FIRST SNOW OF THE SEASON. Wednesday's Weather Was a Record Breaker for This Time of Year.

While "the oldest citizen" might recall something similar the average person admits that Wednesday's weather was a record breaker. Rain began falling early Tuesday night and later it turned to sleet and snow and Wednesday morning residents of Bellefonte were treated to a sight of white-capped mountains in the neighborhood of Point McCoy. But Bellefonte was not to be compared to other places in the county.

Out at Snow Shoe the ground was covered to a depth of three inches and notwithstanding the fact that it was but the 24th day of October snow shovels were called into use to shovel the snow from the pavements. Up at Benore and through the Barrens there was an inch and a half to two inches of snow.

Rain and snow fell intermittently all day on Wednesday and out beyond Clarence it reached a depth of seven inches and a bunch of mining engineers from State College, who were out there opening up a mine for Charles Reese had to quit work and come home for heavier clothing.

A terrific storm swept over State College about five o'clock in the evening when the snow fell so fast that it was almost impossible to see around, and a depth of four inches was recorded. Through all the mountainous sections of the central part of the State snow-falls of various depths were reported.

Of course most of it melted as it fell in the valleys but all the mountains were covered with a mantle of white yesterday morning, but it melted away during the day with the slight moderation of temperature which followed the stormy period.

Four Men Sent to the Penitentiary. In an open session of court on Monday morning four men pleaded guilty to various crimes and were sentenced to the penitentiary by Judge Henry C. Quigley.

The men were James Hand and Harry Meese, of Sandy Ridge, charged with the robbery of Stuart's store. The sentence imposed on both was for a term of not less than three years nor more than five.

Robert Brown, colored, charged with larceny and who a few weeks ago had been paroled in the custody of Charles Morris, then broke his parole, was given a sentence of from one to two years.

The fourth man sentenced was David Hummel, one of the prisoners who escaped from the penitentiary last Thursday afternoon on the Bald Eagle mountain south of Unionville by J. C. Fox, a school teacher, and H. I. Stere. Fox had gone hunting on the mountain and discovered Hummel and Peter Hartman the other escaped prisoner in an old cabin, where they had built a fire to warm up at. Fox was a little apprehensive of tackling the prisoners alone so went back to Unionville and telephoned the penitentiary as to the whereabouts of the prisoners. He then induced H. I. Stere to go with him and the two men went back up the mountain to the cabin.

Approaching the cabin Fox called to the men to come out and they did so. Hummel began to parley with the men to leave them go and while doing so Hartman edged around the cabin and made a break for liberty. He ran into a wire fence and Fox called to him to stop but he did not heed the command. Freeing himself from the fence Hartman made another dash and escaped in the underbrush. Fox and Stere took Hummel down to the main road where they were met by penitentiary guards who brought Hummel to the Centre county jail.

On Monday morning he pleaded guilty to escape and was sentenced to serve out his old term and an additional term of equal length, which is from one year and two months to one year and four months.

The four men were taken to Pittsburgh on Tuesday morning by Sheriff George H. Yarnell, chief of police Harry Dukeman, Horace W. Musser and H. W. Irvin.

Women Engaged in Selling Liberty Bonds.

Suffragists throughout the county are working under a Woman's committee to sell Liberty Bonds.

You can help in this work by taking bonds yourself, by trying to influence others to take them, and by helping the wage worker to buy on the installment plan, or better, by lending the money to be repaid to you over a longer period than the banks allow.

Whatever work you do will you kindly report it to me, as we are anxious to know what suffragists contribute to this part of the war work.

Opening Day of Hunting Season Yielded Poor Returns.

Notwithstanding the fact that conditions were quite favorable the opening day of the hunting season yielded poor returns to those who braved the damp woods and fields. In fact the writer does not recall an opening day in years when so few squirrel and pheasants were bagged and brought to Bellefonte. So far as we have been able to learn just one squirrel and one wild duck were exhibited on the streets of Bellefonte last Saturday evening and the man who had those was a stranger.

Down Hubersburg way a few squirrel were bagged, the most successful hunter being Fred Yarnell, a son of Sheriff Yarnell. Out in the Snow Shoe region very few hunters were out for the opening day and in consequence little game was gotten. The Snow Shoe crowd, however, went into camp on Monday and when they return home will likely have their share of the game in the woods.

Reports from all over the county concur in the fact that squirrel are very scarce so far, due no doubt to the short crop of nuts. Of course, being of a migratory nature they may become more plentiful later. It is quite evident, though, that pheasants are not as plentiful as they should be for good hunting. The wet, cold season early in the summer was evidently hard on the young birds and the crop has been, in consequence, smaller than usual, so that the hunter who is able to get his limit in a day will be lucky indeed.

State College Announces Annual Farmers' Week.

The Pennsylvania State College school of agriculture and experiment station calls attention to its annual Farmers' week which this year will cover a period of four days, from Wednesday, December 26th, to Saturday, December 29th, inclusive.

Programs will probably be ready for distribution early in November.

—To see him going so diligently about his work of raising trout at the Bellefonte fish hatchery one would not take W. F. Haas with being overburdened with a saving grace of humor, yet when a Bellefonte young man asked him on Monday why he had boards over the fish ponds he told him "for the fish to get under when it rains," and the Bellefonte young man is still wondering if he was in earnest.

Crandell—Foster.—The wedding of John S. Crandell, of New York city, and Miss Kathryn Foster, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip D. Foster, of State College, which took place in the Presbyterian church at State College at six o'clock last Wednesday evening, was quite a brilliant social event. Many invitations had been issued and a large congregation witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by the bride's pastor, Rev. Samuel Martin. Miss Foster, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white charmeuse beaded in pearls, with a flowing veil of tulle fastened with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Her maid of honor was her sister, Miss Helen Foster, and her bridesmaids Miss Elizabeth Foster, of State College, and Mrs. Fred J. Holben, of Harrisburg. They were dressed in autumn-colored gowns and carried bouquets of tea roses. The best man was Dr. Horace G. Keith, of Yonkers, N. Y. The fact that the brother of the bride as well as all her male cousins have been summoned for service was excuse for having a "war wedding" and the ushers were four young lady friends of the bride, namely: Misses Juliet Grazer, Ruth Meek and Mary Lytle, of State College, and Mary Warfield, of Bellefonte, all of whom were dressed in pure white.

In keeping with the patriotic spirit of the wedding a large American flag furnished the centre of decorations in the church which were of spruce, rhododendron and autumn leaves. Similar decorations prevailed at the house where a reception was tendered the young couple immediately following the ceremony. About one hundred and fifty guests attended the reception and refreshments were served by caterer Achenbach, of Lock Haven. The musical program at the church was very elaborate and included a wedding march specially written by Victor Lecoq, an intimate friend of the bridegroom.

Mr. Crandell was formerly assistant professor of civil engineering at the college but is now consulting engineer for the Barrett company in New York city where they will make their home upon return from their wedding trip which will include a visit to Camp Grant, Ill., to see the bride's brother, Harold D. Foster, who is now in an officers' training camp at that place.

Many out of town guests were present including those from Bellefonte: Mrs. G. Fred Musser, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hazel and Mr. and Mrs. J. Will Conley.

Flagg-Swope—A wedding that will be of interest to many readers of the "Watchman" was that of Harold Vincent Flagg, of State College, and Miss Frances Margaret Swope, of Caldwell, Clinton county, the ceremony taking place at three o'clock on Tuesday afternoon at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Scott Williams, in Lock Haven. The officiating minister was Rev. Mr. Brucke, of the Lutheran church, the double ring service being used. The only guests present were members of the two families.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bell Swope and is a graduate nurse of the Bellefonte hospital, class of 1912. After her graduation she spent some time in Bellefonte on private cases. The bridegroom is a son of Mrs. Eva Flagg, of State College, but formerly of Oil City. He graduated in metallurgical engineering at the college in the class of 1915 and since then has held a good position in one of the steel mills at Youngstown, Ohio. The young couple left for that city on Wednesday where they will live until Mr. Flagg, who is one of the registrants for the national army, is called for service.

Johnson—Dinges.—On Tuesday afternoon Theodore A. Johnson and Miss Ethel E. Dinges, both of Peale, came to Bellefonte and securing a marriage license at the Register's office telephoned Rev. Walter Fay Carson that they wanted to be married in the court house. That gentleman quickly responded and Register Frank Sasserman escorted the pair to the library, while most of the officials in the court house gathered as witnesses. The bride donned a large veil and Rev. Carson soon made the two man and wife.

While Rev. Carson was making out the marriage certificate the young ladies employed in the court house secured a supply of tin horns and as the couple descended the rear stairway and started out through the corridor they gave them a real, old-fashioned serenade, much to the discomfiture of the bride. The bridegroom, however, took the affair good naturedly and gave the young ladies a dollar with which to buy candy. And not to be outdone by the bridegroom Rev. Carson also gave the ladies a dollar for more candy.

Wetzel, was united in marriage to Thomas Farrow, of Algonquin, W. Va. Only a few intimate friends were present to witness the ceremony which took place at two o'clock and which was performed by Rev. Dr. Ambrose M. Schmidt. Preceding the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at eleven o'clock. Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Farrow left for their already furnished home in Algonquin. During the few years that the bride has been a resident of Bellefonte she made many warm personal friends and all join in wishing her years of happiness and success.
