TWO MEN PUT TO DEATH.

A Double Electrocution at the Rockview Penitentiary Tuesday Morning of This Week.

The Legislature having defeated the bill to abolish capital punishment a double electrocution took place at the Rockview penitentiary on Tuesday morning. John Nelson, a negro, was named Sigler in Wyoming county in umbus, Ohio. October, 1915, and Patrick Callery was electrocuted for the murder of his sister, Mrs. George Grube, in Northampton county, in April, 1916.

Accompanied by chaplain T. W. Young Nelson was taken to the chair at 7:05 and pronounced dead at 7:10 by Dr. Robert J. Campbell, after three shocks of two thousand volts. Callery was accompanied to the chair by Father O'Hanlon. The first shock was able mutton and veal. given him at 7:16 and after four contacts he was pronounced dead at 7:20 by Dr. Campbell. Nelson's remains were buried in the penitentiary cemetery but Callery's body was shipped to relatives by undertaker Naginey. The above electrocutions make twenty-two who have been put to death since the new law went into effect in Pennsylvania. They were the first men to be put to death since Jonas Probst on the morning of January 8th, all condemned men being respited by the Governor in the hope that the Legislature would pass a bill abolishing capital punishment. Failure to do this left the Governor no other course than to name dates for the electrocution of those now under sentence of death.
