Republicans Hold Rally.

The Republican rally held in the court house on Tuesday evening drew a large crowd of enthusiastic partisans to Bellefonte from all the Republican strongholds in the county, Philipsburg being represented by candidates Rowland and Scott and about two dozen others. A good sized delegation was up from Howard as escort to the Howard band while superintendent Goodling led the delegation from State College. Capt. George M. Boal was over from Centre Hall, Titus M. Gramley from Spring Mills and several car loads from Millheim, so that every seat in the court house was taken and many were compelled to stand. Both the Bellefonte and Howard bands furnished music.

The meeting was called to order by county chairman J. Linn Harris and on motion of J. S. McCargar Dr. M. J. Locke was chosen to preside. During the past four years the doctor has been chairman of the Washington party in Centre county and his selection as chairman of the meeting was in honor of his returning to the Republican fold. And the doctor was very profuse in his thanks for having such honor thrust upon him. After a brief speech in which he paid a loyal tribute to the Republican county chairman he introduced as the first speaker of the evening Congressman John R. K. Scott, of Philadelphia.

Congressman Scott stated that inasmuch as a limit had been placed on the speechmakers he would confine himself to just one indictment of the Democratic party, and then he proceeded to indict with a lot of figures that nobody paid any attention to.

The second speaker introduced was Charles A. (Pickie) Snyder, of Schuylkill county, candidate for Auditor General. Mr. Snyder was the joker in the party and his many Pennsylvania Dutch stories kept the crowd in a good humor. During his talk Mr. Snyder stated that Pennsylvanians today were paying $41,000,000 into the U. S. government treasury as the result of the direct tax imposed by a Democratic Congress. Of course he gave no conclusive proof of that fact.

The last speaker of the evening was Thomas S. Crago, candidate for Congressman-at-Large; who also hurled charges at the Democratic party but like both the speakers who preceded him failed to make any pledges as to what the Republicans would do if they were in power.

Celebrated Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Adams, of Worth township, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on October 16th with a home-coming of their eight children and forty-one grand-children, while some forty or more additional guests were present. Mr. Adams was married to Miss Delilah Reese, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Reese, on October 16th, 1866. He is now 74 years old and she 69, and both are enjoying splendid health. Their children are William O. Adams, of Pittsburgh; Theodore, of Port Matilda; Aaron, of Tyrone; Mrs. Ruth Franz, of Port Matilda; Mrs. Esther Shafer, of Bald Eagle; Mrs. Delilah Nearhoof, of Port Matilda; Mrs. Catharine M. Monigal, of Worth township, and John, at home. The big cake for the celebration was sent from Pittsburgh by their son William.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Thomas, who will spend the winter at the Bush house, are arranging to close their home on Linn street early in November.

Congressman Rowland Should Not be Returned to Washington.

Charles H. Rowland, of Philipsburg, was elected to represent this District in Congress in 1914. He is now a candidate for re-election. At the time he first ran for the office he was known only as a very successful coal operator and a "hail fellow, well met," for Charley surely is that. Nothing was known of his ability as a Legislator, but the voters took a chance and sent him to Washington as their Representative.

It is different now. Charley is still a very successful coal operator and a "hail fellow, well met," but he has been tried as a Congressman and proven a failure. He had no latent legislative ability and is no more today than he was in 1914 when the voters of this District took a chance and elected him.

During a session of Congress that will go down in history as one freighted with more momentous problems than any other since the foundation of our government Congressman Rowland has had opportunity after opportunity to show to the people of the Twenty-first district that he is something more than a successful coal operator and "hail fellow, well met." He has failed, utterly, to do a single thing that would indicate that he regards the duty of representing nearly two hundred thousand human beings in the great law making body of the land as a serious matter.

Times like we have been passing through the last two years and times that we are likely to pass through during the coming two years are times when broad minded, deep thinking men are needed in the halls of Congress. This is no time to send men there merely because they have been successful in business and are good fellows.

Either Mr. Rowland is too busy making money out of his vast coal operations, or too busy entertaining his friends to be mindful of the duties he was sent to Washington to perform for his record reveals the startling fact that out of the 130 roll calls during the session in which he sat as our Congressman he was either absent or failed to vote 77 times.

It is hard to understand such a record. It is hard to understand how a man who in private life is so genuinely considerate of his fellows could become just the reverse when the opportunity to do big things for them presented itself.

He voted against the President on the McLemore resolution when more than half of his fellow Republican members voted with the President.

He didn't vote on the Keating Child labor bill that will emancipate the little folks of the land and conserve the health and minds of the future citizens of our country.

He didn't vote when the chance came to make it possible for his constituents to send larger parcel post packages through the mails.

He didn't vote when that pernicious proposition to make government employees work longer hours for the same pay was up.

He didn't vote when the President was trying to prevent the industrial paralysis of the country by averting a great rail-road strike.

He didn't vote when the bill was before Congress to provide compensation for the families of injured federal employees.

He didn't vote on the immigration bill.

He didn't vote on the resolution for the relief of families of drafted militiamen.

And when it came time to help every farmer in the land, through the passage of the Rural Credits Bill, he was "paired against", which means that if he had been present he would have voted against that splendid measure and against every farmer who is compelled to borrow money.

These are only a few of the many measures in which every one of his constituents had a vital personal interest. These were the humanitarian bills presented in the Congress in which Mr. Rowland sat and yet he was either absent or voted "No" on every one of them.

He can't deny this, nor can he explain it to those who took the chance two years ago and elected him as an unknown quantity in affairs of state.

The people of this District can take no more chances, for Mr. Rowland is either too busy making money out of his coal mines or he is not serious enough to be their Congressman. To represent two hundred thousand people requires time and thought, neither one of which Mr. Rowland seems to have found it convenient to give. His record proves that he has had little conception of what he was sent to Washington to do and since he has regarded the duty imposed upon him so lightly the voters of the Twenty-first district should look to a man who will, really and diligently represent them, and that man is William E. Tobias, of Clearfield.

Accepts Call to Parkersburg.

Rev. William Potter VanTries has resigned his pastorate of the Broad Avenue Presbyterian church in Altoona to accept a call from the congregation of the Parkersburg Presbyterian church, in Chester county. Rev. VanTries preached his farewell sermon on Sunday evening and will preach his first sermon at Parkersburg on November 4th. On the same day Rev. R. M. Campbell, of Pennsylvania Furnace, will preach in the Broad Avenue church, Altoona, and declare the pulpit vacant.

The call to the Parkersburg church came to Rev. VanTries unsolicited. While spending his vacation at his wife's home near Philadelphia last summer he preached one sermon in the Parkersburg church, but not as a candidate. When the congregation of the latter church decided to elect a pastor about two weeks ago they communicated with Rev. VanTries and urged him to allow the use of his name. He finally consented to do so, and, although there were fourteen candidates for the vacancy Rev. VanTries was unanimously chosen. Parkersburg is a city of 10,000 inhabitants, and is close to Berwyn, Mrs. VanTries' old home.

Should Command Attention.

"The Girl Without a Chance" which comes to Garman's on Monday evening, October 30th, is said to be a play of unusual interest in every particular. The story pictures in the first act a little home in Italy, which is visited by a couple of American tourists. The girl becomes infatuated with one of them which results in her downfall. The American deserts her and returns to his own country where twenty years afterward he comes in contact with a daughter of his unfortunate victim. There is a vein of humor running all through it serving excellently to relieve the intensity of the dramatic situation.

A Big Football Game.

A wonderful treat is in store for football enthusiasts. The big day in athletic life for Bellefonte and Centre county sports will be tomorrow at 3 p. m., on Hughes field when the strong aggregation of football stars on the University of Pittsburgh Freshmen team, representing the leading schools in the country, will meet the Academy in perhaps the hardest and most exciting gridiron battle ever staged in Bellefonte. The "Pitt" boys have been thoroughly trained by Glen Warner, the famous Carlisle Indian coach, and will put up a spectacular game.

The Academy eleven this year is perhaps the cleverest combination that has fought for the "gold and blue" for many years, and expects to defeat the older and more seasoned players from the "Smoky City." That spirit of the local boys means a thrilling game for the spectators. The game will last the regulation hour of four 15 minute quarters.

When a young man he located in Clearfield and embarked in the mercantile business in which he was fairly successful. He acquired a wide acquaintanceship among residents of Clearfield county which resulted in his being twice elected as prothonotary of the county and later county commissioner. He was probably one of the best known men in that county.

Surviving him are his wife, who before her marriage was Miss Ada Albert, and two children, Donald, of Clearfield and Mrs. Vincent Rhea, of Scranton. He also leaves one brother and three sisters, namely: John, at Woodland; Mrs. W. H. Cronister and Mrs. Harry Laird, of Martha Furnace, and Miss Mollie, of Tyrone. Musser, of Pennsylvania Furnace. She also survives with six children. She also leaves eight brothers and sisters. The funeral was held on Friday morning, burial being made in the Grandview cemetery, Tyrone.

BLAIR.—Darius Garfield Blair, of Tyrone, died at the Altoona hospital at ten o'clock on Monday evening following an operation for intestinal trouble. Most of his life was spent in Centre county but three years ago he moved to Tyrone and since then had been employed at the paper mill in that place.

Teachers' Institute Will Open November 13th.

The seventieth annual session of the teachers' institute of Centre county will be held in the court house, Bellefonte, the week beginning November 13th. County superintendent David O. Etters is arranging for a good corps of instructors notwithstanding the fact that two of the men who were originally booked to be here have sent word that they will be unable to come to Bellefonte at that time. Charles "Pickie" Snyder, who was Auditor General of Pennsylvania, is a fine story teller, but other accomplishments are necessary to so high a post and he didn't show any of them when he was speaking to the voters of Centre county Tuesday evening.

A Serious Shooting Accident.

Addison Sones, of Julian, is in the Bellefonte hospital with a bullet wound through his body just above the heart, and that he is living today is due to the fact that miraculous as it may seem, the bullet did not penetrate any vital spot. Mr. Sones was shot by his cousin, Miles Brooks, of Winburne, in mistake for a turkey while the two men were hunting on the William S. Miller farm near Julian last Saturday morning, and it is the first serious shooting that has occurred in this county since the opening of the hunting season.

Sones and Brooks started out to hunt turkeys early Saturday morning and when they got in the Miller field Sones sat down in some high weeds to watch for the turkeys. Brooks had taken another direction and was coming around the field when he espied Sones in the weeds and took him for a turkey. He at once pulled up his rifle and shot. At the crack of the gun Sones sprang to his feet then fell to the ground. Realizing what he had done Brooks ran to the wounded man's side and called for his father, Mr. Musser Sones, who was not far away and between them they carried him to the Miller home and sent a hurry message for Dr. Irwin.

He responded promptly and after dressing the wound ordered the man brought to the Bellefonte hospital, which was done. His condition at first seemed quite critical but at this writing he is getting along as well as can be expected and if no complications set in has a splendid chance to recover.

Sones is a woodsman by occupation, twenty-eight years old and has a wife and two children. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Musser Sones and has lived at Julian all his life. Brooks was just 276 steps away from Sones when he fired the shot. He had a high-powered rifle and used a sharp-nosed bullet. Had it been a flat-nosed bullet the result might have been much more tragic. As it is Brooks is almost over the affair and says he will never again go to the woods to hunt.

A Big Flock of Wild Turkeys.

Notwithstanding the fact that a large number of wild turkeys have been killed in Centre county since the opening of the season there are still quite a number roaming the mountains, game for any hunter who can match them in cunning. Especially is this the case of the eastern end of Nittany mountain, according to the story told the writer this week.

Our information is in effect that the Sunday before the opening of the season a flock of wild turkeys came down off of Nittany mountain into a field near Spayd's gap and it was so large that the farmer and his wife had trouble counting the turkeys. In fact they disagreed in their tally, she counting seventy-five while he got but seventy-four. Even the latter number makes a right good sized flock of wild turkeys, and up to this writing only four turkeys have been killed in that vicinity, so that there are still seventy or seventy-one left.

Among the successful Spring Mills hunters were Harry Weaver, who got a wild turkey, three pheasants and two gray squirrels; ex-sheeriff A. B. Lee a turkey, two pheasants and three gray squirrels, and H. I. Brian and Rev. Luther Miller each a turkey.

Judge Henry C. Quigley returned home last Thursday from Dick Quigley's hunting camp on the North Fork of the Susquehanna with seventeen pheasants and five woodcock. There were five or six in the party and in two days they got forty-four pheasants.

While hunting in the Snow Shoe region last week Supt. J. K. Johnston of Tyrone, had the good luck to kill a black bear which dressed 150 pounds, the first bear killed in Centre county this season.

Among the hunters in Centre county last week were two women from Windber, who made their headquarters at the Hoover home on Muncy mountain. On the first day of the season the younger of the women had a splendid chance at a big turkey, only about fifteen steps distant, but she had a new gun and had forgotten how to fire it, and by the time she got on to the manipulation of it the turkey was gone. Unfortunately our informant was not close enough to hear what she said.

Joseph Thall came home on Monday evening with a nice fat turkey and four gray squirrels he got in the woods back of the penitentiary peach orchard.

Spurred on by the memory of the defeat suffered at the hands of Swarthmore the week previous the University of Pennsylvania football team played with such a desperation last Saturday that they defeated Penn State by the score of 15 to 0. Fullback Berry, who only recently returned from El Paso, Tex., scored 12 of the U. P.'s points and to him is due most of the credit of the victory.
