

Mrs. Armor in Bellefonte.
A splendid representative audience filled the scenic theatre last Wednesday evening to listen to an eloquent address by Mrs. Mary Harris Armor, of Georgia.

Many automobile parties came from neighboring towns, and notwithstanding the big Democratic rally in the court house many men were attracted to the theatre to listen to the greatest woman orator known today.

Mrs. Armor's rapid and forceful flow of words has caused her to be rightly termed the "Georgia Cyclone." She held her hearer's rapt attention for nearly two hours. Her subject was temperance.

She took up the arguments most used by the liquor interests against prohibition and with sound reasoning, good logic, together with data and figures showed her audience how fallacious these arguments are.

For example: Much stress has been laid upon the revenue derived from the sale of alcoholic liquors. This appeals to many persons who forget to figure out where this revenue comes from, namely, their own pockets. "If a man takes out of one pocket and puts it in another is he any the richer?" asked Mrs. Armor. A very small percentage of the money invested in liquor goes into the treasury.

The liquor interests and saloon get the bulk of it; the consumer gets an empty pocket-book and all the attendant misery with drink—too often a lost body, mind and soul. When the revenue argument is put forth by the liquor interests they neglect to mention the gross expense of maintaining almshouse, jails and insane asylums, also of the courts in trying criminal cases—at least seventy per cent. of which are directly traceable to the liquor traffic.

She dwelt at length and with sound good sense on the time-worn argument of "Personal Liberty," showing that the people enjoy civil liberty under the protection of the law—where the law is removed there is no protection and no liberty. The effect of the saloon is lawbreaking in every form. Mrs. Armor ridiculed the argument advanced by the Republican candidate for the Legislature in this district, that hotels must have liquor license in order to do business, referring her hearers to the magnificent "Hall" hotels at Atlantic City, strictly temperance houses, where even the use of liquor in cooking is debarred, to say nothing of the flourishing hotels where she had stopped in California and other wet States.

She also spoke of Georgia and the other eighteen dry States where thousands of temperance hotels, with first-class cuisine and service do good business, in many instances better than before the States went dry. The improved financial condition of the dry States was spoken of, with figures showing the marvelous increase in the peoples' savings after liquor was banished from their territory.

Mrs. Armor said she believed in nation-wide, state-wide, county-wide and town-wide. She has little patience with the man who claims to endorse prohibition but cannot work for state-wide prohibition because he believes in nation-wide; or can't do anything to help along county-wide prohibition because he wants state-wide. "Hit the serpent wherever he sticks his head up," said she, "hit him every time." "We all want nation-wide prohibition, but will work for any kind of prohibition until we get it."

She showed that the loss of life through this world's war—as appalling as it is—would not compare with the loss of life and efficiency through the ravages of rum. Many phases of the liquor question were so efficiently handled by Mrs. Armor that the large audience could not control its enthusiasm, but frequently broke out in applause. ***

Mrs. Jean Kane Foulke, of West Chester, Pa., will speak in the auditorium of the High school on Monday evening, October 30th, at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Foulke belongs to the Department of Agriculture and to the Bureau of Farmer's Institutes, and is a recognized authority in her department. She will speak on "Sanitation of Home Economics," a subject with which she is mightily conversant. She is an interesting and forceful speaker and should be welcomed by a large audience. Since the subject should appeal to everybody, the Woman's Club urges both men and women to be present.

GOODHART—BLAUGH.—A quiet wedding was celebrated in the parlors of the Franklin street Methodist church, Johnstown, last Saturday evening, when Ralph S. Goodhart, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Goodhart, of Millheim, was united in marriage to Miss Della Blough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Blough, of Johnstown. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Walter E. Burnett, in the presence of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. Mr. and Mrs. Goodhart are now on a wedding trip and will be at home in Johnstown after November first, Mr. Goodhart being an accountant in the drawing room of the Johnstown wire mill.

KUDLICH—BOYLE.—Herbert Heinrich Kudlich, of Palmerton, and Miss Alice Kathryn Boyle, of Hazleton, were married in St. Gabriel's church, Hazleton, at three o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, October 4th, by Rev. Father Fagan. The young couple were attended by Miss Sarah Boyle as bridesmaid and Dr. James Miunley as best man, while Genevieve and Anita Boyle acted as flower girls. The bride is a daughter of Hon. P. F. Boyle, of Hazleton, and is quite well known in Bellefonte and at State College, both she and her husband having attended that institution. They will reside at Palmerton.

JOHNSON—WOODS.—Irvin Johnson, of Crafton, and Miss Rose Woods, of Boalsburg, were married at the home of the bride on Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock. Only a few intimate friends were present to witness the ceremony which was performed by Rev. L. V. Barber, of Lemont. Following a wedding dinner Mr. and Mrs. Johnson motored to Bellefonte and left on the 8.30 train for a brief wedding trip before going to their home at Crafton. The bride has many friends in Harris township who wish her many years of a happy, married life.

ILLINGWORTH—DAVIS.—Rev. Ralph Illingworth, who has been pastor of the Presbyterian church at Burnham until he resigned two weeks ago to accept a call to Petersburg, Ohio, surprised his many friends by the announcement of his marriage at Coatesville, on Thursday of last week, to Miss Belle Davis, of Burnham. The ceremony took place at the First Presbyterian church, of Coatesville. Rev. and Mrs. Illingworth will take a brief wedding trip then go direct to his new charge at Petersburg, Ohio.

Maid to Order.
It is a well known theatrical belief that one song can make a play. In "Maid to Order," the rapid-fire comedy with music, which the Castle Producing Company, (Inc.) will present at Garman's Saturday, October 28th, matinee and evening, there are at least a dozen distinctive hints, including the various types of musical numbers that are popular at the present time. "Mary Ann Montague," "A Little Girl Like Me," "Oh! Happy Day," "Movie Mag," "Traveling Uncle Tom," "U. S. Regiment," "Love's Wireless," "Perooza" and "The Burble Bee's Heart" are a few of the songs that are destined to be sung and whistled all over the country. Rose Botti, who will take the part of Molly Brooks in the play, began her stage career only ten years ago. During her early "teens" she attracted the attention of Henry W. Savage, who engaged her for "The Prince of Pilsen," after hearing her sing at a recital given by her teacher. Her voice coupled with an inborn dramatic ability, won for her immediate recognition from the theatre-going public and she rose rapidly to a position of prominence among the best known prima donnas on the American stage. Her work is such that all music lovers should hear her.

Two Movings.
Mr. and Mrs. Roy Yarnell have rented the furnished home of Mrs. D. W. Denius, on west Bishop street, and will take possession on November first to remain during the winter. J. W. Herron, superintendent at the western penitentiary, has leased the home of Lew Wallace, on east Curtin street and will occupy the same after the Wallace family leave for Akron Ohio, about the first of the month.
