A Tragic Death.

Mrs. Annie E. Crapo, of Harbor Springs, Michigan, sister of Chauncey F. York, of Detroit, but formerly of Warriorsmark, met with a tragic death.

On Thursday afternoon, February first, Mrs. Crapo's dress caught fire from the heating stove. After a vain attempt to smother the flames she rushed into the kitchen and called her husband, who was out in the woodshed splitting wood. When he hastily arrived in the kitchen Mrs. Crapo was entirely enveloped in flames which extended nearly to the ceiling.

Mrs. Crapo was carefully laid on a lounge and covered with a blanket, when she directed Mr. Crapo to alarm the neighbors and run over a mile for a doctor. She soon observed a volume of smoke coming from the kitchen and on investigation discovered the carpet and table cloth to be in flames which she succeeded in extinguishing before the neighbors arrived.

She realized, as did the doctor and all other observers, that there could be but one end and yet she bore all her suffering without complaint and in a christian spirit, patience and fortitude. Her mind was clear until the end so that she could converse with her husband, brother, sister and many friends.

The ladies of the Mite society of the M. E. church did a noble and heroic service in caring for Mrs. Crapo. Early on Wednesday evening, February seventh, Mrs. Crapo was mercifully relieved of all her suffering forever. For many years she was a consistent member of the Methodist Episcopal church and so lived the christian life that she was able to go through fire down to the valley of death in a glorious triumph.

Mrs. Crapo's Sunday school class, the Ladies Mite society and many friends covered her casket with white carnations and other beautiful flowers. She was interred in the cemetery on the commanding terraced hills above Harbor Springs.

A New Definition for the Word Natural.

Spelling class was up in Miss Nannie Delaney's school in Milesburg the other day and the word "natural" had "stumped" one of the little folks. The teacher asked her if she knew what it meant. Not receiving a reply the teacher thought to give her a cue and asked if she knew the meaning of "artificial."

The little scholar was as much at sea as ever when a hand shot up in another part of the room where a little voice piped out: "I know what Natural means Miss Nannie." The volunteer was then asked to define "Natural" and she said: "Its what we look like when we're dead."

Haven't you just seen that youngster full of wide-eyed curiosity at a funeral and drinking in every word she heard when nine out of every ten grownups who were at that funeral were saying: "How natural he looks?"

There are some children in Bellefonte who are contracting the habit of pilfering things from the counters in the stores of Bellefonte, and it is a habit that should not be allowed to grow. The writer knows of several stores where boxes of small articles have been rifled of half their contents, while in some cases boxes have been emptied. Of course the articles were of no great value but it ruined the box for sale to a customer.

The proprietors of the stores referred to have a pretty fair idea as to who some of the children are, but it is not their intention to prosecute or do anything to punish them. But this item is published in the hope that parents who find their children with something in their possession that is new or strange should compel them to tell where they got it. It is not right to the child to allow it to cultivate the habit of such petty pilfering.

Benjamin Gentzel was last week appointed stable boss at the new penitentiary to take the place left vacant by the sudden and mysterious disappearance of William Sayers, of Mt. Eagle. No trace of the latter has yet been found.

The managers of the Bellefonte hospital have sent out an urgent appeal for financial assistance. The annual appropriation of $6,000 received from the State is not nearly sufficient to support the institution as the needs of the public demand. To insure proper support there ought to be pledges of the payment of a stipulated amount, either quarterly, every six months or yearly, by all who can afford to do so. No one need be afraid of over-giving as the hospital is in need of every cent it can get.

Hubby Didn't Send Ticket; Gets Divorce.

The following item is reprinted from yesterday's Altoona "Times": Judge Thomas J. Baldrige yesterday signed a decree of divorce in the case of Mrs. Helen C. Struble against her husband, Leland Struble. The divorce was recommended by W. H. Eridenbaugh, master, on the grounds of desertion and cruel and barbarous treatment. The Strubles were married at Akron, Ohio, on July 20, 1914, and separated two days later. Struble now resides at Laramie, Wyoming.

Mrs. Struble declared that she was afraid of her husband and married him because he forced her to do so. She met him in Akron by appointment and after they had been married, he informed her that he had neither position or cash. She came to her home in this city and he went to Wyoming. He kept telling her that he would send for her, but the cash for carfare never came; on the contrary, however, he frequently asked her for money. Under the terms of the divorce both Struble and his wife are permitted to remarry.

County Sunday School Workers. It is desired that each of the twelve districts get their officers and workers together in a conference to plan for a district convention and reorganization during the month just prior to the holding of the county convention at Centre Hall, May 22nd and 23rd, 1917.

At the time of these different meetings please mail reports of same to the county secretary so proper records can be made, and he can report to the State secretary, who makes monthly requirements of the activities in the county. Then the county executive committee needs the correct list of district officers and their addresses to aid them in getting information from time to time. If the reorganization of districts are held at different times in the year, it makes it difficult to keep correct records. If programs are gotten out for the different meetings, copies of same should be sent to the county president and secretary.
