the first of the year.

ELKS LODGE OF SORROW.—In accord with a custom in vogue all over the United States the Bellefonte Lodge of Elks will hold fitting memorial services in honor of their deceased members, on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, in the Lodge hall. Col. H. S. Taylor has kindly accepted an invitation to make the memorial address. During the past three years the Colonel has made the address before Lodges in the western part of the State and his services were requested in that section this year but he had already accepted the invitation of his home Lodge and of course could not go elsewhere. The meeting on Sunday will be open to the public and all who so desire are welcome to attend.

FILLING THE JURY WHEEL.—Jury commissioners J. Adam Hazel and John D. Decker, with W. Miles Walker as clerk, began their work on Tuesday, of filling the jury wheel with the names of eligible voters of Centre county who will be liable for jury service during the year of 1915. Between six and seven hundred names are put in the wheel, which allows for the regular venies and any extra drawing that may have to be made as the result of special courts or unusual cases. Any reputable citizen of the county is eligible for jury service and any such desiring their names placed in the wheel should communicate at once with one of the jury commissioners.

—Any proper family desiring to adopt a healthy, six months old baby boy, should make inquiry at once of Rev. Dr. Schmidt, probation officer. A young woman, with a two years old child, desires a permanent home in a good family. Inquire also of Dr. Schmidt.
