The Bellefonte organization has enrolled a number of enthusiastic workers, who expect to do their part in this nation wide movement of preparedness, and this being their first call to the public, it is hoped there will be a most generous response.

Major General Wood Visits Centre County.

Guest of Honor at Big Barbecue and Preparedness Meeting at Boalsburg on Saturday.

Theodore Davis Boal not only put the "Boal" in Boalsburg but he nailed the "burg" solidly to the map on Saturday with his big barbecue and preparedness meeting, and having as the honor guest no less a personage than Major General Leonard Wood, commander of all the armies of the United States and a dark horse in the race for the Republican nomination for President. The elements were very much against a large attendance, owing to two very hard rain storms early in the afternoon, but with all that the crowd was estimated at from 2,000 to 2,500. It surely was a big day and the only drawback was the rain which made it wet under foot as well as overhead.

There was some delay in starting the meeting owing to the late arrival of Dr. E. E. Sparks, who was detained by something going wrong with his car. In the meantime the Boal band kept things lively with their music and all who got near enough was afforded the pleasure of meeting Gen. Wood. The General and his party, which included his daughter Lucretia, Capt. Doray, an aide on the General's staff, with his wife, of New York; Mrs. W. W. Porter, wife of Justice Porter, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Frank G. Kennedy, also of Philadelphia, and Mrs. George Ross, of Harrisburg, motored over the Seven mountains from Lewistown Saturday morning and were guests of Mr. Boal for luncheon. After the luncheon Gen. Wood reviewed the first volunteer mounted machine gun troop recently organized at Boalsburg and State College.

Dean Arthur Holmes, of State College, presided at the open air meeting held in the grove near the big swimming pool in the afternoon, and introduced as the first speaker Dr. E. E. Sparks, president of State College. Dr. Sparks spoke in a complimentary way of the interest shown by the people of Centre county in the preparedness movement and ventured the assertion that every one of the thousands of young men who had been trained in military tactics at State College would willingly volunteer if the time ever came when their services were needed. In closing he attempted to get a speech out of Mr. Boal, the host, but that gentleman modestly declined doing anything, but introduce Gen. Wood.

Gen. Wood talked for about half an hour and while he is not a brilliant orator he presented his facts so consistently and plain as to carry conviction to all his hearers. The General is for preparedness, not for an army of a million trained soldiers nor for a standing local army of 100,000 trained soldiers, outside our insular possessions and coast defenses, and an increased navy and one whose standard of efficiency would be such that it could respond to a call at any time. In addition he advocated the adoption of the Swiss or Australian military training system whereby young men between the ages of 14 and 18 are required to devote one hundred hours each year in military training and at the age of eighteen take three months of intensive training in a regular army military camp. It is only by some such method that the proper organization can be accomplished and maintained and numbers without organization will count for nothing in the time of dire need. Gen. Wood also advocated the increase of the army equipment of the United States to bring it up to a condition compatible with the demands of the times.

"During the past year," he said, "the people of the United States have been undergoing a condition of verbal massage. They have had preparedness rubbed in on one side and unpreparedness on the other, until they hardly know where they are at, but if you have anything you think worth defending or worth fighting for, whether it be your home, your women or your country, the time to prepare is before an enemy invades your sacred precincts, and not afterwards. If you are an advocate of unpreparedness and count on numbers without organization or equipment, and the time ever comes when the country shall be invaded by a foreign foe, the consequences will be appalling and you will be the one to blame."

General Wood also advocated an uplift in moral training and character building as vital essentials to the welfare of the country. His speech throughout was listened to with the closest attention and by none more carefully than the band of men who have enrolled themselves as volunteers in the mounted machine gun troop. At the close of Gen. Wood's speech Dean Holmes announced that the 300 pound ox and the four sheep slaughtered for the big barbecue by Mine Host Boal had been properly barbecued by chief barbecuer Thomas

Thompson and if the guests would fall into line and pass by the serving table they would each and every one be given a due portion, "I thank you." Consequently there was a general falling in and an idea of the crowd can be gathered from the fact that of the 2,000 wooden plates on hand to serve the guests just 144 were left over. And scores went home without waiting for a portion of the feast.

The big time was held as a sort of a christening or inauguration ceremony for the new mounted machine gun troop, which has been filled to its full complement of fifty officers and men. Theodore Davis Boal has been made captain of the troop; George Boal Thompson, first lieutenant, and Wilbur E. Leitzel second lieutenant. Each man has purchased his own uniform and Mr. Boal himself has furnished the money to purchase the horses. Up to Monday evening twenty-two mounts had been secured and they are now in keeping on the George B. Thompson farm at Alto. Other horses will be purchased just as fast as suitable steeds can be secured until the troop is all supplied.

The plans for the troop include drills once or twice a week until the first of August when they will go into camp on the Boal farm to undergo training by a regular army officer for two weeks. An overland march will then be made to Tobyhanna where a week will be spent, to be followed by the return march home.

The S. and H. green trading stamp company has announced its intention of going into competition with the Woolworth people and open up a line of 5 and 10 cent stores throughout the country. Up to this time, however, they have not been looking for a location in Bellefonte.

A new red cedar shingle roof is being put on the Elks home on High street. Nineteen cars laden with fresh beef and merchandise were wrecked on the Pennsylvania railroad, one mile west of Tyrone at 7.22 o'clock on Sunday evening when a broken rail caused a derailment while the train was running at high speed. Fortunately nobody was hurt. The road was only partially blocked and by six o'clock Monday morning was entirely opened to traffic. The wreck attracted hundreds of sightseers from Altoona, Tyrone and surrounding towns.

Fifty-seven years ago on Monday morning Mr. McQuiston, the well known coachmaker of this place, left Brookville, Jefferson county, to drive to Bellefonte, having decided to locate here, and what most impressed him on the trip was the fact that there had been a severe frost that morning which killed all kinds of crops, garden truck and fruit. As he drove along the road the fields on either side were as black as if burned over by fire. The result was almost an entire loss of all kinds of crops in this section of the State.

On Saturday evening the members of the Lock Haven High school base ball team were tendered a banquet at the Nittany Country club by Mr. P. P. Griffin, the well known lumberman of that city. At the conclusion of the banquet Mr. Griffin announced that if the High school would arrange three games of football with the Bellefonte High school next fall he would give a handsome silver loving cup to the winner. Inasmuch as these teams have always played two games each season there should be no difficulty in arranging a third game.

Improved Train Service.

The Pennsylvania railroad company has announced the inauguration on Sunday, June 25th, of a through all steel train service between Pittsburgh and Easton. The trains will be known as No. 510, Pennsylvania Lehigh express, eastbound, and No. 511, Lehigh Pennsylvania express, westbound. The former will leave Pittsburgh at 9 a. m., Tyrone at 12.50 and Bellefonte, the only stopping place between Tyrone and Lock Haven, at 1.40 p. m. From Lock Haven the train will run to Mt. Carmel on the Pennsylvania lines, and will there be switched to the Lehigh Valley for the run to Easton. Westbound the train will leave Easton at 8 a. m., Lock Haven at 2.28 p. m., and Bellefonte about 3.16 westward bound. The total time for the trip from Pittsburgh to Easton will be eleven hours.

The running of this train over the Bald Eagle Valley will necessitate some changes in the schedule of one or two other trains. No. 52, which now leaves Bellefonte at 1.23, will be here at 1.08, the two trains passing here, which will give passengers east more time in Lock Haven to catch the Buffalo Flyer. The railroad company also had under consideration the changing of the train now passing through Bellefonte at 4.44 westbound to 9.15 in the evening, but there is considerable protest against such a change from residents of Bald Eagle valley and it may not be made.

The new through train will consist of a combination baggage and passenger coach, a day coach, a restaurant car and a parlor car, all steel. The train will be run through without change.

The new train will shorten the distance between Bellefonte and New York city forty miles, making the distance just 300 miles, and give close connection at Easton. It is reported that Charles M. Schwab was instrumental in having the train put on, as it will give the best possible service between Pittsburgh and his extensive plant at New Bethlehem.

Woman's Suffrage Party Convention.

On Saturday, June 17th, the third annual convention of the Woman's Suffrage party of Centre county will meet in Bellefonte in the High school building.

Between these two sessions a box luncheon will be served in the domestic science rooms. Those coming from out of town are asked to bring a few sandwiches. The Bellefonte women will provide tea, coffee, ice cream and cake.

There will be reports of past work and discussion of plans for the future. All members of the Woman Suffrage party are urged to be present and to bring with them those whom they wish to interest in the enfranchisement of women.

Mrs. ROBERT MILLS BEACH, Chairman Centre Co., Woman's Suffrage Party.

The action taken by council Monday night, to compel all persons owning or occupying property in Bellefonte to cut down, dig or in any way rid it of weeds, gives a great deal of satisfaction to those who have been waging a weed war single handed. Should council get in earnest with the negligent person and make him pay for the cutting or digging of the weeds, it no doubt would greatly benefit both the town and many individuals. It might be well if you see a weed to dig it out, for these men sometimes mean what they say and may come after you this time.
