En-agements of that character, it was said, may be expected now from time to time and the running down of the marauding bands is essential to the safety of the American column, but it was indicated that the only effects, so far as Villa is concerned, will be to destroy the morale of his supporting W. operating in that same part of Mexico, and a part of the American forces must remain to deal with them while the other part pushes on in pursuit of the fugitive chief.

Villa's latest southward shift was credited in official quarters, since it came from consular representatives in which the outlaw was located well beyond Chihuahua City, and evidently trying to reach Parral, or, perhaps, even Torreon or Durango City. In the vicinity of all those cities there are known to be operating organized forces of Villa's men aggregating a strength of some thousands. According to all late reports, Villa appears to be traveling fast now and already has placed between himself and the pursuing Americans a considerable distance.
