There is a story afloat down the valley that one night last week a cer-tain gentleman from Bellefonte found himself down the state road near Cedar springs in the wilds of Clinton county with a stalled motor. He could not make it work so he hunted a phone and called one of the Bellefonte garages for help. The garage responded by sending down a man to make repairs. After trying the bat-teries and trying to locate the trouble one of the men suggested that the gasoline might have given out. But

C. L. Goodling, manager of the State College experimental farms, accompanied by landlord James T. Aikens, of the Nittany Inn, spent the gentleman in question was sure that was not the trouble. On exam-ining the tank, however, it was found filled the engine worked all right and there was no further trouble. And they all got back to Bellefonte in the

On Saturday last, Dean Louis E. Reber and Mrs. Reber came up from Philadelphia to spend Sunday at the

J. H. Beck home. Prof. Reber is still with the University of Wisconsin, but was called east by the government for service with the Shipping Board, and is at present located in Philadel-phia in charge of training work for phia, in charge of training work for officers and men entering the navy in the various lines. Their son Louis is in Arizona, a geologist with the Clark Copper Institute, and when called to service was exempted at the request of the company as being indispensable in their work of producing copper for the war. Hugh, their younger son, is a lieutenant at the front in France with the heavy artillery. Mrs. Re-ber's brothers are all in the service. Major John Price Jackson, Commis-sioner of Labor, is now in France in charge of government labor work, and the others hold responsible positions in different lines. Prof. Re-ber is a brother of Mrs. Beck and they are always welcome visitors in the Beck home. They returned to Philadelphia on Monday, via. Lewistown and Harrisburg.

Two Great Medicines

Supplement Each Other

They are Hood's Sarsaparilla and Peptiron, the combination of which is giving so much satisfaction in the treatment of the impure, impover-ished blood and weak, worn-out nerves that are so often found in the same individual nowadays. The use of both these medicines, even in cases where only one may appear to be indicated, is of great advantage. There is economy in it. 63-35 All druggists.
