Two Killed Twenty-two Injured in Raid.

England Doubts Whether Giant Zeppelin Machines Participated in Bombardment.

Six persons were killed and twenty-two were injured in the German air raid over England.

Two of the dead are soldiers, three are women and one a boy. Thirty-two houses were destroyed and many others damaged.

Most of the damage appears to have been inflicted on private houses and shops; few public buildings or docks seem to have been injured. The property damage is estimated at $15,000.

The most important towns over which the German airmen appeared were Sandringham, Yarmouth, Sheringham, Hunstanton, Cromer, Heacham, Dersingham and Kings Lynn. Unofficial dispatches say a Zeppelin also appeared over Ipswich, in Suffolk county, seventy-five miles southwest of Yarmouth.

Doubt has been expressed in some quarters whether the raiders came in Zeppelins or in aeroplanes. In Sheringham and Cromer persons say they saw the aircraft, and their description indicates that they were Zeppelins. At the same time dispatches from Yarmouth say it is believed there that the craft used were large aeroplanes.

The small size of the bombs and the few missiles dropped supports the theory that they were not Zeppelins, as those air vessels could carry a much more formidable cargo of explosives.

The raiding airmen showed excellent ability in piloting their vessels, as well as good marksmanship. In spite of the darkness of the night, they seemed to find their way over the country with remarkable directness, and the accuracy of their aim with bombs was greater than generally had been believed possible.

Panic has followed the raid. Insurance rates against damage by Zeppelins in London are rising. In the damaged towns the terror which followed the attack is unabated. A hunt for German spies was begun, as a result of reports that signals had been flashed to the raiding Zeppelins at Yarmouth. According to these reports a signal was given from a house near the Aquarium theater, in Yarmouth, just before the attack began.

With a lull in the battle along the center of the line from Soissons to Rheims, where the French suffered so severely last week, the scene of action has shifted to the two wings of the battle front in the western zone of war. At both places violent attacks and counter attacks have been delivered, and both Berlin and Paris claim progress.

In the eastern part of France and along the Meuse the French say that they have made substantial gains and that they are now within ten miles of the outer forts of Metz, the German stronghold.
In that region the French have hurled forward large numbers of troops in an endeavor to isolate the German forces holding St. Mihiel and the lines of communication leading to that position, and late reports from official sources in Paris say that the French have captured nearly a third of a mile of German fortified positions about three miles from the German frontier east of St. Mihiel, the objective of the French efforts in that section of the battle zone in France.

This success, as reported from Paris, is of great importance, and marks the progress of a definite strategic movement to force the Germans from French soil along the Meuse.

Berlin dispatches say that at Notre Dame de Lorette, northwest of Arras, the Germans have captured 200 yards of the allies' trenches, as well as two machine guns and a few prisoners. At other places in that section of the battle front artillery exchanges are taking place.

In Alsace, where the allies were making progress until checked recently by the arrival of German reinforcements, they now apparently are on the defensive.

The following official statement was issued in Berlin:
"In the night of the 19th and 20th German airships bombarded the fortified town of Yarmouth and other places on the English seacoast. The attack was successful and considerable damage was done. The airships were shelled, but regained their home port unhurt."

Mine Sinks Italian Ship.
The Italian freight steamer Varese was blown up and sunk by a mine off Pola, the Austrian naval base in the Adriatic, according to dispatches received in Rome. The freighter struck an Austrian mine and went down with all on board.

Francis Joseph May Quit.
A Rome dispatch to the London Star says: "It is persistently rumored here that Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria has decided to abdicate."

No Explanation Given When It Is Transferred to Sydney.
The Australian seat of government has been transferred temporarily from Melbourne to Sydney.

Minister of Defense Pierce has said that there is no limit to the number of troops the Australian government will send to the front.
A German lieutenant has been arrested at Cloncurry on a charge of espionage. Plans of wireless plants and maps of various parts of Australia were found in his possession.

Brumbaugh Takes Office.

New Governor Reviews Parade of Militia and Marching Clubs — McClain Inaugurated Lieutenant Governor.

Martin G. Brumbaugh was inaugurated governor of Pennsylvania in Harrisburg and reviewed the parade, surrounded by his family and many invited guests.

Frank B. McClain, of Lancaster, was inaugurated lieutenant governor in the senate chamber. Both branches of the legislature then adjourned to attend the inaugural of Mr. Brumbaugh.

Rev. W. J. Sweigart, of Huntingdon, a former teacher of Dr. Brumbaugh, invoked the blessing, and Chief Justice J. Hay Brown, of Lancaster, administered the oath.

The new governor then delivered his inaugural address. In strong language he recommended to the legislature the enactment into law of all the policies he had declared for in his platform, including local option, woman's suffrage, child labor law, workmen's compensation act, etc.

When Governor Brumbaugh finished his address a salute was fired at the state arsenal and the governor's party was driven over the line of parade, escorted by the Governor's Troop of Harrisburg. They then took their places on the stand and reviewed the parade.

The governor's party consisted of state officials, judges and Mayor John K. Royal, of Harrisburg, who occupied about thirty automobiles.

General E. Dev. Morrell, of Philadelphia, was grand marshal, with Colonel J. B. Hutchinson, Eighth Infantry, Harrisburg, in command of the military division, composed of companies from the Fourth and Eighth regiments; Congressman W. S. Vare, Philadelphia, in command of the civic division, composed of political clubs from Philadelphia, West Chester, Scranton, Huntingdon, Altoona, Harrisburg and other places, and M. Harvey Taylor, Harrisburg, in command of the division comprising firemen from Harrisburg and York.

The four troops of the state police were mobilized for the parade and to handle the crowds.

Thousands of people from all sections of the state poured into the city to attend the ceremonies. The marching clubs, headed by politicians of large and small caliber, and brass bands, marched cheering through the streets, many carrying banners inscribed with Republican policies.

Governor Brumbaugh announced these appointments:
Francis Shunk Brown, of Philadelphia, to be attorney general.
Cyrus E. Woods, of Westmoreland, to be secretary of the commonwealth.
James S. Hiatt, of Philadelphia, to be private secretary.

West Chester Business Men Learn of Youth's Death in German Army.

A cablegram that was received in West Chester, Pa., by a Martin and Rudolph Lorges, young business men announces the death of their brother, Gustave Adolph Lorges, who was fighting with the German army on the Russian frontier.

Young Lorges was a member of a scouting party at the time. He was nineteen years old. Six other brothers are serving with the Germans, one of them being an officer. The parents of the brothers live in Germany.

"STOP, LOOK, LISTEN!"

A Lawyer received $10,000 for suggesting these words to a railroad. The sign, "Stop, Look, Listen!" saved the road many thousands of dollars in damages. It's a good sign. It's worth $10,000.

Wise people are often warned by a similar sign on the road of extravagance. They stop in time. How about yourself? Think this over seriously. A bank account is the Best Kind of Security at any time. If you haven't a bank account now, start one at once. Any account, however small you are able to begin with, will be welcomed and carefully conserved at
