

NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY.

Miss Janet Potter is in Philadelphia this week consulting a specialist in regard to rheumatic trouble with which she has been suffering of late.

Major H. Laird Curtin is confined to his home with appendicitis, a recurrence of a former attack which kept him housed up ten days or two weeks.

The Thespians of State College will this year play at Sunbury, Harrisburg, Lancaster, Tyrone and Bellefonte, the tour to be made as usual during the Easter vacation.

Only 46 more days until the opening of the trout fishing season and the disciples of Izaak Walton will soon be furnishing up their rods and lines and laying in a supply of fish bait.

Governor Sprout on Monday appointed E. S. Bayard, of Pittsburgh, and Edward R. Keiss, of Williamsport, as members of the board of trustees of The Pennsylvania State College.

The degree team of Centre Lodge I. O. F., of Bellefonte, paid a fraternal visit to the State College Lodge on Monday night and conferred degrees upon a good-sized class of applicants.

Jesse Derstine has resigned his position at the P. R. R. freight office in this place and on Sunday will leave for Juniata where he and his brother, Frank Derstine, will engage in the laundry business.

James William Barlet is the name of a new baby boy who arrived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Barlet Jr., on Tuesday morning. The youngster weighs 9 1/2 pounds and he and his mother are doing fine.

Are you a regular attendant at the Lyric? If not, you are missing some very good pictures. Pictures that will interest and amuse you and make an hour seem like a few minutes. You can't go wrong any evening in the week, as the Lyric always has something good. Try it.

The income tax man who has been at the court house this week can be seen there today and tomorrow and Monday and Tuesday of next week by any person desirous of having his assistance in making out their income tax returns which must be sent in by March 15th. Week after next the tax man will be at Phillipsburg all week.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Julia Gregg Curtin, the younger daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Curtin, of Bellefonte, and Eugene Earl Stanley, of Philadelphia. Miss Curtin has been spending the past two months in Philadelphia with her cousin, Mrs. John Bair and her family, but is now arranging to return to Bellefonte, to prepare for an early June wedding.

About one hundred and fifty people attended the Washington birthday entertainment of the Presbyterian Sunday school at the chapel on Tuesday evening. Superintendent James R. Hughes represented the Father of His Country and was master of ceremonies while the program included only a few speeches, some music and a social time generally. Ice cream and cake were served free during the evening.

Shortly before three o'clock on Saturday morning residents on Howard and East Lamb streets were awakened out of their sweet repose by the shrill cries of a woman for help. An investigation later in the morning revealed the fact that the cries came from Mrs. Carrie Owens, who claimed that a man had tried to get into her house. Her cries evidently frightened him away as he was not seen by any of the neighbors.

The motion picture of Owen Johnson's story, "Virtuous Wives," which will be shown at the Scenic next Monday and Tuesday, should have a peculiar attraction to Centre county movie fans. Many people doubtless read the story in the Cosmopolitan, but the fact that Mr. Johnson is known in Bellefonte and was the husband of Mlle Cecile de Lagarde will create an additional desire to see his story enacted upon the screen. This will be only one of a lot of big programs to be shown at the Scenic next week.

A jingling, joyful comedy, with sparkling music and pretty girls, is what is promised all who see the "Million Dollar Doll" at Garman's, Tuesday evening, March 4th, when she makes her appearance in this city. A company of recognized musical comedy stars, and a real beauty chorus which sings haunting tunes, with pretty sensational dances, in costumes of great beauty, that are a perfect riot of color, will present this new musical comedy. Don't miss it. Curtain goes up at 8:15 sharp. Prices, 50 and 75 cents, $1.00 and a few at $1.50. Make your reservations early.

A. A. Dale Esq., returned from Philadelphia last Saturday and is feeling very much encouraged over the treatment and advice he received from the physicians at the University hospital. Mr. Dale has been afflicted with a bad sore in the left side of his mouth for some time and he was somewhat apprehensive lest it prove to be a cancerous nature. At the hospital, however, he was informed that the sore was the result of an infection caused by a bad fitting tooth plate and he was given an electrical needle treatment and has hopes now of becoming relieved of the distressing affection.

GRAYS GET LONG SENTENCES. Father Given Six to Seven and a Half Years, Sons Seven and a Half to Nine.

Irvin G. Gray, George F. Gray and Clyde G. Gray were called before the court Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock to hear the disposition made by the court of the motion for a new trial in their cases.

Irvin G. Gray was the first of the defendants to stand up at the clerk's desk and the court said to him: "In the three cases, in which you are charged with the crime of larceny, the court has refused new trials, and this applies not only to you, but to your two sons also.

While the court may have erred in some minor detail in these trials, the court is perfectly satisfied that you and your sons had a fair trial and that you were each and all properly convicted of these crimes. The juries which tried you so stated by their verdicts and the court is of the same opinion, and if you had fair trials the verdicts of the juries must be accepted.

The court has carefully reviewed the testimony, and is satisfied that taken as a whole you had absolutely fair trials in every particular. You may not feel that way about it, but the court is convinced of that fact. A great many things which were not revealed in the trial of these cases, owing to the technicality of the law, further convince the court that you are guilty of these crimes—not as an accessory, as your counsel has suggested, but as principal.

In passing this sentence upon you, which it is the duty of the court to do—and it is not a pleasant duty—we say to you that we are imposing these sentences, not only as a punishment to you, but as a warning to others that they cannot live in Centre county and violate the laws of this Commonwealth.

Impression is general that for quite a number of years you have been more or less of a menace to your community, and the verdicts of the juries in these particular cases justifies that belief. The court might say a great many things to you that he has in mind, but does not feel it necessary at this time to do so, except to say to you that after your sentences have been finished the court trusts you will come back to Centre county and show the people of your community that you can lead an honest and a decent life. And these remarks I desire also to apply to your two sons.

The sentence in No. 5 December sessions, 1918, is that you pay a fine of one dollar to the Commonwealth for the use of the county of Centre, the costs of prosecution, that you restore the property stolen, if not already restored, or pay the value of the same, and that you undergo imprisonment in the western penitentiary for a period of not less than two years, nor more than two years and six months.

The court then passed identical sentence in Nos. 8 and 9 December sessions, 1918, the second sentence to commence immediately upon the expiration of the first, and the third to commence immediately upon the expiration of the second. The prisoner at the bar then said to the court, clasping his hands together, "All that I have to say is that I never took the cattle."

The court reminded him that under the evidence produced that was shown to be true, and that they were taken by his sons.

George F. Gray was then called before the court and was sentenced in No. 5 December sessions, 1918, to pay a fine of one dollar, the costs of prosecution, to restore the property stolen, if not already restored, or pay the value of the same, and to undergo imprisonment in the western penitentiary for a period of not less than two years and six months, nor more than three years. A like sentence was imposed on Nos. 8 and 9 December sessions, 1918, the second sentence to commence immediately upon the expiration of the first, and the third to commence immediately upon the expiration of the second.

Clyde G. Gray was then called and given sentences identical with those given to his brother George.

Mr. Runkle, of counsel for the defendants, then stated to the court that he desired to present a petition for a supersedeas and would like the court to fix the amount of bail to be required in case a supersedeas was granted.

The court said to Mr. Runkle that he did not propose to fix any bail at the present time, and was not sure that he would grant the supersedeas prayed for.

The three men were taken to jail pending further action.

February Court News.

The regular term of February court convened on Monday morning with Judge Quigley presiding. J. L. Holmes, of State College, was made foreman of the grand jury. The list of cases was gone over and those not ready for trial marked continued. The session was remarkable for the fact that there were only three bills of indictment to give the grand jury, and as they were all minor cases, that body completed its considerations Monday morning, finding true bills in each case. Monday afternoon they visited and inspected the public buildings, suggested a few improvements and were discharged.

property. The jury returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $3000. Commonwealth vs. Ruth Barner, assault and battery. Prosecutrix Maude Peters. Verdict of guilty returned. Sentence was suspended upon the payment of costs within thirty days.

Commonwealth vs. James R. Martin, charged with speeding. After hearing the testimony the court ruled that the case was outside the jurisdiction of the court of quarter sessions and directed the jury to find a verdict for the defendant and the county to pay the costs. Similar case against L. H. Musser and Frank M. Crawford were disposed of in the same manner.

Convicted of f. and b. Charles Baker was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, costs and nine months in the county jail.

Hosterman & Stover vs. Sarah E. Homan, being an action to recover on a book account. Verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $558.56.

Regular court adjourned on Wednesday and yesterday naturalization court was held.

Three Men Plead Guilty, Two Discharged, One Sentenced.

Three men were brought before Judge Quigley for sentence last Saturday morning after two of them had plead guilty to the charge of larceny and one to skipping a board bill, the first two being discharged because of extenuating circumstances and the latter sent to jail.

The first man called up was Jack Gray, a southern negro, who was charged with stealing a pocketbook belonging to W. S. Wilt, in Grebe's restaurant, Phillipsburg. The district attorney stated that Wilt claimed the pocketbook had been taken out of his pocket and that it contained a twenty dollar bill. In his own defense Gray stated that he had been in Grebe's restaurant drinking. He admitted he saw Wilt there and when he was about to leave he saw a pocketbook lying on the floor which he picked up and put into his pocket. He then went to Retort, where he worked in the brick yards and examined the pocketbook, which contained 80 cents in money.

The next day he was arrested by state policemen on the charge of stealing the pocketbook and the book and his own money, amounting in all to $17.19 taken. The court was impressed with the way Gray told his story and ordered that five dollars of the money be given him to get back to his work and the balance to be appropriated as partial payment of the costs, sentence being suspended on condition that Gray arrange to pay the balance of the costs.

The next man called up was James Welland, who was charged with stealing clothing from a room in the Passmore house, Phillipsburg. Mr. Welland stated that he was working in Clearfield county but had gone to Phillipsburg to spend a day or two and put up at the Passmore. The evening of the second day he had been drinking considerable and when he was ready to go to bed the landlord had given his room to another man and he had to go to another hotel about two blocks away. Before he left he went up to his old room to get some clothes he had there. The next morning about six o'clock state policemen came into his room and arrested him for stealing another man's clothes, and the worst of it was the clothing was found on the floor of his room. When he went to get his own clothing he admitted he was pretty well intoxicated and got the wrong clothing. The court suspended sentence upon Welland on condition that he arrange for the payment of the costs and refrain from drink for a period of one year.

The last case called was Charles W. Colyer, who had been before the court last July for jumping a board bill and was paroled on condition that he pay the bill and costs. In all the time since he had paid eight dollars, which he sent his attorney, S. D. Gettigg. When Mr. Gettigg was asked if he had anything to say for his client he merely stated the facts, saying he had sent him eight dollars, seven of which he applied to the costs and kept one dollar on his fees. The court told him that was a poor principle to follow, as he should look out for his fees first, and he sentenced Colyer to pay a fine of twenty-five dollars, costs and three months in the county jail.

The various assessors throughout Centre county are having a rather perplexing time of it just now making the usual triennial assessment. Before they started in on their work they were instructed to increase all valuations of real estate ten per cent., and this fact is calling forth a big kick from property owners. Some of them even put up the plea that they should be exempt from the increase because they had purchased Liberty bonds and war savings stamps. The assessors were also instructed to ascertain the boundary lines of every farm and lot in their precinct and this is calling forth another kick on the part of property owners, who do not stop to think and realize that the assessor is but following out his instructions as required by law and can't do any different. And if they fail or refuse to give him the information requested they will probably be required to do so to some properly constituted officer of the law. If the property owner feels that he has just cause for redress the proper place to present it will be before the County Commissioners at the time of the holding of the appeals.

Mrs. E. Lloyd Rogers Died of Burns and Shock.

Mrs. E. Lloyd Rogers, wife of the principal of the Bellefonte High school, passed away in the Bellefonte hospital last Saturday morning as the result of being badly burned at her home in the Aiken block by the explosion of a pan containing turpentine, on Friday morning. In his efforts to extinguish the flames which enveloped his wife Mr. Rogers had his hands terribly burned and has also been in a serious condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers occupied the third floor apartments in the Aiken block. Their little daughter, aged ten months, was suffering with a bad cold and they were giving her the thermol treatment. An alcohol lamp was being used and about nine o'clock Friday morning Mr. Rogers decided to fill the container with turpentine. Instead of diluting the fluid he poured it in at its full strength. The turpentine caught fire and caused the lamp to explode. At the time Mr. Rogers was at the side of the child's bed, under a sheet which had been stretched as a covering to keep down the fumes. When the lamp exploded his first thought naturally was to save the child and he knocked the sheet to one side, not knowing his wife was nearby, but unfortunately the flames from the exploded lamp enveloped her and in a moment her clothing was on fire. Mr. Rogers quickly grabbed his wife in his arms and carried her to the bathroom but by the time he got the flames extinguished she was fearfully burned on the hands, arms, head and face and the upper part of the body. Fortunately the flames burned out and did not set fire to the room nor the child's bed.

As soon as possible both Mr. and Mrs. Rogers were taken to the Bellefonte hospital where it was found necessary to administer opiates to the unfortunate woman to deaden the pain. At that her sufferings were intense until relieved by death on Saturday morning. While her burns were terrible Mrs. Rogers had for some time past been troubled with her heart and it is probable that the shock contributed to her death.

Her maiden name was Verna Mouser. She was a daughter of William H. and Ida Strickhouser Mouser and was born at Shippensburg on November 8th, 1890, hence was 28 years, 3 months and 14 days old. She was married to Mr. Rogers several years ago while her husband was engaged in school work in Lycoming county. They came to Bellefonte almost a year ago and during their residence here Mrs. Rogers had made a number of warm friends who deeply deplore her untimely death.

In addition to her husband she leaves her ten-months-old daughter, Josephine Louise; her parents and a number of brothers and sisters living in Detroit, Mich.

Funeral services were held in the Methodist church at 2:30 o'clock on Monday afternoon by Dr. E. H. Yocum, after which burial was made in the Union cemetery.

Those who were here for the funeral were Mrs. Rogers' parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Mouser, and Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Anderson, of Detroit, Mich., Mrs. Anderson being a sister of Mrs. Rogers; her aunt, Mrs. John Rogers, of Harrisburg; Glenn Rogers, of Philadelphia, a brother of Mr. Rogers, and Mrs. C. A. Jacobson, of Williamsport, a cousin; and Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Wilson and Henry J. Eisenmauger, also of Williamsport.

Dr. E. E. Sparks, of State College, Suffering a Nervous Collapse.

The many friends of Dr. Edwin Erie Sparks, president of The Pennsylvania State College, will regret to learn that he is suffering with a nervous collapse and has been compelled to relinquish his work at the College temporarily. He has been granted a year's leave of absence by the board of trustees in the hope that he will be able to entirely recuperate from his shattered condition.

At present Dr. Sparks is at his home at the College under the care of two nurses. A specialist from the University of Pennsylvania has been to see him, and aside from a partial loss of memory his condition this week seems a little easier and more encouraging. He will remain at his home a week or two longer and will then be taken to the University hospital where he can be under constant observation of trained specialists in nervous diseases.

"Watchman" Bulletin Brings Return of Lost Pocketbook.

Last Friday afternoon Miss Gerginski, head nurse at the Bellefonte hospital, left that institution and hurried in Water street to catch the Pennsylvania-Lehigh train at 1:26 to leave on a little vacation. When she arrived at the depot and went to buy her ticket she discovered she had lost her pocketbook containing $71. As it was all the money she had she naturally was compelled to forego the pleasure of the trip as well as undergo the heartrending pangs of her serious loss.

The matter was promptly reported to the police and chief Harry Dukeman came to this office and suggested that a bulletin in the window might bring results. The bulletin was posted and the result was it was read on Saturday by a young lady who promptly imparted the information that the pocketbook was at her home, that of Mrs. Della Miller, on Willowbank street. It had been found by Mr. Weader, who makes his home there and was being held to await a claimant. The pocketbook and money were promptly turned over to Miss Gerginski who naturally was overjoyed to get her property back.

The sequel is it pays to advertise in the "Watchman," even if it is only a bulletin in the window.

The county auditors have completed their work and their statement is now in the hands of the printers.

A Man With a Grouch Is Sometimes Justified, But a Woman, Never!
