BASIL MOTT WRITES OF FRANCE

Tells of the Work in Which He is Engaged.

Somewhere in France, May 12. Dear Mother:—

Three weeks ago I was sent to this hospital from the sanitary school. It is a comfy hospital now but may be changed to a base in the near future. At first I was placed in the quartermaster's department but for the past week have been working in the laboratory. It is a mobile laboratory, a separate organization, for the present attached to the hospital. I hope to be transferred to it permanently because the work is very interesting, for the most part along chemical and bacteriological lines.

Have not seen Howard Roland since we were separated at the classification camp; in fact have not been able to get in touch with him by mail.

No letters have reached me from home due, of course, to frequent changes of address. Imagine everything will come at once. This letter may reach you before the one I wrote Ray several days ago, because this is Mother's day and letters written to mothers on this day are to be delayed as little as possible.

This hospital is located in one of the most attractive sections of this wonderful country. Our billets are comfortable and everybody is well clothed and nourished. In fact the food is much better here than it was in the States, although the cantonments at home are supposed to give remarkable meals to the men. I have a wonderful appetite as always, and feel better physically than ever before.

Will write soon and let you know if I have been fortunate enough to get transferred to the laboratory.

May 20, 1918.

Dear Mother:—

Last Monday I was transferred to the laboratory which, as my previous letter explained, is supposed to be a mobile one. We are attached to the 26th camp hospital, and although a mobile organization, present indications lead me to believe we will be here for some time.

Our personnel consists of two officers, one a physician and experienced bacteriologist, the other a chemist who instructed at Cornell, and four enlisted men, including myself. Both officers are from Pennsylvania, one of the men from California, another from Kansas and the third an entomologist (one who studies insect life) from nowhere in particular, having traveled extensively in order to hunt bugs. As all are the best of good fellows my duties are a pleasure instead of a burden.

Waters from various sources are turned over to the laboratory for examination, but for the most part our work consists in microscopic examination of matter obtained by swabbing the nose, throat, etc., pus from infected wounds, blood taken from the individual, sputum and innumerable other things. The examination will disclose the presence or absence of harmful organisms (bacteria) and their nature, if present, so that the proper medical treatment can be given.

If a man appears to have diphtheria his throat is swabbed and an attempt made to discover harmful bacteria; in many instances only a few are present and not discovered, thereupon a second swab is made and the matter transferred to a tube containing a preparation on which the bacteria will thrive, if present. The tube is then placed in the incubator at body temperature for from 18 to 24 hours. A few bacteria in that time will produce millions so that it becomes easy to detect bacteria if present in the suspected material.

I have attempted to explain the character of our work, but don't want you to feel that I am exposed to contagion or infection, because such is not the case. We would not be safer if this were a knitting circle.

It is generally understood that permission will soon be given us to mention our location. In the meantime guess and I'll wager one hundred dollars you won't come within 150 miles of it.

Have not received any word from over there, due to having traveled around so much. Am permanently located at last. Write often.

Your affectionate son, BASIL.

CONVICT HALL A BAD MAN.

Escaped Prisoner Shot at Guard and Still Defies Capture.

William Hall, the Blair countian who escaped from the Rockview penitentiary, is still in this vicinity and created considerable excitement on Monday morning when he shot at guard Harry Whiteman at the Robert Bloom home near Pleasant View. From all accounts Hall spent Sunday night in a barn between Axe Mann and Pleasant Gap. At an early hour Monday morning he started toward Bellefonte and came in contact with a man named Zong who was coming in from Axe Mann to go to his work at the American Lime & Stone Co.

Hall walked along with him and after passing through Bellefonte asked the road to Lock Haven. He was told about the State road and also that he could go to Milesburg and down Bald Eagle valley. He chose the latter. Down at the Robert Bloom home he came face to face with guard Whiteman, who was on his way to Bellefonte to take the train for the penitentiary. Whiteman knew him and at once took him in hand. Hall told him he was awful hungry and he took him into Blooms to get something to eat. Once inside Whiteman attempted to search Hall when the latter suddenly drew a revolver and Whiteman bolted out of the house. Hall followed and fired two shots at Whiteman but failed to hit him. Hall ran and Whiteman took four shots at him, not knowing at the time whether they took effect, then hurried to Bellefonte and notified the penitentiary officials.

In the meantime the escaped prisoner made his way along the south side of the mountain to the Elmer Gordon home where he stopped and asked for something to eat. Mr. Gordon had gone to work and the woman who keeps house for him recognized Hall as a man she one time knew very well. She took him in and gave him breakfast and he told what had happened and all about himself. He showed the Gordon boy where Whiteman shot him in the right side just above the hip, but it was only a flesh wound.

In the meantime a large posse had been gathered and a search of the mountain made. The search was kept up Monday, Monday night and Tuesday but not a sight of the man was to be had. Tuesday evening about five o'clock he went down off of the mountain into Bald Eagle valley and stole two chickens from the Mrs. John Leathers home, then ducked back into the woods, not, however, without having been seen and recognized by Mrs. Leathers. A constant search has been kept up ever since but up to last evening no further trace of Hall had been found.

—William Doak, the deaf, dumb and blind man, cannot handle a gun to do his part in putting down the Hun, but he is not lacking in patriotism notwithstanding his affliction. Bill is selling red, white and blue lead pencils on the street and he has this to say: "Buy a pencil, please, but if you are able to go to war and use solid shot and shell, don't hide behind his patriotic pencils but go to the front and do their part." And just here it might be timely to tell a little incident of Bill's patriotism. During the week of the strenuous Red Cross campaign, on the night when the big mass meeting was held in Bellefonte, Bill made his way to the court house and standing on the porch waited until the approach of William Burnside. He made his way to that gentleman and placed a small piece of wrapped paper in his hand. Mr. Burnside was busy and stuck it in his vest pocket. The next morning the incident recurred to him and pulling the rolled up paper out of his pocket he opened it and there he found a quarter and a slip of paper marked "For the Red Cross." That quarter probably represented two days of Bill's time on the street selling lead pencils, and yet it was given voluntarily and cheerfully. And that is one reason why the "Watchman" now publishes his appeal to buy his Old Glory pencils.

—James C. Curtin, in an advertisement in the "Watchman" this week, is offering for sale his present home on the corner of Allegheny and Howard streets.

The Inside History of the War.

There have been many interesting viewpoints of the causes of war with Germany, and the German ideas and policies of world domination.

But no individual can speak so authoritatively and from personal knowledge of the real facts as Ambassador James W. Gerard.

In the wonderful feature film production made from Ambassador James W. Gerard's book, "My Four Years in Germany," you see scene after scene that eloquently exposes the Prussian menace to American and world freedom.

You see the Kaiser tell Gerard, after he had churlishly refused to see him for six months "that America had better look out after this war, I will stand no nonsense from her." You see the overrunning of Belgium, the German prison camps, the U-boat warfare, the underground pages of Germany diplomacy that Germany never intended Americans to find out.

It is a historic document of tremendous importance to every man and woman who would know the truth and stand loyally behind our government.

In this picture you will see why American troops are over there. You will see the real reasons why they went there and why they will stay there until the last man if necessary until German autocracy is broken.

No mere bit of fiction in motion pictures will hold your interest and attention as this most remarkable page in world history which created international sensation in print. "My Four Years in Germany" will be shown at the Nittany theatre in State College, on July 3rd and 4th.

The Patriotic League, What It Is?

People are asking, "What is the Patriotic League and its work?" It would take too much time and space to tell all there is to be told, so we will just deal with the League in this community.

In these busy days which mean so much to the whole world, no one can afford to be idle. And while we cannot all be sailors, soldiers or Red Cross nurses for Uncle Sam, yet there is work for all to do. So the Patriotic League is an organization through which every girl may link up and do her bit. The Patriotic League has a three-fold purpose for every girl who enrolls. This is specified in the pledge which is as follows:

"I pledge to express my patriotism by doing better than ever before whatever work I have to do; by rendering whatever special service I can to my community and country; by living up to the highest standards of character and honor and helping others to do the same."

Here in Bellefonte the League has about fifty active members, in addition to a high school branch of one hundred and twenty-five members. It meets for business the first Friday in each month. Classes in French and stenography have been formed. Two nights a month are spent in sewing for Belgian relief, and one evening a month is spent in a social way. New members will be heartily welcomed.

News of the Soldier Boys.

Major James G. Taylor spent Tuesday with friends in Bellefonte, having stopped off on his way east. During the past six months or more he has been located at Camp Pike, Nebraska where he assisted in the training of three divisions of the national army. But the fact that he stopped to Bellefonte to say good-bye to his friends looks as if his training days are over.

Hugh Quigley, son of Judge and Mrs. H. C. Quigley, who has been at Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass., at an officers' training camp, was this week transferred to Camp Hancock in order to give him the advantage of special training in machine gun service.

Ogden B. Malin spent Sunday with his father and sisters in Bellefonte. He has completed his training at the proving grounds at Aberdeen, Md., but expects to be there a few weeks yet.

Clyde Bartley, of Hublersburg, went to Altoona on Monday and enlisted in the U. S. ambulance service.

Case—McGowan.—The wedding of James Barry Case, of Washington, D. C., and Miss Marie Josephine McGowan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McGowan, of Spring Creek, was solemnized at eight o'clock mass at St. John's Catholic church on Tuesday morning. Father William E. Downes officiating. The attendants were Miss Agnes McGowan, a sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, and Raymond Popkins, of Washington, best man. Immediately following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home at which the only guests were the immediate members of the bridal party.

Mr. and Mrs. Case left on the 1:27 p. m. train for a wedding trip to Philadelphia and New York before taking up their residence in Washington where the bridegroom is a draughtsman in the Navy Department. Out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Popkins, Miss Ruth Case, a sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Catharine Neville, all of Washington, D. C., and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kellerman, of Coalport.

—James C. Krape, who has been the general factotum at the Bellefonte hospital the past ten years has handed in his resignation to take effect on or about July first. Mr. Krape spent last week visiting his brother George in Johnstown and while there had offers of several good positions carrying big wages and the lure of the money floating around that city was too much for him and he decided to go out and get some of it while the getting is good.

An entertainment will be given in the armory. Folk dancing, shadow play, music and an episode from Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream" will be the leading features of the program. Misses Martha Barnhart and Mary Schaad are the competent instructors, which insures the success of the evening. The Patriotic League asks the cooperation of the citizens of this community in their plans for a jolly Fourth.

The citizens of State College are planning to have the biggest Fourth of July in the history of the town, and that along perfectly safe and sane lines.
