PLEASANT GAP PICKUPS.

The world as we think of ourselves is good, of other's bad, unless we are in love, and that covers all imperfections.

Charles Hasserger, of the Lyon & Co. store, makes frequent trips to the Gap. Evidently he has some special interests here.

Contractor Van Gunden is putting the finishing touches on the new house recently erected by George Tate. The same will be ready for occupancy on or before April 1st.

A kind word, an obliging action, even if a trifling one, has a power superior to the harp of David in calming the billows of the soul. The heart is easily overcome by acts of kindness.

Mrs. Shelley is spending her mid-winter vacation with the doctor's parents and friends in Juniata county. She expects to visit in the vicinity of the "Blue Juniata" for an indefinite time.

Mr. Appleby, manager of Whiteoak quarries, and Miss Lottie Harrison, one of our professional school teachers, were quietly married on Sunday last, and have left for an extended honeymoon trip.

Fred Dunzig, our artistic painter and decorator, completed the decoration of the Catholic church of Winburne, Clearfield county, a few days ago, and is now painting the new Lutheran church of Pleasant Gap.

Good nature is one of the sweetest gifts of Providence; like pure sunshine, it gladdens, enlivens and cheers in the midst of anger and revenge. Every kind act you bestow will have its influence, and eternity will reveal it.

Some of our wide awake grape growers about the Gap were busy last week pruning their grape vines. The coldest time of winter is the proper time to prune grapes. If pruning is not done until after the sap is running, the result will be few grapes.

Rural honor, rural pride, rural integrity is the bulwark of the nation, and we must stop the influx of our young people into the sin-polluting cities by making farming more attractive, if we expect to preserve our present institutions. It is a satisfaction to know that quite a number of our young men are hiring out as farm hands.

Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Keller will celebrate their golden wedding at the family residence, Pleasant Gap, on Thursday, March 16th, from ten o'clock a. m. until two o'clock p. m. Owing to the prominence of these good people, and the unusual large connection, it is safe to say that this will be one of the greatest social events of this midwinter season. A "feast fit for the Gods" will be included in the program.

The graduating class of the Pleasant Gap High school were fortunate in securing the services of Col. H. S. Taylor as their orator on the occasion of their graduating exercises. His superiority as a logical, sincere speaker is unquestioned. On a former occasion of a similar character he made innumerable friends in this community. He is eloquent, forceful and effective, and always draws a big audience. The Col. always says something when he speaks, hence it is that it is a pleasure and a satisfaction to hear him.

Our people are elated over the fact that the new state road between Bellefonte and Centre Hall is favorably reported on, and progressiveness is our watchword. A movement is being agitated to install electric street lights all along the pike from the cross roads to the postoffice. Up at the Gap the stretch of road proposed for this improvement is thickly populated and the cost of installing the lights per capita would be insignificant compared with the comforts and benefits derived, providing the project materialized.

Sometime ago Secty. Bryan made the unique statement that he studied lots of politics, and knew lots of things that he will never need in Heaven. Nothing could mark him off more distinctly from Roosevelt than that confession. For all the politics that Roosevelt studied—and he has studied with such past-masters as Platt, Odell, Cannon and Quay—and all the things he knows, and he knows a lot, are going to be useful to him in Heaven. For what he did was always right. It is conceivable that Roosevelt might be lonely in Heaven, but it would probably be a consolation for him to think of the number of political friends he has cheerfully sent elsewhere when they could no longer be of service to him.

The International law experts and store debaters at the Gap are continuing their nightly arguments relative to the existing situation in Mexico. The contestants are about equally divided for or against the President's policy on this perplexing proposition. The result of the controversy has narrowed down to the fact that if Carranza were a second Washington or another Lincoln, which he is not, he could not transform that bandit-ridden country into a peaceful pleasure spot for American investors in the short time since the collapse of Villa's power in the north. The American situation is not ideal but it certainly is improving, and already is noticeably much better than it has been. Since that is the case, and for that matter even though it were not the case, where is the basis for criticizing President Wilson's Mexican policy? Suppose Carranza does fall short of our ideal of a statesman, the responsibility rests with Carranza. No one has any right to reflect on President Wilson or the United States for the inability of Carranza to make good under the embarrassing conditions superintending. The situation is still admittedly bad. But can some of these critics or kickers propose a more feasible policy that would better conditions.

John Mulfinger, since disposing of his hotel, has lived a quiet, retired life; living an idle life, he thinks, is not what it's cracked up to be, more especially to one who has been accustomed to activities all his life. Exercise is requisite to the development both of our corporeal and mental capacities. Without exercise of body and mind there can be no real happiness. Yes, idleness has a tendency to render one petulant, gloomy and despondent. One of John's redeeming features is his tendency toward liberality. No one can accuse him of a petulant disposition. On the other hand his charity and liberality knows no bounds. For the past month he has been worrying as to what he should select as an appropriate Christmas gift for Jane, his wife. His first thought inclined him to select a new milk bucket and a wash-board; then again he thought of a horse collar, a pair of suspenders or an axe handle might be more useful to her. It must be remembered John is not a cheap skate when it comes to buying gifts for Jane. John has been thinking the matter over seriously, as he don't know which of these gifts would be the most useful in their household. He may decide to cancel the order, and in the event he does, he thinks he will get Jane's shoes half-soled. He fears if he puts it off too long she will from necessity decide she will have to have a new pair. She had quite a painful experience a few days ago, slipped and fell on the cellar steps and bruised her arm badly. Its a sad and painful experience. John says he felt badly over the sad incident, but what worried him the most, Jane had a whole dozen of fresh eggs in a poke and when she collapsed she broke every last one of them, and eggs bring twenty-five cents a dozen. He thinks if eggs were only fifteen cents this calamity would have been averted. "It's my luck anyway," said John; "if lightning was to strike my house, I would be blamed for it."

One of our enthusiastic temperance advocates, who, by the way, might be classed as a fanatic, said she could not understand why it was that the voters of our fair land were so reluctant in declaring themselves most emphatically against intemperance. Moreover, when our senses warn us of the danger of a precipice close at hand, have we not prudence to avoid it, with a cowardly tenacity? And when our medical fraternity demonstrates to us the poisonous, deadly influence of ardent spirits upon the system, and all experience illustrates the truth, why have men not sufficient sense and consistency to forsake the miserably foolish indulgence of drinking poison? I did not feel inclined to enter into a controversy on the live topic, more especially since the lady in question is a woman of a kindly disposition, and one who is very highly regarded in our community on account of her sincerity on topics of this character. The pleasant controversy had a tendency to cause the writer to take notice, and consider the subject from its varied angles. After due consideration it occurred to the writer that from all reports and conditions as they now exist all over the country, that if I were engaged in the liquor traffic, I would undoubtedly come to the conclusion that there was some cause for alarm. In looking over the results of the recent election on prohibition I find that there were added seven more States to the prohibition list on January 1st of this year. They are South Carolina, Arkansas, Idaho, Iowa, Washington, Oregon and Colorado. These States have a combined population of over eight million, as per the census of 1910. On November 1st, 1916, Virginia will close all her drinking places. This makes a total of nineteen States in the dry column, and in the meantime Nebraska, Michigan, South Dakota, Vermont and the territory of Alaska will cast their vote on prohibition this year. It's beginning to look as though there was something doing. It will not be many years until this vigorous fought battle will terminate and one of the elements will come out second best. But which?

Yes Louie Steinberg has it bad. It was a genuine case of love at first sight, so we'll give Louie's own story—as follows. There is such a thing as love at first sight; and it is not necessarily a light or transient feeling because it is sudden impressions are often made as indelibly by a glance, as some that grow from imperceptible beginnings, 'till they become incorporated with our nature. It is not the fixed law of the universe, as illustrated by the magnetic needle, a guarantee for the existence of attraction. And who will say it is not of Divine Origin. The passion of love is similar when of a genuine kind. "As streams their channels deeper wear," but the seal is set by a higher power than human will, and gives the stamp of happiness or misery for a whole life. The girl of my choice will leave the sunny home of her childhood, the protecting roof of her kindred, forget the counsels of her aged father, the admonishing voice of that mother on whose bosom her head had been pillowed, forsake all she has clung to in years of girlish simplicity, do all that woman can do consistently with honor, and throw herself into my arms, the man she truly loves. So much from Louie—now to be brief this romance originated within the last two months. Mr. Steinberg, our new merchant, opened a general store at the cross roads some six months ago. He proved himself to be a jolly good fellow, and is possessed of a little more than ordinary intelligence, dresses in the height of fashion, but unfortunately was addicted to flirting with some of our society belles. He finally captured one of that number; they became quite chummy and it is alleged that Louie finally proposed and was accepted. Now, then, here comes the first disagreement. Louie suggested that they proceed forthwith to Williamsport and have a Rabbi tie the knot. To this the young lady demurred. She declared she wanted to be married by the minister of her choice and congregation; anyway she said her choicest meal was pork, and she feared that if a Rabbi officiated she might be barred from eating that which she always regarded as her ideal meal, pork. This unfortunate difference in views caused a temporary postponement for the time being. However, that "Good Samaritan" and peace maker, butcher Eckels, is doing his utmost to liquidate this embarrassing situation. He proposed that they split the difference, and proceed at once to Squire Brooks and have the ceremony performed there.

Farmer Wm. Ross, who has resided adjacent to the fish hatchery for years, enjoyed the reputation of being one of our substantial, reputable and superlative moral citizens, is, according to his recent New Year's resolution, making a desperate effort to make further strides toward perfection, that of leading a perfect life as far as it is possible for man to do. He evidently realizes that the first essential in reforming is a consciousness of being in the wrong; the next, an extra desire to change; and the last, an honest resolve to shun the temptations that lead to the faults which are to be corrected. All these are really essential to any reformation. Billy's program for the year 1916 resolutions are as follows: I will not go hunting and fishing often than twice a week, this year.

I will get up to breakfast as soon as Lillie calls me. I will shave myself once a month at least. I will pay back that seed oats I borrowed in 1910 from Tommy Williams. When I go to the fair next fall I won't gamble any, nor I won't throw base balls at nigger dolls. I will buy Lillie two lemonades at the 4th of July picnic. I will continue to vote the Democratic ticket as usual for good or for evil. I will chop the wood, stop the hogs and milk the cows, whenever the snow is over Lillie's shoe tops, unless it is too beastly cold and blustery. I will not under any consideration drink any of that vile stuff called "Licker," only when I am alone or in the company of good friends; and then owing to my temperate make-up I will positively confine myself down so that the consumption will not exceed a quart a day. Merchant Stitzer, Boyd Spicher and a number of Billy's most intimate friends, believe in his honesty and sincerity. They say they are satisfied he will carry out his resolutions to the letter, since his word was always as good as a shoe-maker's bond. There is usually much talk about the weight of resolutions of this character. This is not a bad quality, but it is useless unless the resolution has good sticking qualities. Some persons go before a "Squire" and swear off for an indefinite time, hoping that the solemnity of the oath, and the frightful consequences of breaking it, will deter them from repeating their follies. Those who do this are spasmodic sinners. They allow their wild passion to run away with reason, overpower judgment, and offend common decency, itself. These do not resolve to do wrong, but do it under protest. The consensus of opinion is that Billy will stick from start to finish.

Attending sales is all the go. Everybody's doing it now. S. C. Yearick and W. A. Winters attended the horse sale at Milton on Saturday.

Ollie Shawver and wife and Miss Anona Yearick were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Long.

East Brushvalley at this writing is overlaid with a beautiful robe of snow, which furnishes sledding of some class.

Miss Mary Stover has spent the greater part of this week visiting friends and relatives in Milton and Millifinburg.

Ira Haugh, who hired himself to H. A. Meyer for the summer months, quietly and amicably handed in his resignation on Monday morning, and left for higher plains.

Adam Auman and son Clarence, both of Millifinburg, visited several days in our midst last week and hid thither with a team of fine draft horses, which they purchased at E. C. Conter's sale.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Y. Stitzer, also Harry Shultz and George Day, assisted Howard Weaver on Monday in preparing for his sale, which has been reported a success, as the stock and implements brought fair prices.

A load of jolly young folks from Madisonburg came to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Mowery on Friday evening, though that extreme cold weather with the intention of spending the evening in a most enjoyable manner, but to their surprise the house was dark and all dormant. Nevertheless, in the best of spirits, they departed for their homes and decided to hunt the bee that swarmed.

Mr. James Weaver is quite seriously ill. T. D. Bowersox expects to move from our town next week. I. M. Orndorf had a public sale of his stock and implements on March 9th.

The weather has been cold and stormy, with considerable snow and ice. A number of Woodward residents attended the sale of George Smith, in Brush valley last week.

On account of the illness of Charles Musser, teacher, the Woodward school was closed several days last week.

Porter Snyder, head baker in the Bon Ton bakery at Punxsutawney, spent a few days with his parents here recently.

Charles Wolf, Orvis Eisenhuth, Bruce Boob, Emery Miller and Stewart Hosterman were at Millheim on Saturday afternoon and evening.

Our people in this valley are with President Wilson. A man of his good judgment and wise statesmanship is the kind to have at the head of the government in such trying times. Therefore, stand by our President.

Patent Office Documents. If all the documents stored in the patent office at Washington could be placed end to end they would form a strip that would reach around the earth three times.

Medical. A Bellefonte Interview. MR. McLELLAN TELLS HIS EXPERIENCE.

The following brief account of an interview with a Bellefonte man over seven years ago, and its sequel, will be read with keen interest by every citizen.

William McLellan, 244 E. Lamb St., Bellefonte, says: "I suffered for a long time from pains and lameness across my back and some mornings I could hardly get out of bed. The kidney secretions were irregular in passage, too. Doan's Kidney Pills cured the attack and restored me to good health." (Statement given October 21st, 1907).

OVER TWO YEARS LATER, Mr. McLellan said: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills once or twice since for backache and disordered kidneys and quickly corrected the trouble." Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. McLellan had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. 61-10-1

PINE GROVE MENTION. Old Boreas is still at the helm. Mack Fry is housed up with a heavy cold. Mack Goheen is nursing several crushed fingers.

Cyrus Powley was a business visitor in Tyrone on Saturday. A. C. Kepler spent Saturday and Sunday with friends in Bellefonte.

Mrs. Maggie Quinn entertained about thirty-five members of the Ladies Aid society. Farmer George Koch sustained a broken leg last Friday and will be laid up for some weeks.

Wilbur Sunday, who has been afflicted with rheumatism all winter, is now able to be around. Mr. and Mrs. David Johnstonbaugh are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a baby girl.

Frank Kennedy, after a month's visit among friends at Mt. Pleasant, W. Va., returned home last week. Twilla and Elmer Hoy left on Wednesday for Akron, Ohio, where they expect to locate for the present.

Mrs. Sallie Bloom is making arrangements to spend the summer among friends in the middle west. Mrs. Nannie Norris, of Clearfield, is spending a week with her sister, Mrs. W. K. Harnish, at Roaring Springs.

Clarence McCormick and son John came up from Jermyn and are visitors at the Hon. John T. McCormick home. Mrs. Catharine Musser, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. David O. Ethers, is visiting relatives in the Mountain city.

Miss Leda Lytle is visiting relatives in Altoona before the sale and fitting season is on in earnest in this neighborhood. That famous bird, the stork, flew over Graysville recently and dropped a sweet little girl into the household of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Judy.

Pennsylvania Lodge, I. O. O. F. will confer the third degree tomorrow (Saturday) evening. The work will be followed with a smoker. Miss Eliza Moore, of Centre Hall, is visiting her cousin, Miss Nan Shaw, at State College, in the hope of recuperating her shattered health.

Rev. J. O. C. McCracken came over from Johnstown and spent several days last week with his aged mother, at the old family home in the Glades. Mrs. J. V. Foster last week returned home from the Bellefonte hospital. She was accompanied by little Emma J. Foster who, as No. 6, will be the attraction of the family circle.

Frank Smith, who has charge of the Star route, has been on the sick list the past two weeks and while he is in Blair county convalescing Murray Smith is covering his territory. On Monday evening the home of Cal Trostle was literally bombarded with a party of friends who gathered to tender them farewell before leaving for their new home on the J. C. Corl farm.

Rev. L. V. Barber has accepted the pastorate made vacant by the resignation of Rev. W. K. Harnish. Rev. Samuel Martin will fill the pulpit on Sunday, March 26th, when the call will be regularly made out.

John E. Bressler is stocking up his kennels with Virginia fox hounds, and when he once gets them thoroughly trained he expects to clean out all the noxious animals in the Barrens. The canines have a pedigree as long as the moral law.

John S. Schaeffer, formerly of Boalsburg, is greeting old friends of long ago in the valley. John is a born tailor and conducts a large tailoring establishment at 1401 Widener building, Philadelphia, where he always has a welcome ready for Centre countians.

Mack Salsburg, a well known peddler who has been coming through here for twenty years, made his last trip on Saturday and bade everybody goodbye. He will quit the road to engage in the mercantile business in a town in New Jersey, about forty miles south of Camden.

On Tuesday of last week David S. Slagle purchased the Bron farm, better known as the Bryson farm, two miles south of here.

Restaurant. BELLEFONTE now has a First-Class Restaurant. Meals are served at all hours. Steaks, Chops, Roasts, Oysters on the half shell or in any style desired, Sandwiches, Soups, and anything eatable, can be had in a few minutes any time. south of Benore, for $1,025, and will go to farming in the spring instead of carpentering. Mrs. Breen will in the future make her home among her children. The Frank Ishler sale on Wednesday was well attended, though the weather was unfavorable. Everything offered was sold at fair prices. Horses went as high as $204 and cows $65. The sale amounted to $2200. On Friday the Rumberger sale at Fillmore amounted to $4,000 for the stock and implements, while the farm sold for $5,500.

Last Friday evening a sledding party from the White Hall section invaded the Peter E. Cramer home at State College, and spent a jolly evening. The same evening another party invaded the W. Grant Gardner home in the Glades, taking forcible possession and Mrs. Gardner had quite a time getting them outside—a lot of choice refreshments she and her daughters had prepared.

Mrs. R. C. Fry is spending several days among friends in the Mountain city, where the klan held a sort of a family reunion on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Fry. Mrs. Mary Fry, wife of Dr. H. L. Fry, of Tennessee, was guest of honor, she having been north visiting during the Holidays and en route home spent several days with her new relatives in Altoona. She took her departure for Columbia, Tenn., on Sunday, very much delighted with her trip.

Medical. After Grip—Winter Colds—Bad Blood. You are pale, thin, weak—with little vitality. Your liver is sluggish and the bad blood causes your stomach muscles to lose their elasticity and become flabby and weak—then indigestion. Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, purely vegetable and free from alcohol or narcotics, is the great and powerful blood purifier of to-day. Extracted from American forest herbs and roots. Contains no alcohol. Ingredients printed on wrapper.

Take it as directed and it will search out impure and poisonous matter throughout the system and eliminate it through the natural channels. A Prominent Pennsylvania Man. Unlontown, Pa.—"Some time ago I took a severe cold on my lungs; had deep, dull pains all through them. I went to the family doctor and took his medicine but got no relief. I then procured four bottles of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which I took as prescribed, and am now entirely cured and in robust health."—Mrs. Geo. W. KELLEY, 152 Connellsville St.

"Anurie" is thirty-seven times more active than lithia in eliminating uric acid, and acute rheumatism in the joints, in gravel and gout. This is a recent discovery of Dr. V. M. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.—Send 10c for large trial package.

Hood's Sarsaparilla. Have Good Health. TAKE HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. THE OLD RELIABLE SPRING TONIC. Don't let the idea that you may feel better in a day or two prevent you from getting a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla today from any drug store and starting at once on the road to health and strength. When your blood is impure and impoverished it lacks vitality, your digestion is imperfect, your appetite is poor, and all the functions of your body are impaired. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a wonderful blood tonic. It will build you up quicker than any other medicine. It gives strength to do and power to endure. It is the old standard tried and true—all round blood purifier and enricher, tonic and appetizer. Nothing else acts like it, for nothing else has the same formula or ingredients. Be sure to ask for Hood's; and insist on having it.

Plumbing. Good Health and Good Plumbing GO TOGETHER. When you have dripping steam pipes, leaky water-fittings, foul sewerage, or escaping gas, you can't have good health. The air you breathe is poisonous; your system becomes poisoned and invalidism is sure to come. SANITARY PLUMBING is the kind we do. It's the only kind you ought to have. We don't trust this work to boys. Our workmen are Skilled Mechanics, no better anywhere. Our

Material and Fixtures are the Best. Not a cheap or inferior article in our entire establishment. And with good work and the finest material, our Prices are Lower than many who give you poor, unsanitary work and the lowest grade of finishings. For the Best Work try
