

BULGARS HAMMER AT ALLIES LINES

Infantry Made Five Different Assaults After Violent Bombardment and Were Driven Back With Heavy Losses.

A great battle is under way in southern Serbia. The most desperate attacks yet made by the Bulgarians against the Anglo-French allies are being launched in the triangle formed by the Corna and Vardar rivers in a terrific effort to hurl the French and British soldiers over the Greek frontier.

A critical situation exists for it is not known what action the Greeks may take if French and British troops and the handful of Serbians fighting with them are forced upon Greek soil.

Bulgar forces, amounting to possibly four divisions (40,000 men), are reported in the region of Doiran. Simultaneously German forces are forming in front of the allies' line.

The German forces are probably of the army of General von Gallwitz, which, since the Austrian-German army of Field Marshal von Mackensen and the Bulgarian army of General Boyadjieff have effected a junction, has been detached from the mass and sent toward the south, while General von Koevess and General Boyadjieff continue operations against the Serbians and Montenegrins.

Constant arrival of fresh forces and war materials at Salonika give evidence that the allies have no intention of abandoning their efforts in this region.

Salonika advices declare that, following an eight-hour bombardment of the British front in the Strumitza region, Bulgarian troops launched attacks in force late Monday afternoon, but were repulsed with heavy losses. The Bulgarian bombardment began at 8 o'clock, heavy guns pounding away at the British defences in an effort to destroy them. Aeroplanes believed to have been operated by German aviators attempted to direct the cannonade, but the machines were put to flight by British aviators.

At four o'clock in the afternoon the bombardment suddenly ceased, and the Bulgarian infantry moved forward to the assault. They were met with a galling fire from the British soldiers who had been well protected by their deep earth trenches. Five different assaults were made by the Bulgarians, but they finally abandoned their effort to break the British front.

The French war office in its report recites the driving back of a Bulgarian attack at Demirkapou on the Vardar river, on Sunday afternoon.

Although the Germans have announced the capture of the Ipek, in Montenegro, the pursuing Austrian and the Bulgarian armies evidently are confronted with a harder task on the Montenegrin frontier than elsewhere. The Montenegrins continue to offer their spirited resistance and to check the invaders wherever possible by sharp counter attacks.

Berlin reports that eighty cannon were taken with the capture of Ipek, and that more than 2000 prisoners were captured.

Sofia announces that Bulgarian troops have captured Dibra in southwestern Serbia, and that a Bulgarian army is advancing on Ochrida.

BOOKS, MAGAZINES, Etc.

INTRODUCES NEW CHILDREN'S FEATURE—Probably the greatest and most expensive children's feature ever undertaken by any newspaper will be introduced with the December 12th issue of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, when the first of a series of real children's books in colors will be given with the paper.

The books are tales of the funny adventures of Punky Dink—who is a big, funny, happy cat, sure to entrance all the little folks. His first adventure is "Punky Dink and the Spotted Pup." These free supplements are not mere sheets of illustrations; they are real 32-page books, illustrated in six colors and printed on the finest kind of book paper. In book stores they sell at gift books at 35 cents. 60-49

"STOP, LOOK, LISTEN!"

A Lawyer received $10,000 for suggesting these words to a railroad. The sign, "Stop, Look, Listen!" saved the road many thousands of dollars in damages. It's a good sign. It's worth $10,000. Wise people are often warned by a similar sign on the road of extravagance. They stop in time. How about yourself? Think this over seriously. A bank account is the Best Kind of Security at any time.
