Higgins, left end, has been elected captain of the State College football team for 1917. In arranging the schedule for next year the most important change will be the dropping of the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia and the taking of Dartmouth, the agreement for the latter having already been signed.

Centre county friends of Daniel C. Keller, of Phoenixville, Pa., will regret to learn that he was stricken with paralysis last week and that his entire side has been rendered helpless. Mr. Keller was born and raised in Pennsylvan and served one term as treasurer of Centre county. Since moving to Phoenixville he has been conducting a large dairy farm.

Newton Haupt has decided to close his home on Pine street, store his furniture and tomorrow will leave with his wife and four young children for Harrisburg where they will spend the winter with their daughter, Mrs. Edward Latham and family. Mr. Haupt has been troubled with rheumatism of late and he hopes that the few months change will do him good.

The gentleman who is at the head of the United States weather bureau at Washington is some correct prognosticator. In his report sent out last Saturday on the weather for this week he predicted snow for Tuesday with continued cold, and snow it did. In fact it was the first real wintry-like snow of the season. He also said it would be warmer today and tomorrow and now it is up to him to make good.

Postmaster Robert M. Foster, of State College, received information last week that $25,000 is the amount to be appropriated at this session of Congress with which to start the new federal post-office building at State College. Owing to the fact that the site has been located and paid for, all buildings removed and the sub-soil investigated he believes that the new building will be started on or about March 1st, 1917.

Rhoads & Knisely shipped their concrete machinery to Hyde City on Saturday and on Monday Gehret & Lambert shipped their contractor's outfit of tools, etc., to the same place, the men going over on Tuesday morning to begin work on the rebuilding of the old and dilapidated Hyde City steel mills. The contract undertaken by both firms is quite large and will take them well along into next year to complete, if the weather is such that they can work during the winter.

Christmas shopping is taking up a lot of time just now, but the scenic continues a good drawing card for all those who delight in a good program of motion pictures. And it is a good relaxation from the trouble and worries of selecting suitable Christmas remembrances that can be had within the means of one's purse this year. The scenic not only makes you forget but long for the next evening's program and two more hours of interesting entertainment.

An item is now going the rounds of the country press that the largest dining hall in the United States is the one recently completed at the new western penitentiary in Centre county. Its normal seating capacity is three thousand and persons but in a pinch it can seat thirty-five hundred. It is built of reinforced concrete and thoroughly equipped in every way. It might also be stated that the men who eat in the dining room are always punctual at their meals and the same faces are to be seen there every day.

Two More Soldiers Will Soon Come Home.

Sergt. Saxion and Bugler Snyder the Fortunate Ones. Other News of Interest to Centre County People.

BY FREDERICK YEAGER.

Camp Thomas J. Stewart, El Paso, Texas, December 9.

On leaving for home Corporal Cohen left me the duty of writing a letter each week to the "Watchman." He also left me under a severe handicap, for his letters were all so interesting, that my poor efforts will appear dry in comparison. However, I will do my best to let the people at home know what their boys are doing on the border.

When Sergeant Fromm and Corporal Cohen boarded the train last Monday afternoon for home, we gave them quite a send off. We draped their trunks with American flags and accompanied by the music of Don Snyder's bugle we marched over to the train. Everything went all right until Don struck up "Home, Sweet Home." It is not exaggerating in the least to say that most of the boys had to turn their heads, trying to hide the mist in their eyes. But let's talk about something more cheerful.

Last Sunday K. T. (Dukie) Gummo and B. A. (Red) McMurtrie took a trip to Jaurez, Mexico, to see the races. While there they were stricken with the betting fever, returning with wonderful tales of their coup. But, when asked to produce, they sorrowfully told us that they had lost all in an attempt to "break the bank."

On Monday morning, after drill, Capt. Curtin had the troop assemble on the parade grounds for a picture. It turned out very good, and as soon as they are finished—and we get a pay day, I will send one to the "Watchman."

To tell the truth, drilling was becoming rather monotonous until Wednesday, when we were given something entirely new. It is dismounted saber drill and in the short space of a few days we have fast become quite proficient swordsmen. Later on we will have the same drill mounted, our targets being dummies stuffed with sawdust. When one stops to think of the purpose of our drills, they take on a rather gruesome aspect.

An El Pasonian will tell you that the only ones who forecast the weather here are newcomers or fools. It strikes me that they are about right. For a few days last week, and Monday and Tuesday of this, the weather was very pleasant, reminding one of our "Indian Summer" back home, while now it has grown very cold again. I guess the only reason we have no snow is because the clouds are lacking, although we did have a slight hail storm yesterday.

Tomorrow, (Saturday) we will have another field inspection, carrying equipment A. To your readers equipment A means little or nothing, but to us, it means everything we own, from toothbrush up. About the only thing we don't take along is our cot. However disagreeable such inspections are to us, they are making real soldiers out of all. I think that the National Guard has earned the right to discard the name "tin soldiers."

Tomorrow afternoon we receive our last inoculation for typhus fever. Just one more injection of several millions of "bugs" and we are through with that—for awhile. There is not a man in our troop who would not willingly trade his millions of "bugs" for an equal amount of dimes, or pennies, for that matter.

In the absence of Sergeant Fromm Harry Whiteman has been detailed to act as mess sergeant. It goes without saying that we will be well fed. When anyone asks what we are going to have for mess, the reply invariably is, "Leave it to Harry."

Each morning when we hear the familiar cry "El Paso Morning Times, Paper! Read about it! Paper gen' men?" we dig down in our jeans, providing we have a nickel, and after buying a paper, eagerly scan every page to find out if we have been fortunate enough to be put on the "going home list." As yet our search has been in vain—but we still have hopes. The 18th Regiment of Pennsylvania has been ordered home, together with several regiments or parts of regiments from several States. All the men in our regiment heartily agree with Capt. Reypert Hughes in his article "The Crisis in the National Guard," Colliers, issue of December ninth. It is our earnest desire that everyone interested in the troops on the border read that article, for it vividly portrays the conditions here. No, I am not an agent for Colliers.

Our horses are much more comfortable at night, for we have been issued stable blankets. While they are not wool, they are made of heavy duck, and I imagine our horses feel very grateful. They, also, are a great help to us, for they make grooming much easier.

The period of enlistment of two of our men runs out next week and they expect to leave Tuesday. First Sergeant Saxion and Bugler Snyder are the lucky ones.

We will, indeed, miss our first sergeant. I have not been long in the Guard, but even with my short experience I would say that the entire Guard would not hold a more efficient or respected first sergeant. A strict disciplinarian, an excellent drillmaster—in a word, a soldier. It is partly due to his untiring effort that Troop L has received a high rating. You may be sure we will all miss our "Taps" and may he have every success possible in Bellefonte, is the desire of every member of our Troop.

Lights out just sounded so I must close. The boys all unite in sending their best wishes to all your readers and may we all be home to wish you a Merry X-mas.

—Late buyers of millinery should see Miss Cooney's reduced hats; everything in her shop is to be sold at cost. 49-1t

—If you are stout see Mrs. M. C. Gephart's lingerie for stout people and if you want a better figure wear her Bonnier or La Greque Corset. Nothing can surpass them. 49-1t

—Mrs. Edward Waite deserves the sympathy of all Bellefonte because in addition to mourning the death of her husband her little son Robert is now seriously ill with diphtheria. Yesterday afternoon, we are glad to say, the boy was resting a little more comfortably.

—County Commissioner Isaac Miller was taken sick last week while out with the Gentzel hunting party in the Green woods, Clearfield county, and was compelled to come home. When he left the camp the party had no deer, though every man had had a shot or two and missed.

—The big steam whistle which was used at the Scotia ore mines years ago will be put on the Sterling boiler at the steam heat works within a few days and when you hear it morning, noon and night don't think there's a fire. The whistle, however, will sound the fire alarm whenever there is a fire.

Another Bellefonte Fire. About 5:20 o'clock on Tuesday morning fire was discovered in the stable of the American Lime & Stone company, at the Sunnyside plant, and before the flames could be checked the stable was entirely destroyed, the blacksmith shop was partially burned and one or two small buildings were reduced to ashes. The stock in the stable was all gotten safely out but the hay and feed were all consumed. The origin of the fire is unknown, but might have been from crossed wires. The property was insured. The fire, by the way, made a brilliant light and looked quite dangerous for a time, but after the firemen got there they soon had it under control. Both fire bells, locomotive whistles, etc., were utilized to give the alarm and at that lots of people in Bellefonte did not know there was a fire until hours after it was over.

Another Electrocution. Joseph W. O'Brien, of Montgomery county, was electrocuted at the penitentiary at Rockview on Monday morning. Attended by Father McArdle he went to the death chair at 7:05. Five contacts were given and at 7:10 O'Brien was pronounced dead by Dr. Robert J. Campbell. The body was claimed by the man's sister, Mrs. O'Connors and was shipped to Norristown for burial. O'Brien, who was forty-three years old, was convicted of the murder of Israel Goldman, a twelve year old Hebrew boy of Philadelphia, at the Whitmarsh golf grounds over two years ago. He went to his death without making any statement. He was the eighteenth man to go to the chair since electrocution was made the death penalty in Pennsylvania. Two men who were sentenced to electrocution had their sentence commuted to imprisonment for life and one man died before the date for his electrocution.

Board of Trade Nominated Officers. A meeting of the Bellefonte Board of Trade was held in the hall of the public building on Monday evening for the purpose of nominating officers for the ensuing year. The only new nomination was that of Col. W. Fred Reynolds for president in place of J. Linn Harris. The old officers who were renominated are vice president, Robert F. Hunter; secretary, W. T. Kelly, and treasurer, Charles M. McCurdy.

The Board also authorized the president, J. Linn Harris, to make a trip to Franklin, Pa., and consult attorneys regarding what prospect the Board of Trade might have in collecting the sum of $1,200 which the organization had to pay to secure a clear title to the old glass works meadow site. One of the principal men who started the organization of the Bellefonte Six Automobile company in the summer of 1913 was E. Bleakley, of Franklin. One of the demands made was that Bellefonte furnish a site for the plant. The Board of Trade took the matter in hand and through voluntary contributions money was raised to purchase the glass works site. Before deeding it to the automobile company the Board of Trade exacted a promise from Mr. Bleakley, who had been elected president of the company, that in the event of the company failing to erect buildings on the site he was at once to re-deed the land back to the Board of Trade.

When the Bellefonte Six bubble burst Mr. Bleakley failed to do this and the company having contracted obligations suit was brought and a judgment aggregating $1,200 was obtained which, in the natural course of legal events, was entered against the only tangible thing, the glass works meadow. Then in order to obtain title to the property the Board of Trade was compelled to pay the judgment and costs. And it is to ascertain if this amount is collectable from Mr. Bleakley that Mr. Harris will make the trip to Franklin.

Squire Bullock Sentenced to Pay a Fine of $1,000 and Six Months in Jail.

Squire L. C. Bullock, of State College, who last week pleaded guilty to six true bills of indictment charging him with the illegal sale of liquor within the borough of State College, was sentenced by Judge Quigley on Monday morning to pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of $1,000 and undergo imprisonment in the county jail for a period of six months, and to stand committed until the sentence is complied with. He was at once taken to jail to begin his sentence.

When the case was called for disposal by district attorney James C. Furst Mr. Bullock's attorney, W. D. Zerby Esq., addressed the court in his behalf. He stated that Mr. Bullock had pleaded guilty to the six indictments and thus saved the county the costs of one or more trials, which in itself should be a plea for leniency. He further stated that while Mr. Bullock had done what was not right he was not the only one who thus broke the law at State College. He further stated that Mr. Bullock's trouble had been the means of him starting to lead a better life and that he believed he was sincere in his declaration to live an upright life in the future.

Before sentencing Mr. Bullock Judge Quigley told him that it was a very unpleasant and painful duty for him to perform. That he was one of the first clients he had had as a law student and he had known him very well ever since. He told him that he knew of his many good qualities but that there had always been some inner promptings that led him to do things that were not right. Referring to the case in issue he told him that the one place in the whole State of Pennsylvania that is protected by the laws of the Commonwealth against the sale of liquor is State College, as no liquor can be legally sold there or within a radius of four miles of the town. That this was not only done to protect the two thousand and more young men who go there as students, but to preserve the good organization that has been built up there in the cause of education. Judge Quigley further stated that in the eyes of the court his crime was greater than it would have been if committed by the ordinary citizen, because he was clothed with the official power of a justice of the peace and ought therefore to have preserved the law from being outraged instead of becoming a law-breaker himself.

He then stated that the court could impose sentence on all of the six indictments, but he would impose sentence on only one, and suspend sentence upon the other five. And in so doing he did not intend to hold the suspended sentences as a club over his head because he had faith enough in the good part of him to believe that having served his sentence he would renounce all bad ways and live the kind of a life that society should expect from a man of his learning and ability. However, if after he did serve his sentence he would revert to some of the things he had done in the past the court would exercise its right to call him up and sentence him on the other five indictments. The court then pronounced the sentence given above.

The six indictments to which Mr. Bullock pleaded guilty merely charged him with the illegal sale of liquor at State College, going back over a period of two years.

The only evidence that was heard anywhere in the case was before the grand jury and that was not revealed to the public, but it must at least have been of a convincing nature in order that that body returned true bills, to which Mr. Bullock later pleaded guilty. Mr. Bullock later pleaded guilty. Mr. Bullock had been a justice of the peace at State College about eight months, having been appointed last spring by Governor Brumbaugh as successor to Henry Woome, resigned. Through his action he would have voluntarily forfeited his commission as justice of the peace but to avoid this he two weeks or more ago sent his resignation to Governor Brumbaugh with a request that it be promptly accepted.

Court Cullings. Only two cases were on trial in court this week. The first was that of Austin and Mary Walker vs. Edward and Eva M. Heaton, an action in trespass to settle the title to a roadway. At the conclusion of the plaintiff's testimony the court granted a compulsory non-suit, subject to a question of law reserved.

The case of Calvin S. Garbrick vs. A. S. McNitt was settled out of court. The other case tried was that of Pearl C. Gray vs. The P. R. R. Co., an action in trespass to recover damages for land taken for a right-of-way. The case went to the jury yesterday morning and a verdict of $974.81 was returned in favor of the plaintiff.

To join next week in the donation for Mrs. Risk and her seven small children, will be the real charity for persons in this community at Christmas time. We would recall to your mind the sudden death in May of this year, of Mr. Risk at Pleasant Gap and that of her son Joseph, who was killed two weeks ago, at Milton, leaving her without means of support and practically destitute, this in addition to illness makes the case one which should appeal to everyone at this season. Food stuffs especially are wanted. Anything from a pound of sugar taken to the lecture room of the Methodist church Friday and Saturday of next week, will help in this offering to a suffering family that has never before asked aid of the public.
