S. B. MILLER, Commander. EMANUEL NOLL, Adjutant.

A PRETTY HOME WEDDING—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pierce Weaver, of Millheim, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Tuesday evening, May 11th, when their eldest daughter, Helen Catharine, was united in marriage to Mr. Floyd Martin Smith, of Pleasantville, N. J.

The house was beautifully decorated throughout. In one corner of the parlor was a huge bower of evergreens and apple blossoms. At eight o'clock, Miss Fish, of Atlantic City, began playing the wedding march from Lohengrin and the groom and the best man, Mr. Howard Best, of Bellefonte, Pa., entered the room, followed by the bridesmaid, Miss Stevenson, of Pleasantville, attired in a gown of light blue silk crepe meteor, and carrying a large bunch of pink and white sweet peas. Then came the flower girl, little Louise Best, in white and pink, bearing a beautiful basket of apple blossoms. The bride appeared with her father who gave her away. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. G. A. Stauffer, of Rebersburg. The beautiful ring ceremony of the Reformed church was used.

The bride looked charming in an elaborate gown of white silk crepe de chine, trimmed with deep Irish point lace. A bridal wreath of apple blossoms held the veil. She carried a mammoth bouquet of white roses.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, congratulations having been extended, the wedding party proceeded to the dining room where a dainty wedding dinner was served. Seated at the bride's table were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Smith, Miss Stevenson, Mr. Howard Best, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Weaver and Rev. and Mrs. G. A. Stauffer.

The groom is a young man of sterling character and holds a position in a Pleasantville bank. The happy couple will be at home after June fifteenth at 23 Chester avenue, Pleasantville, N. J. Their many friends wish them bon voyage.

LYTLE—NEIDIGH.—On Saturday of last week John E. Lytle of Altoona, Miss Minnie Neidigh, of State College, and John H. Hoy and Miss Minnie Neidigh, of College township, motored to Boalsburg where the first two were united in marriage at the Reformed parsonage by the pastor, Rev. S. C. Stover. Mr. Hoy and Miss Neidigh acting as best man and bridesmaid. The party then returned to the home of the bride's parents where a wedding luncheon was served after which they departed on a wedding journey to Denver, Col., and the Pan-American exposition. Returning they will reside in Altoona.

STOVER—STOVER.—Charles E. Stover and Miss Alice N. Stover, both of State College, were united in marriage at the Lutheran parsonage in this place, on Saturday of last week, by the pastor, Rev. W. M. B. Glanding. The young couple will make their home at State College.

WHERE IS JOHN BEHRER?—Quite a number of Centre countians are anxiously endeavoring to locate the whereabouts of John Behrer, of Patton township, who disappeared from his home on April 8th, and has not been heard from since. Mr. Behrer with his brother Jacob owned and conducted a farm in Patton township and also dealt in horses and farm machinery. During the latter part of March they made public sale of their farm stock and implements. On April 8th Mr. Behrer came to Bellefonte and, it is alleged, negotiated a number of their sales notes then disappeared. He was seen in Bellefonte that day by a number of men but no one has been able to find out when or how he left Bellefonte. Since his disappearance judgments aggregating about $4,500 have been entered against him in the prothonotary's office and it is presumed he left the county owing to financial troubles. Mr. Behrer was also guardian for his brother Charles, who is in the hospital at Danville, and it is probable his bondsmen will make application for the appointment of another guardian. A rumor was current this week that a Centre county friend of Mr. Behrer had received a letter from Minnesota, but this has not been substantiated.

WILSON GIVEN GREAT OVATION.

Declares at Banquet America Asks Nothing For Herself Except What She Can Ask For Humanity.

The greatest ovation ever given to a president of the United States was accorded President Woodrow Wilson when he came ashore in New York to review the naval parade. Half a million persons, who turned out despite the wind and rain, frenziedly cheered and waved their hats, and as the brass bands from the battleships in the harbor crashed out martial music, the demonstration passed all bounds.

Afterward Joseph Tumulty, the secretary of the president, said:

"The president is more affected by this reception than by anything he has experienced lately. It is the greatest patriotic outburst I have ever seen."

Following the review, President Wilson delivered a patriotic address at the civic banquet in his honor and stirred an audience of 500 citizens and officers of the Atlantic fleet into a wild tumult of applause.

In the course of his speech, which because of the present strained state of international affairs is taken to be highly significant, the president declared the interesting and inspiring thing about this country is that it asks nothing for itself except what it has a right to ask for humanity. He said America wants no nation's property and questions no nation's honor. America stands for that which every nation should wish to stand for, he said. When a crisis comes in this country, he declared, it was as if you put your hands on the pulse of a dynamo. He said this spirit was now prevailing in New York, where the great fleet is assembled, not as a threat against any man or nation, but just as evidence that the force of America is lifted for great moral principles. The country will contend for nothing else, he said.

Rain continued to fall for about fifteen minutes after the president entered the reviewing stand. He stood out in front on the platform, with Acting Mayor McAneny at his right and Secretary of the Navy Daniels at his left. Every time an American flag came into sight in the parade the president tipped his hat, and rain, dripping down from flags strung across the top of the platform, splattered on his head.

The rain ceased, however, before the parade was finished. Both Secretary Daniels, Private Secretary Tumulty and other members of the party were thoroughly soaked.

The president took the keenest interest in the bluejackets. His face beamed with smiles as the sailors marched by. His little grandniece, Ann Cothran, stood with him during a part of the parade. His daughter Margaret also was with him.

The program called for Mr. Wilson's return to the Mayflower immediately after the luncheon. Then the raising of the president's flag was the signal that the commander-in-chief of the fleet was ready to receive formal calls from his flag officers and captains.

This ceremony completed, the Mayflower weighed anchor for the review. Her course, cleared of all other traffic, was north between the battleships and the Manhattan shore. The Mayflower's escort was a division of destroyers, followed by the dispatch boat Dolphin, carrying Secretary Daniels, and by the fleet tender Yankton, the police boat patrol and the auxiliary cruiser Dixie.

SPRING MILLS.

Rev. Jones will deliver a memorial sermon in the Reformed church on the 23rd inst., at 2.30 o'clock.

T. M. Gramley is the representative of Spring Mills Lodge I. O. O. F. at the Grand Lodge at Stroudsburg, Pa.

Mrs. Hazle has been suffering from a lame arm for the last ten days, and is unable to account for the cause.

The recent cold snap has recalled all straw hats and light clothing. Linen suits proved a trifle too previous.

Miles Johnson, assistant R. R. agent, is on a two weeks vacation. Foster L. Stahl, of Northumberland, occupies the position during his absence.

The Spring Mills Grange has made quite an improvement at the entrance to their hall by putting down a huge stone just at the entrance. It is a decided advantage both in appearance and convenience. The Grange is in a very flourishing condition.

A. W. Rokenbrod, proprietor of the Spring Mills hotel, has thoroughly remodeled and added so many modern improvements and conveniences to that old and well known hotel that it is almost a new building. He has introduced the Carbon light for illumination, has a very inviting reading room, fine dining room and a well arranged office; also improved the ladies parlor, and the barroom has the appearance of a well appointed saloon instead of the proverbial whiskey mill. All the rooms have been painted and handsomely papered, and the house completely refurbished. Mr. Rokenbrod is a very capable hotel man, always pleasant and agreeable and has the happy faculty of making all his guests feel perfectly at home.

It has been publishing some of the most entertaining and instructive features ever presented by a newspaper. The woman's page, the financial section, the editorial page all stand out as a relief to the eyes of all readers. The sporting section has grown to be the largest, as it always has been the best. Grantland Rice has been added to the list of special writers and his gin-
