McAllister Scholarships.
McAllister scholarships at the Pennsylvania State College will be awarded this year to students from Columbia, Mifflin, Perry, Wyoming and Centre counties. These five counties show the highest ratio of students enrolled to the total population of the county. High school principals will conduct competitive examinations to select candidates for the scholarships. The candidates will be tested in United States history, civil government, algebra to quadratics, plane geometry, English grammar and English classics. The scholarships were established by Dr. and Mrs. T. R. Hayes, of Bellefonte, and are worth $90 in cash. They are valid for one year, beginning next September. Examinations will be held and the appointments made before June 1st.

BIRTHS.
Dr. and Mrs. Wilbur D. Twitmore, of Lancaster, have another little son, the third in their family, who arrived last Wednesday. The doctor is a son of W. T. Twitmore, of this place and his wife was formerly Miss Elizabeth Fryberger, a daughter of Capt. and Mrs. C. T. Fryberger, of Phillipsburg.

A little daughter was born Friday, February 23rd, to Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Hoy, of New York city. The child has been named Nettette Louise Hoy. Sarah F. Undercoffer is the name of the daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Undercoffer, of Wilkesburg, a week ago. Mr. Undercoffer is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Undercoffer, of Bellefonte.

COLEVILLE.

John Breen, from Zion, spent Sunday with his niece, Mrs. Floyd Davis. We see a few robins—harbingers of spring—are here with us. We hope they stay.
Miss Mary Gardner, from Howard, was a week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McMurtrie.
William Billet, Edward Purdie, Clarence Tate and Harry Garbrick are jurors this week at court.
Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rider and son, from Bush's Addition, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Clay Rider.
We see so many young lady shoppers at Garbrick's store. George Kellerman is the pleasing new clerk.
Willard Eminhizer returned from Canton, Ohio. He has a good position there and is after his family.
John Poorman is suffering with a mangled finger. He got caught between the cars at his work in the quarry.
Mr. and Mrs. John Davis Jr. have had a siege of sickness this winter. Their little son Thurman now has pneumonia.
Mrs. Homer Zeigler with her little daughter Harriet, from Clearfield, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Hollabaugh.
Little DeSales Crawford, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Crawford, has been suffering with an attack of croup the past week.

FIRST FATAL WRECK IN YEARS ON THE PENNA. R. R.

Nineteen Persons Killed in a Rear-end Collision at Mt. Union. Whole Family Wiped Out.

The Pennsylvania Railroad company suffered the first fatal wreck in several years at 12.08 o'clock Tuesday morning when Mercantile Express, train No. 6, leaving Altoona at 10.35 o'clock was run into by a fast preference freight at the Mt. Union station. Nineteen people were instantly killed and several injured. The list of killed is as follows:

Chester A. Minds, Ramey, Pa., coal operator.
Mrs. Chester A. Minds, wife of the coal operator.
Owen Minds, aged three weeks, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Minds.
Miss Maude Minds, aged 35, sister of C. A. Minds, of Ramey.
Richard Owen, aged 7, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Minds, Ramey.
Dottie Owen, aged 6, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Minds, Ramey.
Jean Owen, aged 4, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Minds, Ramey.
M. A. Caffish, aged 20, brother of Mrs. Minds, Coulier, N. Y.
Mrs. Segur Dellinger, of Cleveland, Ohio, sister of Mrs. Minds.
Frank Landry, aged 28, 376 State street, Brooklyn, N. Y., student at St. Francis college, Loretto.
F. S. Wagner, 1327 Arch street, North Side, Pittsburgh.
Milton Hymes, 474 West One Hundred and Fifty-eighth street, New York city.
Charles Levine, 35 Nassau street, New York city.

Philip B. Pollard, 56 Lispenard street, New York city.
C. Medsker, 308 West Forty-sixth street, New York city.
Paul R. Fanning and wife, Plattsville, Wisconsin.
E. W. Montgomery, Bloomington, Ill.
Nathaniel Bright, Chicago, porter on Pullman, "Bellwood."

H. A. Reeser, Plattsville, Wis.
Mercantile Express left Altoona about on time and carried the usual number of passengers. It was hauled by engine No. 748 with J. F. Gearhart at the throttle, and B. A. Berks, as fireman. The train was in charge of Conductor W. W. Stewart, Baggage-man McAllister, and Brakemen S. K. Jacobs and M. E. Baird. It stopped at Mt. Union to take on and discharge passengers. When ready to start the trainmen discovered something wrong with the air and flagman S. K. Jacobs was sent back to flag any approaching train. His story of the accident is as follows:

"When the train stopped at Mount Union to let off passengers, I got off the rear with my lantern; receiving a signal to go ahead, I stepped back on the platform and closed the vestibule. Then I noticed there was trouble in starting the train. I climbed over the gate on the rear car and started back with my lantern. I walked fast and had gone twenty or thirty car lengths when I saw the headlight of the freight rounding the curve. I gave the red signal to stop. My lanterns were bright and I moved the red light many times. The engine-man gave no signal that he saw me. When the train came closer I realized it was too late to prevent an accident and I jumped down an embankment to save my life. The freight train was running about fifty miles an hour. It was foggy but I could see the headlight. Had the engine-man seen the signal he could have stopped in time to prevent a collision."

"After the crash the fireman on the freight engine and one of the freight brakemen told me they had called to the engine-man to stop, as a flagman had signalled. They said he gave no attention to them. They also told me that they had called the signal when their train came on the block and that the engine-man called back 'white,' meaning he had a clear track."

A committee of railroad men has been appointed to make a thorough inquiry and investigate into the causes of the wreck.

One of the most harrowing features of the wreck was the wiping out of the family of Chester Minds, who was an old U. of P. athlete, and who with his family was on his way to Ithaca, N. Y., to attend the funeral of Mrs. Minds' father. They went to Tyrone on Monday and spent the fore part of the night at the Ward house, taking berths in the Pullman car "Bellwood." This car was literally split in two and every person in it was killed instantly.

ANOTHER PENNSY WRECK.

Just two days prior to the above wreck, or early Sunday morning, an express train ploughed into a wrecked freight train near Bristol, two miles north of Philadelphia, killing four men, the fireman of the express and three horsemen of Williamsport. On the express train were two car loads of horses, one from the farm of John H. Detwiler, at Centre Hall, and the other the property of Harry Wilson, of Williamsport. Three of the horses were killed.

Young Murderers Respite.

Harrisburg, February 27.—Governor Brumbaugh today granted a respite staying the execution of Henry Ward Mottern and Ernest Haines, Jefferson county, from the week of March 5 to the week of May 7 because of appeals now pending in the courts and gave notice that further respites would be "issued from time to time in order to permit Haines and Mottern to exhaust every legal resource to avoid the death penalty."

The marriage license list, however, shows that there are still some young folks who think that two can live as cheaply as one—or who don't give such prosaic matters any thought.
