Miss Margaret Witmyer, who has been in Bellefonte for some time past, is for the present at home with her grand-parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Harter. Miss Lydia Harter, of State College, has also been home for a week. Both young ladies have not been well, although neither one is afflicted with influenza.

U. S. Aids Returned Soldiers.

Returned soldiers will be retained in the military service until recovery is as complete as possible, says a Department of labor bulletin. The men will be grouped in three classes—those who can return to full military duty, those who can serve at home in military or civil life, and those who are no longer capable of military service. All three classes will be treated according to the most advanced methods, which will include various forms of therapy and gymnastic and mental occupation, in or-der that they may be physically re-stored and returned to a healthy and happy frame of mind.

Most men will be able to return to full military duty. For men in the second class many occupations are possible; they may take up agriculture, printing, woodworking or photography, or prepare themselves for the civil service, teaching or work as statisticians. A great number of trades and occupations are included in the list, and additions are constantly being made.

Men in the third group, so much disabled that they can no longer give even military service, may receive the special additional training offered by the Federal Board for Vocational Education. What France Did for Us.

The phrase "our debt to France" so inadequately if they mentioned de- The list is as follows: tails, that few Americans realize the nature or the extent of the help that France extended in our struggle for independence. Now that we are finally squaring that account in such splendid fashion it is desirable to know more of the early items. Just what did France do? To begin at the end, rather than at the beginning, the force that compel-led the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown consisted of 7,000 Americans, 6,000 French soldiers under Rochambeau and 3,000 sailors landed from the French fleet, the whole 16,-000 men being under command of Washington. In man-power those figures represent virtually all that France contributed, and if the force looks small in comparison to the more than a hundred times as many as this country has sent to France in the past year, let the relative forces engaged and the other circumstances be considered.

francs. That was a far larger sum than the figures indicate today, but appealed to the romantic nature of er. His only reward was a letter of his death, when his family was in poverty, Congress sent it $160,000—a sum in the estimation of Hamilton, less than one-seventh of what was

The country has put so much stress on the help of Lafayette, a major general in our army before he was 20, and who gave his wealth as freely as he did himself, that the other items have had too little prominence. Nor is it to be forgotten that Holland's loan of 10,000,000 francs at a particularly critical time was on the personal endorsement of the King of France. And if it is to be considered that what the French government did officially was largely inspired by jeal-ousy of England, it was nevertheless pure friendship for America and its cause that led Lafayette and Beau-marchais and their associates to contribute the help that counted most.

Gems of Thought.

It is better to get along with other people because you do right and are right than because you "have something on" them.

There are many who may be employed to correct one's misuse of grammar, but none to supply individuality of thought or expression. There comes a time when one is trying to play the dual role of friend and enemy when the mask can't be changed fast enough. Thereafter the cast is "enemy."

One of the things which adds pepper to a conversation is to be telling some incident, the outcome itself being the point of interest, and have some bright hearer whose mind is not on the subject of the narrative at all, interpolate with questions which are irrelevant, immaterial and not germane to the "case at bar." The tide of public opinion is already beginning to rise. As it one day swept away slavery, so it will one day rise and sweep even the old god Mars from off his pedestal.

-In laying out the 17-mile tangent of the motor highway across the Utah desert it was found very diffi-cult to carry on the work in the daytime. The sunlight reflected from the fields of glistening salt and alkali is so dazzling that it blinds the eyes, unless they are protected by dark colored glasses, and the rising heat waves distorts the shapes of objects sighted and produce fantastic effects. Under George F. McGonigle, State engineer, and member of the State Road Commission, this tangent was established by signal fires at night.

Rheumatism

The Way to Get Rid of it is to Remove the Cause.

The fact that rheumatism depends on an excess of uric acid in the blood, affecting the muscles and joints, producing inflammation, stiffness and pain, is well established. This excess is due to some defect in the process-is due to some defect in the processes of digestion and absorption, and to torpidity or sluggishness of the liver, kidneys and skin.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is very successful in the treatment of rheumatism because it acts directly, with purifying effect, on the blood, and through the blood on the liver, kidneys and skin, which it stimulates, and builds up the whole system.

Get rid of these rhematic pains and aches by taking this medicine.

HAD RHEUMATISM FOR TWENTY YEARS.

Now Well; Goldine Did It.

"For twenty years I have been troubled with muscular rheumatism so badly that I had to be helped in putting on my coat. I was like many others, had no faith in patent medicines. My son wanted me to try Gol-dine Alterac.

When I had taken one bottle my rheumatism was all gone. I was troubled with kidney trouble so badly that I could not rest at night. Now that trouble is all gone. I take a dose of Goldine before each meal and I never have any trouble with my stomach. Before taking Goldine I had sour stomach and had taken pounds of soda, it being the only thing that gave me relief. Now I feel fine and know Goldine did it.
