Charles E. Gates and W. Lester Musser, two old Troop L boys, surprised their friends by coming home on Wednesday evening from Camp Hancock on a ten days' furlough.

Donald Getting, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Getting, a naval reserve stationed at Newport, has been commissioned a chief apprentice petty officer.

Gen. Clement Relieved of Command.

Camp Hancock, Augusta, Ga., Dec. 12.—Major General Charles Clement, commander of the twenty-eighth division, was today relieved of his command on account of physical disability and this afternoon left for his home at Sunbury, Pa., where he will return to civil life.

General Clement had been a member of the Pennsylvania national guard forty years. He is 62 years old.

Brigadier General Frederick W. Stillwell, commander of the fifty-fifth infantry brigade, whose home is in Scranton, Pa., assumed command today by virtue of his being the senior ranking general in the division.

General Clement will be accompanied to his home by Captain Theodore Davis Boal, his aide, who was with him on his tour to the French front. Besides Major John F. Clement, of the 11th infantry, Major Charles F. Clement, of the military police, and Lieutenant Theron B. Clement, attached to the division staff, his sons, many officers of his staff, were present to bid him farewell as the train pulled out.

Since his return to the camp he had made it a practice of touring the camp for two hours each morning and two hours each afternoon. There has been a marked change in the general attitude of the division since his arrival last week. Confidence has been restored and a fighting spirit engendered that presages a splendid course for the Pennsylvania division.

MEYERS.—J. Henry Meyers, Boalsburg's oldest citizen, passed away about 1:30 o'clock last Friday afternoon. His death was the result of a general wearing out of the system. During the past few years it was his daily custom to walk to the postoffice for his mail and there he would meet and chat with his old-time friends as well as men of younger generations. For several days prior to his death he was unable to take his accustomed walk and last Friday morning he did not venture outside the house. Toward noon he felt weary and lay down on the couch where he finally fell asleep and passed away without a tremor of pain.

Deceased was a son of George and Anna Meyers, early settlers in Lebanon county where he was born on February 21st, 1830, hence at his death had reached the advanced age of 87 years, 9 months and 16 days. When a lad three years of age his parents came to Centre county and settled at Spring Bank where he grew to manhood. Early in life he learned the milling trade in the old Meyer's mill at Linden Hall. In 1854 his father purchased a tract of land, which was then a wilderness, cleared it of trees and underbrush and brought it into a good state of cultivation. In this he was helped very much by the deceased and the result was that he became an enthusiastic tiller of the soil and when he married settled on a farm adjoining that of his father and proved very successful.

In 1903 he purchased another farm onto which he moved and where he lived until 1908 when he quit the farm and retired to a cosy home in Boalsburg.

Mr. Meyers was a member of the Reformed church and a ruling elder in the same for many years. In politics he was a staunch Democrat and so far as known never missed an election. He was a genial, whole-souled gentleman and even though he had passed the allotted age of man by almost a score of years his death is regretted by a host of friends.

On March 15th, 1865, he was united in marriage to Miss Phoebe Weber, of Boalsburg, who survives with four children, namely: Mrs. Mary Gettig, of Altoona; Mrs. William Mothersbaugh, Nevin and Edward Meyers, all of Boalsburg. Of his father's family of eight children the only survivor is W. Calvin Meyers, of State College.

Funeral services were held at his late home at two o'clock on Tuesday afternoon by his pastor, Rev. S. C. Stover, after which the remains were laid to rest in the Boalsburg cemetery.

He was taken to the hospital several weeks ago for an operation for gall stones and was recovering very nicely when heart trouble developed which resulted in his death. Had he lived until December 27th he would have been sixty years old. In early life Mr. Gray followed the occupation of a forgerman but for a number of years had been one of the brick burners at the Milesburg brick plant. He served one or two terms as constable of Boggs township.

He was united in marriage to Miss Gertrude McKinley who survives with the following children: Elizabeth, of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Frank Haldeman and Mrs. George Waite, of Renovo; Mrs. Eugene Sumpter, of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Jessie Wilcox, of Renovo; Fred, of Pittsburgh; Corp. Joseph Gray, a member of Troop I, mounted police at Camp Hancock, Ga.; J. Lingle, of Renovo; Mrs. Archie McNichol, of Bellefonte; Mrs. Fred Dyke, of Milesburg; Marjorie, Hardman and Lillie at home. He leaves one brother and two sisters, namely: Joseph, of Hayes City, Pa.; Mrs. Jacob Shirk, of Tyrone, and Mrs. William Kyper, of Johnstown.

Rev. M. C. Piper had charge of the funeral services which were held at his late home at 2:30 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, after which burial was made in the Treziyulny cemetery.

He was a son of William Garbrick and was born in Walker township. When a young man he chose teaching as a profession and followed that line of work until sixty years of age. He was a member of the Lutheran church and a consistent christian gentleman.

He was married to Miss Elizabeth Kauffman who survives with two children: Alpheus E., on the old homestead, and Mrs. Boyd A. Noll, of Zion. He also leaves three brothers and two sisters, namely: William, of Lock Haven; Joseph, of Bellefonte; Amos, of Pittsburgh; Mrs. William Showers, of Hecla Park, and Mrs. James Rote, of Coleville. Rev. W. J. Shultz will have charge of the funeral services which will be held at his late home tomorrow (Saturday) morning, burial to be made in the Zion cemetery.

Magee conducted the same from 1854 to 1858.

When the Civil war broke out in 1861 he responded to President Lincoln's first call for troops and enlisted as a member of Company D, 2nd regiment of volunteers on April 20th, 1861, for the three months' service. On October 1st, 1862, he was detailed as an acting signal officer on board the U. S. ship New Hampshire, stationed in Port Royal harbor, South Carolina. On August 31st, 1864, he was relieved of that service and commissioned as captain of Company D, 47th infantry. On March 30th, 1865, he was promoted to a major in the 47th regiment, an office he held until the close of the war.

Returning from the war he again entered the newspaper field and some years later became editor and proprietor of the Tyrone Democrat. His plant was finally destroyed by fire when he went to West Chester as editor of the Chester County Democrat. Some years later he moved to Milesburg, this county, and for several years worked on Bellefonte papers. The last few years of his life, however, were spent in Patton.

He was among the oldest Masons in the State, being a member of the New Bloomfield Lodge. He was a member of the Presbyterian church and admired by his friends for his firm orthodoxy and insistence upon the fundamental doctrines of the christian faith.

On July 15th, 1873, he was united in marriage at Landisburg, Pa., to Miss Annie Dieren, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Dieren. They had four children, three sons who died in infancy and one daughter, Elizabeth Junkin, now Mrs. Frank C. McClure, of Patton, who, with her mother, are the only survivors.

Funeral services were held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. McClure, at Patton, on Sunday evening, December 2nd, and on Monday the remains were taken to Tyrone and buried in the Grandview cemetery.

December Term of Court.

The regular term of December court convened on Monday with Judge Henry C. Quigley presiding. Various motions and petitions were disposed of after which the grand jury was called and W. A. Sickle, of Snow Shoe, appointed foreman. They were given the usual instructions and retired to take up their official work of considering the bills of indictment presented them by the district attorney.

The civil list of cases was gone over and a number were continued for various reasons. Owing to the lateness of all trains Monday afternoon court adjourned early until ten o'clock Tuesday morning.

The first case taken up Tuesday was C. Day vs. F. A. Carson, an appeal. This was an action to recover on a bill for brooms sold the defendant, the plaintiff alleging that while the bill had been paid by check the check had been returned marked "no funds." Mr. Carson's defense was that a representative of Mr. Day had called on him with the unpaid check and that he had given him the money for it. The jury, however, returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $19.76.

Kelley & Co. vs. Kelley & Nugent, an action to recover on a book account. A verdict was returned in favor of the defendants for $30.97.

Commonwealth vs. John Kachik, assault and battery. Prosecutor, Geo. Mizarek. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty but required the defendant to pay the costs.

Commonwealth vs. Dewey Hilliard, assault and battery. Prosecutor, Lloyd A. Stover. This case was from Spring township and was the result of a quarrel between children on October 27th. The jury returned a verdict of guilty.

Commonwealth vs. Robert Hilliard, assault and battery. Prosecutor, Lloyd A. Stover. This case grew out of the one above and after the defendant had testified he changed his plea from not guilty to guilty and sentence on both he and his brother was suspended upon the payment of the costs.

Commonwealth vs. William Shock, defrauding a board bill. Prosecutor, Annie Dokolosky. The case is from Rush township and the prosecutrix testified that while she was imprisoned in the county jail the defendant was ordered from the house and left without paying his board bill and this action was brought to recover same. The court ruled that under the evidence there could be no conviction and the case was dismissed and the county ordered to pay the costs.

The grand jury completed their work on Tuesday evening and were discharged after reporting that they had passed on ten bills of indictment and found four true bills and ignored six, and that they had inspected the county buildings and found the court house in good repair, and that new office is needed for the hall and office of the county jail, and recommended that a new steel partition be placed between the women's ward and the male ward, also the tearing down of the old barn and the building of a garage large enough to accommodate at least two automobiles, the old lumber being used for same if advisable.

The Commonwealth vs. Hon. H. B. Scott. The information was made by Constable Nash, of Phillipsburg, who charged our Member of the Assembly with having driven his automobile past a standing street car while it was discharging passengers, thereby endangering life and limb. The grand jury found a true bill against Representative Scott but the case was continued at the cost of the county.

Vast Army Cities Growing Up.

No less than one hundred training camps and stations and a number of aviation fields are now in full operation fitting men for the shock of battle in all ends of the service. Official information supplied to the Pennsylvania Committee of Public Safety indicates that not far from half of the total number of men training are encamped in the big National Army cantonments. In these the United States has sixteen communities which are military cities. In population two of them are as big as Lancaster.

Sixteen camps, nearly as big as the cantonments, but not built so durably, are housing the National Guard divisions. Two hundred and fifty thousand men have joined the regulars since the war broke out. There are seventeen regular army stations and camps being used for the training of these recruits.

Seventeen stations are engaged in training men for the navy, and marines are being turned out in three more. Not all the aviation fields have been finished, but in a dozen of them cool-headed young men are being taught to fight in the air.

Nine camps have just rounded off the second increment of officers for the Reserve Corps. Five medical camps are in operation, and three camps for engineers. All of the larger camps have been built in the last six months. The biggest of them, the National Army cantonments, were built in three months at a total cost of $150,000,000. Only a little over twice as much was required to build the Panama Canal—and that took ten years.

The largest of the cantonments are Camp Lewis, at American Lake, near Tacoma, Washington, and Camp Funston, at Fort Riley, Kansas. The quarters for each of these camps is about 47,000. In each camp are about 1400 buildings, lighted by over 20,000 electric lamps. It can safely be said that no large army of soldiers was ever housed so comfortably before.

There will be no freezing this winter. Four of the cantonments situated farthest north have steam heat. The rest have hot air systems.

CAPT. PIERRE de LEGARDE BOAL.

"The Roll Call in the Morning."

This one marched with Jackson and faced the foe with Lee.

This one followed Sherman as he galloped to the sea.

Now they're marching on together, united, brave and free.

And they'll answer to the roll call in the morning.

The dear old flag above them, is rippling down its red.

The true and holy emblem, of the blood by heroes shed.

It must wave victorious o'er them, or droop above them dead.

For they'll answer to the roll call in the morning.

"God bless our Union soldiers, our tars upon the sea."

And grant they win this battle to save humanity.

Christ died to make men holy, we must die to make men free.

Then answer to the roll call in the morning.

"We'll rally to this fight, and stormy day or night,

In bonds that no human fate can sever, From the palm and pine shall rise Triumphant to the skies, Our country, our country, forever.

IN THE WAR ZONE.

Germans Fail to Break the British Line. Italians Hold Fast.

The Germans following their heavy artillery preparations of recent days, have attempted to drive a wedge into the British line west of Cambrai, but although they used numerically superior forces their effort brought them only a minor gain.

The attack, launched between Bullecourt and Queant, was similar to that adopted by Crown Prince Rupprecht's troops when they pierced General Byng's front southwest of Cambrai nearly two weeks ago and caused a retirement of the British on the salient General Byng previously had driven toward Cambrai. A like purpose doubtless was involved in the latest offensive and for its execution huge waves of Bavarians were thrown upon the sector in an endeavor to overpower the defenders. The British, however, held tenaciously to their ground, except at one point, where the enemy penetrated a front line position.

BAVARIANS MOWED DOWN.

As in their previous attempt to wreck the Cambrai salient, the Germans lost heavily in the enterprise, the British mowing them down with machine gun and rifle in the fighting, which lasted from dawn until one o'clock in the afternoon. The spot chosen for the attack was similar, from a strategic standpoint, to that near Gonnelleu, where the offensive of a fortnight ago began, and had it succeeded, another retirement by the British on the Cambrai sector.

BOOMBASTMENT KEPT UP.

Notwithstanding their failure, the Germans are keeping up an intensive bombardment of British and French positions all along the western front and daily are receiving additional reinforcements in men and guns from the eastern theatre.

SNOW AIDS ITALY.

Snow is falling heavily in the mountains along the northern Italian front, and optimism prevails among the Italians that this will definitely aid them in holding the Austro-Germans back from the Italian plain. Amid the first flurries of the storm on Tuesday, the enemy resumed his attack among the hills and was rewarded by the capture of several positions.

Later, however, the Italians in a counter-attack regained their lost terrain, after which the artillery duels were resumed, but with less strength than previously had been shown.

COSSACKS ARE VICTORS.

The Cossacks under General Kaledines and the Bolshevik forces are reported to have met in at least two fights, with the counter-revolutionists the victors in both. The engagements occurred at Mohlev and at Tamanovka, and the Bolshevik losses are declared to have been heavy.

ENTERED JERUSALEM.

General Allenby, commander of the British forces in Palestine, has entered Jerusalem and taken over control of the Holy City. The populace greeted the British commander cordially. In a proclamation he told the inhabitants that all sacred buildings and holy places would be protected and maintained. Meanwhile the British army continues its successful operations in Palestine, having captured several additional positions from the Turks.
