Hygiene of the Mouth—How to Help Prevent Decay of the Teeth.

E. B. M.

z—Keep your hands and finger nails clean.

—Always wash your hands before eating or handling food.

—Keep your fingers out of your mouth; also money, pencils and everything else except what belongs there.

Has it ever occurred to those who have the pernicious habit of holding money between their teeth, through how many unclean hands it may have passed before reaching them?

By washing, it is not meant that the hands are sterile, as sterilization is accomplished only by means of disinfectants or antiseptics, but, in general, the cleaner the hands, or the less dirt, the less the probability of harmful bacteria.

The reasons for keeping the hands clean are so obvious it seems scarcely necessary to state them. For emphasis, however—

Dogs and cats have tape worms, the eggs of which are on their fur. In caressing these domestic pets, it is easily possible to get the eggs on the hands and thence into the mouth. Ninety per cent. of the inhabitants of Iceland have tape worms from living with their dogs. The "bowel" worm of children comes from dirty hands, handling decayed fruit.

It is not out of place to here repeat the caution against eating raw or partly cooked beef and pork as, from the former, comes the beef tape worm, from the latter, the pork tape worm.

Tubercle bacilli have survived in the centre of a rolled-roast not thoroughly cooked. They were doubtless on the hands of the person handling the meat and in the rolling were turned to the centre, the heat being insufficient to destroy them.

CARE OF THE TEETH.

in the making of health is of paramount importance for the following reasons:

First, the foundation of a healthy body is proper food well digested; the first step in digestion is mastication and mastication depends upon the teeth.

Second, a diseased or decayed tooth, apart from the pain, impaired digestion, loss of sleep and consequent reaction upon the entire system, may contain pathogenic bacteria, ready to invade the system and cause disease as soon as there is lowered resistance and easily transmitted to the mouth of others. Many tubercle bacilli have been found in the cavity of a decayed tooth. The possible relation of abscessed teeth to obscure diseases of the system has recently been pointed out by research of the Nat. Dental Association.

What would seem the most cogent reason is that nothing adds more to the personal appearance than fine, well kept teeth and nothing detracts more than diseased, neglected teeth.

HOW TO CARE FOR THE TEETH

Bacteria plus food cause decay. Remnants of food between the teeth should be removed with a quill toothpick or dental floss; use nothing that will scratch or injure the enamel.

Brush the teeth carefully after each meal or, at least, after breakfast and before retiring for the night. In brushing, avoid bruising the gums.

The brush must be kept clean as a dirty, "soggy" brush does more harm than good. Wash it thoroughly after using and as a precautionary measure, dip in a mild antiseptic solution and place where it will be free from dust and dry. As it is difficult to keep the brush dry, it is best to have two; use one a few times, disinfect and put aside to dry while using the other. Do not economize in the matter of a tooth brush, but discard as soon as the bristles are worn or softened. Many people require a fresh brush every month.

The selection of a dental cream or mouth wash is best left to the dentist. Gritty pastes and powders accelerate erosion of the teeth; acids are harmful. Avoid both. An acid reaction of the mouth may be determined by means of litmus paper.

While preservative not germicidal, a warm solution of baking powder (soda bicarbonate) or table salt is cleansing and will aid in keeping the mouth in good condition. The main objects to be obtained in care of the teeth are thus seen to be—

- (1) To cleanse the mouth and teeth from food.
 - (2) To destroy bacteria or inhibit their growth.
 - (3) To clean the teeth without erosion.
 - (4) To avoid injury to the gums.
 - (5) To prevent an acid reaction.
- Do not brush the teeth over the basin in which another person must bathe. There is a law now forbidding it in certain places and it will doubtless soon become universal. Every well-equipped bath room should have, in addition to the regular basin, a second, smaller one with running water over which the toilet of the mouth may be made. With a little ingenuity, at slight cost, conveniences may be provided in every household that will promote and make easy hygienic habits.

The teeth should be examined by a dentist at least every three months, or, if the slightest trace of decay appears between times, it should be attended to at once.

Patronize only the dentist who is known to be well-qualified, for there are careless and incompetent dentists just as there are careless and incompetent physicians and health is too precious to be lightly entrusted to the inefficient. The dentist should be a person of careful habits and should practise methods of asepsis beyond criticism. Instruments and other apparatus used in the mouth should be sterile. Disease-producing microorganisms may be easily transferred on instruments from the mouth of one patient to that of another and it is quite possible that some of the infections of the teeth are attributable to improper dental methods. It is not unusual to see a dentist gather up a number of instruments wash them under the faucet and replace on the table ready for use on another victim. The tumbler, used for rinsing the mouth, and other apparatus is cleaned in the same way. What a travesty on aseptics!

The early care of the teeth cannot be too strongly urged upon parents for irreparable damage is often done before a child is old enough to, itself, care for the teeth or is taken to the dentist.

It is to be deplored that many must go through life maimed, disfigured and humiliated because of this early and wholly unpardonable neglect. The formation of cavities, abscessed teeth, the necessity for artificial teeth, with their accompanying disorders can be prevented. It is to be hoped the time will soon come when parents, physicians and dentists will make concerted effort to prevent these misfortunes and, when culpable, will be discredited and held properly responsible for them.

(The next (twelfth) article in the series will be "Bad Teeth.")

There was a surprise party at Charley Fromm's Saturday night. A good load of young folks from Mt. Eagle were the very welcome and jolly guests. Two very popular young men appeared with a Ford car during the evening and persuaded two of the fair ones to motor home, rather than return in the sled.

On Wednesday evening of last week William Cross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus Cross, of Spring township, took a jolly load of Spring township young people on a sled ride to Mt. Eagle where they were royally entertained at the home of Miss Bertha Bitner. In the party were Wilma Sayers, Bertha Bitner, Claire Thompson, Gertrude Leathers, Rue Leathers, Nancy McCartney, Mrs. Blair Kunes, Marchie Jodon, Adaline Jodon, Adaline Hunter, Mary Fromm, Helen Rar, Anna Heverley, Orville Stover, Marie Cunningham, Vista Weaver, Bertha Weaver, Anna Eckenroth, Roy Leathers, Wilbur Bitner, Oliver Bitner, Lloyd McCartney, Leonard Dietz, Walter Sayers, Ralph Miller, Paul Miller, Clair Gfrerer, Edward Gfrerer, Harry Sampsel, Lyman Fromm, Timothy Rar, Ralph Markle, Nerr Weaver and William Cross.

Mr. and Mrs. Lattimer Billet are grieving over the death of their infant son, Miles, who died Wednesday night, of pneumonia. They have the sympathy of the community.

The venerable Amos Garbrick celebrated his eightieth birthday on Wednesday. Several of his soldier comrades and many relatives were there to help eat the big dinner prepared for this occasion. May he live to enjoy many more birthdays is the wish of his many friends.

THE WAR STORM CLOUD BECOMES MORE OMINOUS.

Will the Sinking of Another American Ship Constitute the "Overt Act?"

The sinking of the American ship Lyman M. Law, in the Mediterranean sea, on Monday, notwithstanding the fact that she carried no contraband of war and was bound for a neutral country, is one more act that will have to be accounted for by the Central Powers. Germany denies liability and lays the blame to an Austrian submarine. So far the Austrian government has said nothing and President Wilson will take no action until all the facts have been received. The one mitigating fact in connection with the sinking of the ship is that no lives were lost.

Aside from the sinking of the Lyman M. Law nothing has occurred during the past week that brings us any nearer war than we were ten days ago. Ambassador Gerard and all the American consuls are now safely out of Germany and Count von Bernstorff and party left New York on Wednesday evening on their trip home, being given absolute protection from the time they left Washington until safely on board the ship. What will now follow remains to be seen and will depend entirely on the deliberate acts of Germany and her allied powers.

American Vessel Sunk.

London, Feb. 14.—The American schooner Lyman M. Law was sunk by a submarine Monday, according to a dispatch from the Stefani Agency, of Rome. The crew, including eight Americans, is reported to have been landed.

The Lyman M. Law, 1300 tons gross and 211 feet long, was built in 1890 at West Haven, Conn. She was formerly owned by the Benedict-Manson Marine company, of New Haven, Conn., which sold her a year ago to New York interests represented by the Maratime Transportation company. Her captain was S. N. McDonough, of Winterport, Me.

The F. D. Lambert, a British steamship of 2105 tons gross, was sunk last night by a German submarine, according to a notice posted at Lloyd's Shipping Agency today. Four members of the crew escaped in the port lifeboat and are believed safe. The rest of the crew were landed today.

Two British trawlers also have been sunk and the British steamer Bayreuth has been posted at Lloyd's as missing. The Bayreuth which left Cardiff October 20 last for Montreal, was a vessel of 3009 tons gross, 325 feet long, and built at West Hartlepool in 1895. It is announced that the British steamer Inishowen Head has been sunk. Her crew was landed.

While naval officers here express the belief that the submarine operations may continue at high tension for a couple of months, they show the utmost confidence in the ability of the navy to cope with the latest campaign with approximately the same success as the campaign against the U-boats in 1915.

An Admiralty official showed today the figures of arrivals and departures for yesterday at English ports, proving that a larger number of vessels entered and departed than on any day during the past six months. Taking a day at random during the period since the latest war zone was declared, out of 140 British arrivals and departures only four vessels were sunk, and these figures, according to the official, give an excellent idea of the percentage of loss to vessels taking the risks.

In the English Channel, where British communications are most vital, the Admiralty official says the losses have been extraordinarily small at a time when more ships than usual are being routed through the Channel.

An Amsterdam dispatch to Reuter's says that an obviously inspired article has been published in a majority of the German papers dealing with the convoy of neutral ships through the barred zone. The article says that, convoyed or not, merchantmen in the restricted region will be exposed to all the possibilities of intensified submarine warfare. It adds that submarines would not attack neutral war vessels acting as convoys, but that such vessels would enter the prohibited zone at their own risk, in view of the danger from mines.

President Wilson Stands Firm.

Washington, Feb. 13.—President Wilson continues firm in his attitude toward Germany. He has informed the imperial government that the United States will not discuss the submarine question in any way, shape or form so long as the present program of ruthlessness is continued.

When the Kaiser and his advisors see fit to restore their Sussex pledges and recall the submarine policy opened February 1, then and only then will the United States parley with Germany. The sinking of neutral ships without warning and with the loss of life will not be countenanced if the Teuton government desires intercourse with America.

The United States recognizes in the German overtures a ruse to gain time. But President Wilson, so Washington dispatches say, is not being misled. He is not, and shows that he has no intention of going back on his words as expressed to Congress, when he gave notice that diplomatic relations with Germany had been broken.

Cost of War to Germany.

London, Feb. 14.—Germany's war costs to date have reached $15,000,000,000, says a telegram from Berlin forwarded by the Amsterdam correspondent of Reuter's Telegram company.

Boroughs Attack P. S. C.

Harrisburg, Feb. 14.—Charges that the Public Service Commission proposed rather than regulated public service companies were made tonight by Burgess J. Elmer Saul, of Norris-town, at the convention of representatives of some 200 boroughs of the State. Saul declared that in the history of the Commission never one decision favorable to the boroughs has been handed down. He said that it was wrong for the Commission to surround itself with regulations that compelled a borough to spend $15,000 to have its side of the case heard.

Other speakers criticized the Service Commission, and Deputy Attorney General H. W. Davis, citing recent opinions, made a warm defense in its behalf.

The convention is meeting for discussion of proposed legislation for the benefit of the smaller municipalities and will ask consideration by the General Assembly of bills to permit a greater measure of home rule. The Third Class City Leaguers will ask the same privilege and a committee of the two organizations will meet here tomorrow.

Among the propositions discussed were means to take care of unsecured debts of boroughs, for development of parks and playgrounds, bathing facilities and public band concerts; for smoke regulation; trees; for uniform traffic regulations; for numbering of buildings and for appropriations to libraries. Pay for councilmen was also discussed.

Plans were made for meeting Legislators to talk over proposed bills, including removal of State tax on bonds of municipalities.

Germany Threatens All Neutral Ships.

London, Feb. 13.—Germany has issued a warning that all periods of grace for neutral shipping in the barred zones have expired, according to dispatches from Amsterdam today.

An official statement has been issued warning neutrals that hereafter all neutral ships entering the forbidden zones do so at their own risk. It is believed that Germany will now pursue her relentless U-boat warfare to the full limit, sinking all vessels bound for England without warning and regardless of the provisions heretofore held sacred by civilized nations as international law, to which Germany, in common with other great powers, is sacredly pledged.

Immunity for neutral ships, it is announced, expired last night for the zone in the English channel and in the Atlantic ocean around the British Isles. Germany denies that neutral ships sunk previous to this time had not been accorded ample warning by German submarine commanders before being sent to the bottom.

The statement further adds that the period of grace had been extended also to enemy passenger lines, as it was thought neutral citizens may have sailed upon them prior to the announcement by Germany of the U-boat policy.

Cuban President to Quell Revolt.

Havana, Feb. 13.—President Menocal has just issued a decree, authorizing a call for volunteers between the ages of 18 and 45 years to serve for a period of ninety days. It is rumored that the former President, Gen. Jose Miguel Gomez, has landed at Camaguey and that Lieutenant Colonel Quinones, commander of the Camaguey forces, has revolted with all his men.

Official announcement was made here today that the United States Government has offered 5,000 rifles and 5,000,000 cartridges to the Cuban Government. An encounter has occurred in Matanzas Province between Government troops and rebels. According to a report received here today, the rebels were defeated. The rebel troops were led by Mayor Gonzalez of the town of Santo Domingo, Santo Clara Province. A police official was taken prisoner.

It is reported from Manzanillo, Santiago de Cuba Province, that the police and police court officials have been arrested. Col. Miguel Lores, a veteran of the War of Independence, has been captured near Pinar del Rio. It is reported that rebels, believed to be under command of Col. Baldomero Acosta, Mayor of Marianno, who were attacked by rurales this morning, escaped in the direction of Canas, 40 miles from Havana. Later the rebels came in contact with army forces and fighting is reported to be now going on.

Mexicans Raid American Ranch.

El Paso, Texas, February 13.—Armed Mexicans crossed the border sixty miles southwest of Hachita, N. M., today and took prisoner three Mormons, a number of Mexican ranch hands and live stock, according to a telegram today from Hachita.

The message was received from Bob Morehead, foreman of the Alamo Heuco ranch, saying "the corner ranch" which is on the American side of the line, was raided by the Mexicans. Two Mexican families were forced to accompany the bandits, it was said, in addition to the ranch hands, according to the telegram.

Private advices late tonight say that three Mormons were killed and another taken prisoner.

Athletics Profitable According to Report.

Athletics have been profitable at Penn State during the past year. A financial statement issued by R. H. Smith, graduate manager, shows a gain of $3,939.45 for the year 1915-16. Football and baseball were the money-making branches of major sports. The track account shows a deficit of less than $500. The total income from all sports was $36,147.76 and the expense was $32,208.31. Of this amount football brought in $21,829.60 and entailed an expenditure of $17,833.63. Baseball netted a profit of more than $1,100. The athletic association has a surplus of $10,000.
