To Put a Man in Army Costs State About $10.

Harrisburg.—It cost the State of Pennsylvania about $10 for each man drafted into the National army. A financial statement just completed by Major W. G. Murdock, chief draft officer, shows $1,797,983 dis-bursed in payment of 24,405 bills incurred in the administration of the draft system in Pennsylvania. He says: "With approximately 225,000 men inducted into the service the cost per man to date is $8, but it is esti-mated that by the time all bills are paid the average cost per man will be about $10." It was necessary to re-turn to local boards for correction ap-proximately 12,000 of the 24,405 bills paid

Pennsylvania furnished 7669 men for the Student Officers' Training corps and sent 9577 men to technical schools for specialized training of a mechanical character by the operation of the draft system during the period of the war.

In the case of men sent to technic-al schools the great majority receiv-ed instruction of a valuable nature and general educational advantages serving in the army, said Major Murdock, in commenting upon the fact that many of the men sent to institutions had been out of school for some time. The total number of men furnished to the several student officers' camps and technical schools established by the army at colleges in Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Easton, Erie, Lancaster, State College and other places, was 17,246. The men sent to the technic-al courses were all white, qualified for general military service, and with grammer school aducations as first

Miss Kathryne Frick, the State's ward at the Pennsylvania institution for the deaf, Mount Airy, than whom there is no brighter or happier deaf, dumb and blind girl, celebrated in a quiet manner last week her nineteenth birthday, receiving congratulations from many friends in the institution and from her home in Harrisburg. Nine years ago the State adopted the girl, making an appropriation for her education at the Mount Airy institution. She was frail and little developed, was nervous to the point of be-ing hysterical and without any training or education. Under the supervision of Dr. Crou-ter, superintendent of the institution, and the personal care of her pains-taking teacher, Miss Julia Foley, the child developed wonderfully. Since then Miss Frick has advanced in every branch of her studies, marvelously reading the lips of her teacher, operating a typewriting machine and pos-sessing other added accomplishments She enjoys excellent health and is happy "as the day is long."

Largest Mine Laid by U.S.

Some of the accomplishments of the American navy may now be made public.

From American naval sources the United Press learns that the Ameri-can navy so far has provided escort for 900,000 troops, which is nearly fifty per cent. of the total of American troops in France. American ships also escorted twenty-seven per cent. of allied and neutral shipping, including merchantmen, supply ships, munitions ships and troop ships. A mine barrage 360 miles long-the longest in the world has just been completed from Scotland to Norway, completely enclosing the North Sea. The American navy laid eighty per cent. of these mines with about 57,000 American-made specially designed mines. This is regarded as one of the greatest naval feats in history and was previously believed impossible. The mines were transported from America to two gigantic naval bases where they were assembled.
