American. Miss Chapliski, during her two years of service with the commission, has succeeded in getting evidence against violators of the food laws when men agents failed. She is a fair mark for his deception, the dealer thinks, because she dresses like the poorest and has every appearance of being a woman who is spending her last dime. She bought compounds of grease for lard; goat meat for mutton; milk well mixed with water; decayed beef, moldy biscuits and numberless other rotten food products. By playing the part herself, she has permitted the unscrupulous dealer to dupe her just as he does his poorest customers, and later he learns to his regret that the shabby little woman who asked for half a pound of the cheapest kind of butter was in reality a State agent.

Anna Chapliski learned long ago that adulterated food is sold to peo-The youngsters of the community are all enjoying a pleasant week of vacation, while their teachers are at the annual adulteration. She also found out that men making purchases are seldom made the victim of the storekeeper's and Mary Stover were pleasantly enter- trickery.

Every day, with a market basket on her arm, Miss Chapliski makes a round of stores. When she has the basket full of assorted groceries and meats, she does not go home, but takes her purchases to Chemist La-Wall, who makes analyses for the State Dairy and Food Department. Prosecutions are then brought against any of the dealers who sold food that was not up to the legal requirements. The vast difference that clothes make in the personal appearance was brought out sharply in court recently when one of the dealers testified that he had never seen Agent Chapliski before and swore that he had never sold her anything. He was found guilty, and although he paid a fine of $50, Miss Chapliski bought another sample of food in his store three weeks later and secured a second con-viction. Woman Fixes Food The Youth's Companion Calendar for 1917.

> The publishers of the "Youth's Com-panion" are presenting, as always at this season, to every subscriber whose subscription is paid for 1917, a calendar for the new year. It is decidedly unusual, and strikingly artistic. The colors are well chosen and richly blended. It was made primarily however, for actual use, and is well named the Practical Home Calendar.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA, THE ience gained by 12 years at the GREAT PURIFIER, CLEANS-

ES THE BLOOD. There are many things learned from experience and observation that the older generation should impress upon the younger. Among the n is the fact that scrofula and other hu-mors, which may be either inherited or acquired, and which produce ecze-ma, boils, pimples and other eruptions, can be most successfully treated with Hood's Sarsaparilla. This great medicine is a peculian combination of remarkably effective blood-purifying and health-giving roots, barks and herbs, which are gathered especially for it. Just remember that this pure, safe and effective remedy has been tested for forty years.
