

WHAT WOMEN CAN DO.

Over Two Thousand Now Employed by the P. R. R. Co.

Following the decision reached by the management of the Pennsylvania railroad, last spring, to open avenues of employment for women and girls, in as many lines of work as possible, more than two thousand have entered the service of the line east of Pittsburgh and Erie, in the operating department alone. The total number of girls and women at present working in the operating department is 2,360, and the greater part of these have been employed in the last two months.

Among the forms of railroad service now being performed by women, to which more than ordinary interest attaches, are the following:

Seventy-one signal women are at work, and six signal women are on the payrolls; there are four women locomotive dispatchers, 19 station cleaners, 206 car cleaners, two draughtswomen, 104 messengers, 20 student-messengers, 10 extra-messengers, 23 station agents, 1 ticket seller, 3 bureau of information attendants, 1 pump attendant, 42 block operators, 2 machine hands, 5 street watchwomen, 5 upholsters, 1 parcel room attendant, 12 drawbridge tenders and 18 store attendants.

In the lines of work more customarily followed by women there are 433 telephone and private branch exchange operators, 84 matrons, 29 janitresses, 2 stewardesses, 78 stenographers, 1102 clerks and 1 cook.

The announcement that the Pennsylvania railroad proposed to employ women on a large scale was made May 1st, 1917. At that time practically the only women in the service, on the lines east of Pittsburgh, were a few station agents, telegraph and telephone operators, etc., and a limited number of women clerks who had been experimentally employed in one of the large departments in Broad Street station, Philadelphia.

The general superintendents of the various grand divisions were directed by the general manager early in the spring, to make a special study of the possibilities of general employment for women, on all portions of the railroad, and to ascertain especially whether or not they could be efficiently used in such forms of service as light machine shop work, telegraphy, telephony, train dispatching, ticket selling, car cleaning, etc. The employment, at the present time, of 2,360 women and girls, at diversified forms of work in the operating department of the railroad, is the result of that investigation.

Outside of the operating department, women and girls have also been freely taken on, since the new policy went into effect. A compilation of the total number in all departments, and on all divisions of the railroad, is now under way.

Exemption Boards Must Hurry Draft.

Washington, D. C., July 30.—Prompt and efficient work by district exemption boards is expected by government officials as a result of stripping all red tape from the procedure of the tribunals. President Wilson's executive order outlining the principles to govern exemptions, coupled with instructions to the board in Provost Marshal General Crowder, are regarded here as setting in motion the last phase of the selection process with a momentum that insures a minimum of confusion and delay.

The object of instructions is to impress the boards with the view that their primary purpose is to select the personnel for the national army from the great reservoir of registered men in the shortest possible time. To that end they have been informed that no legal precedents bind them and that there need be no adherence to rules of evidence or other technicalities of court procedure.

Attorney General Gregory set in motion today further machinery to increase the size of the registration reservoir from which the 687,000 men of the first call are to be drawn. Thousands of men failed to register, it has been found, for one cause or another. Through the district attorneys, the department of justice is rounding up these men and when found they will be assigned numbers which will insure their being called up for examination at an early date. They will be given the serial numbers of men near the top of the list already permanently discharged for physical reasons.

The first reports of the local boards on physical examinations are beginning to appear. As yet, however, they are not complete enough to make any logical deductions to the probable average of rejection for this reason. The draft statistics of the Civil war, which showed between 25 and 30 per cent. rejected on this ground, still are the best guide on the question. Such figures as have come from the local boards are in general harmony with the old average.

The average of rejections on physical grounds in regular army recruiting has been far higher, but conditions are entirely different with the selective draft forces.

In many districts where examinations are proceeding a large number of men have asked for affidavit blanks on which to submit applications for exemption because of dependent families. This is no criterion on the exemptions to be granted, however, as each case must be considered on its merits.

HEAR QUOTA COMPLAINTS.

Harrisburg, Pa., July 30.—Lieut. Col. E. A. Kregar, of the United States army sat today with Col. Frank E. Sweeney in hearing complaints about quotas under the draft and it was announced that no credits would be allowed for enlistments on reserves.

Col. Sweeney announced tonight that the quotas furnished could be used until revised quotas were supplied. These figures he added, would hold good until a man was actually called to the colors. The national guard credits are now being checked up and will be ready in a few days. Col. Sweeney also said that boards should apply to mayors and sheriffs, not to the draft headquarters here, for filing cases and other paraphernalia.

HORSE NOT YET ABANDONED

No Tractor Has Yet Proved Itself Equal to Animals in Handling of Light Batteries in Action.

According to a statement by the war department, the forecast frequently ventured, that horses are to be displaced by tractors in our light field artillery is not yet justified. Experiments now being made with motorized batteries are apparently proving successful only with heavier types.

The motorized light battery would be ideal, of course, says the Providence Journal. Good horses are scarce, their upkeep is costly, they can be worked only a limited number of hours on a stretch, their care requires the services of soldiers who could be valuably employed otherwise, and the animal casualties in war appeal to human sympathy as well as occasioning a heavy burden of expense.

For the horse or the mule in the transport service the motor is readily substituted. But it appears that no machine has yet proved itself equal to animal power for bringing a light battery into action, or "saving the guns," under conditions that often exist. In a parade over a highway the motor would serve, but for pulling power in mud, for a dash over a rough field, a plunge to the selected firing position, or quick unlimbering for action, which may be a maneuver of seconds, no tractor yet invented approaches the mobility of the trained battery horse. And mobility is the life of the light battery.

HAS HIS GARDEN IN BARREL

Los Angeles Man, With Small Backyard, Concocts Idea for a Unique Strawberry Patch.

A Los Angeles man whose backyard was too small for growing strawberries, conceived a clever idea, which is described in Popular Mechanics.

He made a strawberry patch out of a barrel. Holes about 12 inches apart were bored in rows in its sides. Several tin cans with perforated bottoms were piled one on the other in the center of the barrel and enough dirt was thrown about them to fill the receptacle up to the first row of holes.

After the dirt had settled sufficiently strawberries were planted in the holes and allowed to hang outside. This process was repeated until the barrel was full and vines had been set in all the holes and on the top.

As the soil was added, cans were piled up through the center to provide an irrigation passageway. A hole was bored in the side near the bottom to allow water to drain off.

Using Old Tin Cans.

We used to have some thrifty foreign neighbors who always used their tin cans several times over, says the Syracuse Post-Standard. In opening a No. 3 tomato or other can, place the can bottom upward and lay a big, very hot coal on the central circle or cap. In a minute remove the coal, remove the contents of the can immediately, wash, dry thoroughly and store in a dry place, saving the little circular tin centers for use again. When it is wished to use the can again in preserving tomatoes, berries or other foods, proceed as with a new tin can. If one is at all handy with the soldering iron the can is resoldered with no trouble at all. Never put tomato or acid fruits in any but tomato or berry cans, as such have been specially treated to withstand the action of the acids. Corn, peas, beans, etc., can be put in used tin cans in which such vegetables came, if they were opened properly. Try your hand first at opening and resoldering any old tin can. The work is very easily done.

War Reduces Insanity.

War as a palliative of insanity is a theory unfamiliar to most people, but we have no reason to doubt the conclusions of Doctor Oswald of the Glasgow Lunatic asylum on the matter, says the London Globe. One phase of the subject is instructive and significant. This is "the removal of the powerful effect of poverty on the mind and its replacement by the higher standards of living and remunerative employment." Poverty and unemployment are thus by medical testimony more fertile causes of insanity than war. That is a lesson to be borne in mind when the war is over.

Danger of Sleeves and Ties.

Although time and again workmen have been warned regarding the danger of loose clothing when working around machinery, it appears that many of them persist in ignoring the danger. As a result 986 workmen were killed in the United States by being drawn into the wheels of machinery or thrown to death when parts of their clothing became caught in rotating members. Loose sleeves and neckties are prolific sources of danger, and should not be tolerated for a single moment by the careful worker.—Scientific American.

Not Much to Ask.

The landlady bustled up to her new lodger as he came down to breakfast the first morning.

"Good morning, sir," she wheezed.

"Good morning," said the lodger.

"I hope you've had a good night's rest," said the landlady.

"No," said the mild-mannered little man. "Your cat kept me awake."

"Oh," said the landlady, tossing her head. "I suppose you're going to ask me to have the poor thing killed."

"N-no, not exactly," said the gentle lodger. "But would you very much mind having it tuned?"

Senate Passes Prohibition Resolution.

Washington, D. C., August 1.—A resolution for submission to the States of a prohibition amendment to the federal constitution was adopted late today by the Senate. The vote was 65 to 20, eight more than the necessary two-thirds.

As adopted the resolution contains a provision that the States must be asked to ratify the amendment within six years. The House still must act on the resolution.

No Selfish Purpose.

From the New York American.

If it is commendable for our nation to be in this war without selfish purposes, it is desirable for other nations to be in it with purposes as unselfish and as altruistic as our own. And surely it is desired and commendable for citizens of any country, and above all, of this free country, to urge the "peace without victory," which our President himself but lately urged, the peace without annexation or indemnity, which the Russian democrats demand. We Americans will fight, determinedly, desperately, heroically, as long as we honorably must, but our purpose in war should be peace; peace without aggression or aggrandizement, peace for our own people and for all mankind.
