FORESAW GRAVE DANGERS.

Wilson Strongly Protested Against War Zone Proclamation and Declared That This Nation Would Hold Germany to Strict Accountability Should Single American Life Be Sacrificed.

Following is the full text of the note of warning sent on Feb. 10 by the state department to Germany:

Feb. 10, 1915. The secretary of state has instructed Ambassador Gerard, at Berlin, to present to the German government a note to the following effect:

"The government of the United States, naving had its attention directed to the proclamation of the German admiralty, issued on the 4th of February, that the waters surrounding Great Britain and Ireland, including the whole of the English channel, are to be considered as comprischannel, are to be considered as compris-ed within the seat of war; that all enemy merchant vessels found in those waters after the 18th instant will be destroyed, although it may not always be possible to save crews and passengers, and that neu-tral vessels expose themselves to danger within this zone of war because, in view of the misuse of neutral flags, said to within this zone of war because, in view of the misuse of neutral flags, said to have been ordered by the British govern-ment on the 31st of January and of the contingencies of maritime warfare, it may not be possible always to exempt neutral vessels from attacks intended to strike enemy ships, feels it to be its duty to call the attention of the imperial German government with sincere respect and the most friendly sentiments, but very can-didly and earnestly, to the very serious possibilities of the course of action apparently contemplated under that procla-

"The government of the United States views these possibilities with such grave concern that it feels it to be its privilege and indeed its duty in the circumstances to request the imperial German government to consider before action is taken the critical situation in respect of the relation between this country and Germany which might arise were the German naval forces, in carrying out the policy foreshadowed in the admiralty's proclamation, to destroy any merchant vessel of the United States or cause the death of American citizens.

Unprecedented Act.

"It is, of course, not necessary to remind the German government that the sole right of a belligerent in dealing with neutral vessels on the high seas is limited to visit and search, unless a blockade is proclaimed and effectively maintained, which this government does not understand to be proposed in this case. To declare or exercise a right to attack and destroy any vessel entering a prescribed area of the high seas without first certainly determining its belligerent nationality and the contraband character cargo would be an act so unprecedented in naval warfare that this government is knew to be his duty." reluctant to believe that the imperial government of Germany in this case contem-plates it as possible. The suspicion that enemy ships are using neutral flags im-properly can create no just presumption that all ships traversing a prescribed area are subject to the same suspicion. It is to determine exactly such questions that this government understands the right of visit and search to have been recognized.

This government has carefully noted the explanatory statement issued by the imperial German government at the same time with the proclamation of the German admiralty and takes this occasion to remind the imperial German government very respectfully that the government of the United States is open to none of the criticisms for unneutral action to which the German government believes the governmen ernments of certain other neutral nations have laid themselves open; that the government of the United States has not consented to or acquiesced in any measures which may have been taken by the other belligerent nations in the present war which operate to restrain neutral trade, but has, on the contrary, taken in all such matters a position which warrants it in holding those governments responsible in the proper way for any untoward effects on American shipping which the accepted principles of international law do right hand was grasped what looked t justify, and that it therefore regards itself as free in the present instance to take with a clear conscience and upon accepted principles the position indicated in this note.

Deplorable Situation.

"If the commanders of German vessels of war should act upon the presumption that the flag of the United States was not being used in good faith and should destroy on the high seas an American vessel or the lives of American citizens it would be difficult for the government of the United States to view the act in any other light than as an indefensible violation of neutral rights which it would be very hard indeed to reconcile with the friendly relations now happily subsisting between the two governments. "If such a deplorable situation should arise the imperial German government can readily appreciate that the government of the United States would be constrained to hold the imperial German government to a strict accountability for such acts of their naval authorities and to take any steps it many friends in London and New York might be necessary to take to safe- to know that the famous manager's guard American lives and property and to secure to American citizens the full enjoyment of their acknowledged rights on the high seas. The government of the United States, in view of these considerations, which it urges with the greatest respect and with the sincere purpose of making sure that no misunderstandings may arise and no circumstances occur that might even cloud the intercourse of the two govern-ments, expresses the confident hope and expectation that the imperial German government can and will give assurance that nerican citizens and their vessels will be molested by the naval forces of rmany, otherwise than by visit and treh, though their vessels may be trav-sing the sea area delimited in the proction of the German admiralty.

"It is added for the information of the have been made to his Britannic majesty's government in respect to the unwarranted use of the American flag for the protec-tion of British ships."

Democratic Watchman. VANDERBILT DIED TO SAVE WOMAN

Millionaire Bravely Gave Up Life Belt en Lusitania.

COULD NOT GET ANOTHER.

Survivors Tell of Heroism of Young American When Great Liner Was Torpedoed and Say He Went to Death Like True Sportsman-Frohman, Lame, Was Helpless but Calm.

Two survivors of the Lusitania disaster have given testimony that Alfred G. Vanderbilt died heroically; that he went to death to save the life of a woman.

Thomas Slidell, a friend of Mr. Vanderbilt, who lives at the Knickerbocker club in New York and was traveling with him, told of the sacrifice first. Later Norman Ratcliffe, who lives in Gillingham, Kent, and was returning from Japan, offered verification.

MENT.—Notice is hereby given that the following persons and firms have been appraised and are hereby liable for mercantile license taxes for the year 1915: Thomas Slidell said that Mr. Vanderbilt was standing on B deck with two or three persons, all of whom had life belts on.

"Just as the Lusitania was heeling to her final plunge." went on Mr. Slidell, "an old woman, apparently without friends, came along. Seeing that she was without a life belt. Mr. Vanderbilt without hesitation took off his own and fastened it around her. At that moment the boat went down.

"What happened to the old woman 1 don't know, but I do know that Mr. Vanderbilt is dead. He could not swim and must have known that by surrendering his life belt he was sacrificing his own life.

"Some of those standing with him were saved. It was Miss Loney who told me of Mr. Vanderbilt's sacrifice.

Meant to Help Red Cross. "It is not known generally what Mr. Vanderbilt's mission on this trip was. The night before the Lusitania went down he told me in confidence, but I see no reason why it should not be known now that, although he had given large sums to the Red Cross, he felt he had not done enough and was coming over to do more.

"He said that he intended to fit out two motor ambulances and go with them himself to France to help the British and American Red Cross people personally in one capacity or another.

"Now all his plans have come to nothing. He forgot everything in the fact that he could be of service to this old woman. His own life, position and wealth did not count. He did what he

Norman Ratcliffe, who was rescued after clinging to a box in the sea for three hours, had with him a steward of the Lusitania.

Died Like Sportsman.

"This steward." Mr. Ratcliffe said, "told me he had seen Mr. Vanderbilt on the Lusitania's deck, shortly after the ship was struck, with a life belt about his body. When the ship gave every indication that it would sink within a few minutes, the steward said, Mr. Vanderbilt took off his life belt and gave it to a woman who passed him on the deck, trembling with fear of the fate she expected to meet. The steward said Mr. Vanderbilt turned back, as though to look for another belt, and he saw him no more."

Oliver O. Bernard, scenic artist of Covent Garden, said: "I saw Alfred G. Vanderbilt standing at the port entrance to the grand salon. He stood there the personification of sportsmanlike coolness. In his to me like a large purple leather jewel case. It may have belonged to Lady Mackworth, as Mr. Vanderbilt had been much in company of the Thomas party during the trip, and evidently had volunteered to do Lady Mackworth the service of saving her gems for her.

"Mr. Vanderbilt was absolutely unperturbed. In my eyes he was the figure of a gentleman waiting unconcernedly for a train. He had on a dark striped suit, and was without cap or other head covering.

Frohman's End Was Peace.

"Vanderbilt, the sportsman, is gone. Genial Charles Klein, the playwright. is gone. That erratic American literary genius. Elbert Hubbard, is gone, and with him a wife to whom he seemed particularly devoted. And Charles Frohman is gone.

"Frohman's was the only body I could recognize in the Queenstown mortuary, and perhaps it will interest his face in death gives uncommonly convincing evidence that he died without a struggle. It wears a serenely peaceful look.

"Frohman must have found it more difficult for him to take his place in a lifeboat than any other man on the ship. He was quite lame, and hobbled about on deck laboriously with a heavy cane. He seldom came to the general dining saloon, either out of sensitiveness or because of distress caused by his leg."

Believe Submarines Trapped Lusitania. Official opinion as to how the Lusitania came to be caught and why so iai government that representations many lives were lost remains a secret. The general unofficial opinion is that several German submarines were assigned to attack the liner and that they maneuvered her into a position where she could not escape.

One of Field's Jokes.

Edward Everett Hale greatly enjoyed a joke which was perpetrated on him by Eugene Field. Field celebrated one of Doctor Hale's visits to Chicago by giving a luncheon in his honor and inviting a number of prominent persons to meet him. "Field was aware," said Doctor Hale, "that I was a temperance man, and therefore I was somewhat surprised to see that the table on which this lunch- PURIFY AND BUILD UP THE BLOOD eon was served was very abundantly supplied with bottles labled 'Whisky,' 'Brandy' and 'Champagne.' But when these bottles came to be uncorked they were found to contain nothing but water."-Chicago Herald.
