

A Flood of Wine.

The Argentinians are a wine-drinking nation. The natives are of Spanish descent and are accustomed to having wine with their meals.

Moisture Absorbed by Granite.

A coat made of granite, while perhaps not the most comfortable article of wearing apparel—although granite in thin sheets is flexible—might be thought to be storm proof; yet granite will absorb a considerable amount of moisture.

Probably Mamma Knew.

Little Elsie—"My papa's a minister, and that is best." Little Grace—"My papa's a lawyer, and that's best, too."

Sympathetic.

"It's pretty hard to sleep on an empty stomach," said the tramp wearily to the bustling farmer's wife.

Goat Is Regimental Pet.

The everyday goat is responsible for the nickname of the Royal Welsh fusiliers—the "Nanny Goats." A goat is the regimental mascot and is led at the head of the column.

Tommy's Costly Victory.

Mrs. Bacon—"What's the matter with Tommy's face and hands? They are badly swollen." Mrs. Ebert—"You see, they offered a prize at his school for the boy who would bring in the greatest number of dead wasps, and Tommy won."

Sustaining Moral Energy.

The moral energy of nations, like that of individuals, is only sustained by an ideal higher and stronger than they are, to which they are firmly when they feel their cot growing weak.—Henri Bergson.

Daily Thought.

Nine-tenths of the good that is done in the world is the result not of laws, however wise, or of resolutions however strong, but of the personal influence of individual men and women.—Sir Samuel Chisholm.

Credit Belongs to Labor.

If we rightly estimate things, what in them is purely owing to nature and what to labor, we shall find that ninety-nine parts of a hundred are wholly to be put on the account of the labor.—Locke.

How Ivy Benefits Walls.

After extensive tests German experts have decided that ivy benefits rather than injures stone or brick walls on which it grows by drawing superfluous moisture from them.

Good Way to Induce Sleep.

Those who persist in going over in their minds the affairs of the day should sip a cup of warm water slowly or a glass of warm milk before going to bed.

Heron's Good Appetite.

The heron, which has an average weight of only four pounds in spite of its size, has been known to eat three and one-half pounds of fish at one meal.

Heard in the Garden.

Why are corn and potatoes like the idols of old? Because the corn have ears and they hear not, and the potatoes have eyes and they see not.

Dogs Have Feet Shod.

The dogs of Labrador are shod with seal skin shoes, which protect their feet from the sharp ice and enable them to draw much heavier loads.

Cleaning Oil Paintings.

Oil paintings can be best cleaned at home by rubbing a half of a raw potato quickly over the surface and then polishing with a silk handkerchief.

For Burns and Scalds.

Apply glycerin and flour, the latter heaped on the affected part to keep off the air. On this put a good pad of cotton wool and bandage.

Credit's Drawback.

"What is the trouble with credit?" asks a financial organ. The collectors it brings around, if you must know.—Detroit Free Press.

GREAT FISHING AND HUNTING

Doctor Ellis Brings Home Stories of Wonderful Sport in Interior of Alaska.

Dr. C. J. Ellis, who has just returned to Buffalo from a four-month trip to Alaska, brings back stories of that territory which will make the mouths of western New York sportsmen water. The usual tourist route is to Skagway or one of the southeastern coast towns and thence back to Seattle.

"Before I went to Alaska," said Doctor Ellis recently, to a representative of the Buffalo Express, "I thought I knew what fishing was; but I did not learn until I reached that country. Now I know what fishing in a perfectly virgin stream is like.

"For a time we stayed in a miner's cabin 50 miles back from the Yukon with Jim Muir, a nephew of John Muir. On the way in, a moose was killed from the wagon in which we were riding. We just missed a herd of 10,000 caribou. There were bears all around."

Doctor Ellis brought home a large number of specimens, including two perfect mastodon teeth, one of which he has promised to William T. Hornaday of New York. He also brought home many photographs of the scenes along his journey.

MASONIC SIGN SAVED HIM

Potent Signal Used by English Engineer on Blockade Runner During the Civil War.

A story published recently describing how a Belgian saved himself and a number of his countrymen from execution, by showing a Masonic sign to the officer in charge of the German firing party, recalls an incident in the American Civil war which was related to our parliamentary correspondent by the late Sir William Allan, the giant engineer who sat for some years in parliament for Gateshead.

Allan as a young man was adventurous, and early in the Civil war he engaged in the hazardous business of a blockade runner. His steamer was in due time captured by a Federal gunboat off Charleston, and boarded. As the boarding officer came up the side, Allan went below to reduce the steam, which had been forced up beyond safety point during the pursuit. He was immediately followed by the officer, who put a pistol to Allan's head, and said: "You're going to blow up the ship!" "Oh, no, I'm not," replied Allan: "I am going to prevent her blowing up." "You're a liar," snarled the Federal, and he raised his pistol arm again.

At the same moment, Allan, by a sudden inspiration, made a Masonic sign. The officer's arm dropped at once, and he said, taking Allan's hand: "That's all right. Now you take the ship into port."

Woman's Gift to Baseball.

Charles Bennett, famous as a catcher for the noted Detroit team of 1886-1887, delights in telling the story of how his wife made the first catcher's breast protector. It was a constant source of worry to Mrs. Bennett to watch her husband acting as a target for the speedy twirlers of 30 years ago, and she determined to invent some sort of an armor to prevent the hot shots from the pitchers playing a tattoo on the ribs of her better half.

Persistence of Early Habits.

Prof. Ernest Haeckel, whose life has been an almost continuous series of great achievements, attributes his activity to his early training. "My mother," he says, "would never permit me to be idle for a moment. If I stood at the window day-dreaming, she would always urge me to be up and doing. 'Work or play,' she would urge, 'but do not stand idle.' Through this reiterated admonition, physical activity became a lifelong habit with me, and work almost a necessity of my being. If I have been able to accomplish my full share of labors, this is the reason. I am never idle, and I scarcely know the meaning of ennui."

Not So as to Be Noticed. "Pa, when you say you're laying for a person it means you have a grudge against him, doesn't it?" "Generally, my son." "Well, has the hen a grudge against the farmer, pa?"—Boston Transcript.

Charged for His Suffering. "You charged $20 for giving my daughter a music lesson?" "No," replied the professor, serenely. "It is only $5 for the lesson. The other fifteen is for having to listen."

To Remove Paint. Equal parts of ammonia and turpentine will take paint out of clothing, no matter how hard or dry it is. Saturate spots two or three times, then wash in warm soap suds.

Modern Improvements. "They certainly are improving on the old style of sending things. They can even telegraph photographs now." "Yes, and I notice that presents of flowers can be wired."

Must Rise Above Misfortune. It is every man's duty to labor in his calling and not to despond for any miscarriages or disappointments that were not in his power to prevent.—L'Estrange.

At Cooking School. "What did you learn at your cooking class this morning?" "How to pluck a goose, how to curry favor, and how to dish up a scandal."

CASTORIA.

Joy in Service. A life lived for self can never be good nor great. There is only one way to save a life and that is to lose it in service to others. Every child is entitled to a chance "to do the things" which he is able to do for others. Service of this kind brings home the highest joy as the years come and go. It is true, this "doing" affords in childhood days an outlet for physical energy; but better than that it forms the habit of living for others, which will some day prove to be a fountain of perennial joy to him.

Harm in Improper Posture. If the lungs are cramped by improper posture they fail to get the proper amount of oxygen and do not throw off the waste and poisonous matters they should.

Neighborly Advice

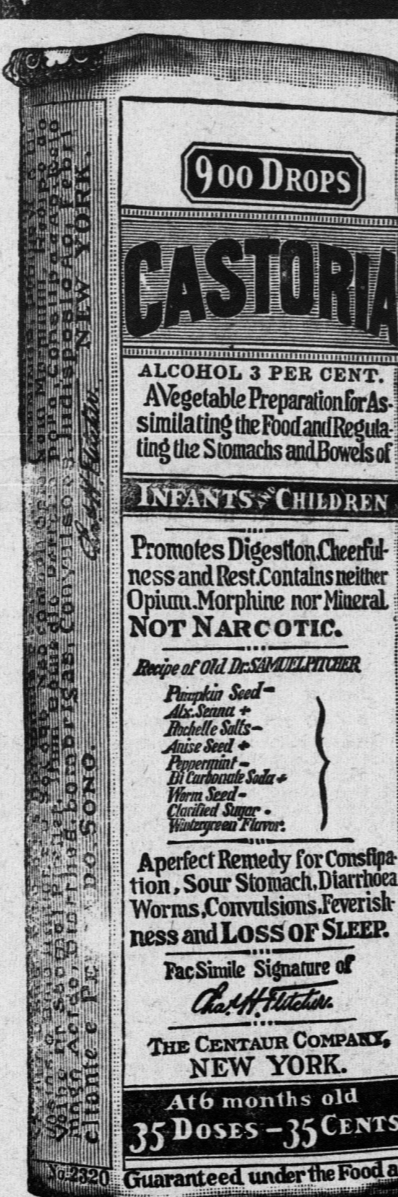

FREELY GIVEN BY A BELLEFONTE CITIZEN.

When one has suffered tortures from a bad back and found relief from the aches and pains, that person's advice is of untold value to friends and neighbors. The following neighborly advice comes from a Bellefonte resident.

Mrs. Sara Miller, 210 E. Howard St., Bellefonte, says: "I had pains in my back and a dull ache across my loins. I also had headaches and dizzy spells and spots floated before my eyes. I couldn't do any lifting and if I sat down, I could hardly get up without help. I also had rheumatic twinges. Two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills removed the rheumatic pains and the other ailments. I have had very little trouble since."
