Since so many great men have been resigning of late, your correspondent thought seriously of resigning after Monday's and Tuesday's extreme cold weather in our vicinity. On Monday the of the D. A. R., of Spruce Creek, will be thermometer registered 12 degrees below entertained by Mrs. George Irvin, at her and Tuesday 10 degrees below. My object in resigning was to escape feeding

Roy Uhl, the head clerk of the Stitzer store, has resigned his position to go into effect March 1st., after which time he will be an employee of Lauderbach-Barber Co., wholesale grocers. The many friends of Roy dislike very much to see him depart from the Gap, but in this instance what may prove as a loss to merchant Stitzer will be a gain to his employers, as Roy invariably makes good.

ever there are some who take the op. hale and hearty. posite view. Foxy Moyer, one of the most energetic pushers of the Whiterock Lime club, is emphatically for prepared-ness. He says that preparedness should be the watchword of every true American citizen, Mr. Bryan and Mr. Ford excepted. Mr. Bryan and Mr. Ford are good men, but nearly all good men have some weak points. Mr. Bryan's weak point consists of the willingness to hand and foot. We have at present time will make an extended visit among relaa foe to contend with that we never had before, and that is the citizens who are traitors to this country. All nationalities that have come here to make their homes and become citizens have been true to this country, but there are some personal exceptions. A foe in the garb of an American citizen is worse than a foreign foe. I believe that many who come here to become citizens are ready to take the oath, considering it a kind of form or custom, without its being of much vital force or consequence. All we ask of anyone who comes here to become a citizen is to take the oath, and live up to the requirements of the same.

This is a time which certainly marks a crisis in the history of the Democratic party, if not in the history of the country. President Wilson loses the strongest man in his Cabinet, and he loses Mr. Garrison as a result of the failure of Congress to accept the plan which the Congress to accept the plan which the Secretary of War had made to provide the country with an adequate army reserve. Secretary Garrison was not committed to his plan for a Continental Army. But he was committed to the principle of an adequate Federal army reserve, and he knew that the National al Guard, so long as it retained it's strict-local character and State control local character and State control, could not meet the Nation's need for a modern and efficient military system. His resignation will have one important result. It will bring home to Congress and to the country at large the vital im-portance of the problem now confronting us. Congress has not squarely met the problem. It must meet it now. This is not a partisan question. It is one of the great questions on which it is possible to unite men of all parties. And the resignation of the War Secretary will force the leaders in Congress to face this issue. Their quibblings and evasions have cost the country the services of its ablest cabinet officer. It is for Congress now to heed the lesson of this resignation and to put through without further delay an adequate measure for the reorganization of the federal army.
