The Altoona Fair to be a Big One.

This part of Pennsylvania is at last to have an agricultural fair that will compare favorably with the best in the country, for an organization of public spirited men has revived the institution for the district and, accordingly, the Greater Blair Fair is scheduled for August 7, 8, 9, 10, at the Driving Park, Altoona.

The Greater Blair Fair has been incorporated with the other great fairs of the State, inclusive of Allentown, Reading, Lancaster, York, Hanover, and will boast the same characteristics that have made those other institutions famous. the machinery at the planing mill.

The planing mill, which has been idle for some time, has started again.

In preparation for the fair the Driving Park is being equipped with facilities that will properly accommodate the date the various features that go to the making of such an event. There are now eight or ten buildings in the various stages of construction and all will be completed some time during the present month.

Beside the more apparent improvements there will be many of the minor nature that will contribute to the comforts of the fair-goers. In point of exhibits and amusement features the Greater Blair Fair will not have an equal in this section of the country. A gigantic Midway, with twenty of the cleanest shows and riding devices, with beautiful decorative fronts; daily racing events of unusual class, excellent band music and circus vaudeville, for free attractions, will allow not a single dull moment during the entire fair. Among the more interesting of the agricultural features will be the exhibits of The State College and the Canadian Government. Both of these exhibits should attract more than passing attention owing to the fact of a supreme interest of the people in farming and farm products. Some of the interesting facts in connection with the exploitation of the new fair are that the advertising campaign will cover a district with a population of 300,000 from which it will be possible to draw; that the Fair Association has a membership of nearly one thousand and that every one of them is working whole-heartedly to accomplish the success of the new institution.

A Twice-Told Tale

ONE OF INTEREST TO OUR READERS. Good news bears repeating, and when it is confirmed after a long lapse of time, even if we hesitated to believe it at first hearing, we feel secure in accepting its truth now. following experience of a Bellefonte woman is confirmed after six years.

Mrs. J. C. Johnson, 365 E. Bishop
St., Bellefonte, says: I was a great sufferer from backache and pains across my loins and I could hardly get about the house. Dizzy spells came over me and I nearly fell. I was rest-less at night and my kidneys caused me a lot of annoyance. Two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got at Green's Pharmacy Co., did me more good than anything I had previously tried. The backache and pains disappeared and my kidneys became normal. I now feel better in every way."

College Students.

The Pennsylvania State College has been selected as one of the four institutions in this country to give stu-dents special training in stores keeping for the ordnance department of the army. A class of seventy-five young men is meeting three evenings weekly for instruction by Professor Hugo Diemer, head of the department of industrial engineering.

After eight weeks' training the most proficient men will be appointed to the Quartermasters' corps to keep records of the arms and ammunition which will be distributed in immense quantities to the army. College credit will be allowed State College students who volunteer for this kind of work, as well as to the several hundred students who have already left the classrooms and laboratories to enter military, naval and agricultural service. The call for the establishment of the stores keeping course came from the Council for National Defense. It is believed that the course will be continued all summer to instruct additional men to be sent later by the gov-ernment for this special training. University of Michigan, Dartmouth, and University of Pennsylvania are other colleges asked to give similar instruction.
